The Papers of the Bibliographical Society of America

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

—

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY
NEW YORK

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
LONDON

THE THOMAS C. LOTHIAN COMPANY
MELBOURNE

THE MARUZEN-KABUSHIKI-KAISHA
TOKYO, OSAKA, KYOTO, FUKUOKA, SENDAI

THE COMMERCIAL PRESS, LIMITED
SHANGHAI

The Papers of The Bibliographical Society of America

VOLUME TWENTY-THREE

1929

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS
CHICAGO · ILLINOIS

PUBLICATION COMMITTEE

JAMES B. CHILDS - Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.
CARL B. RODEN - - - - Chicago Public Library
ANDREW KEOGH - - - - Yale University Library

The Society does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by contributors of papers

COPYRIGHT 1930 BY THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. PUBLISHED JUNE AND JULY 1930
COMPOSED AND PRINTED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, U.S.A.

CONTENTS

Bibliotheca Thordarsoniana: A Private Collection of Scientific and Technological Literature
J. Christian Bay 1

Confederate Imprints in the Henry E. Huntington Library Unrecorded in Previously Published Bibliographies of Such Material . . . . Willard O. Waters 18

A Survey of the Bibliography of English Literature, 1475–1640: With Especial Reference to the Work of the Bibliographical Society of London
George Watson Cole, L.H.D. 1

BIBLIOTHECA THORDARSONIANA

A PRIVATE COLLECTION OF SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNOLOGICAL LITERATURE

BRIEFLY DESCRIBED BY J. CHRISTIAN BAY

THE collection of book treasures here described in its merest outlines has grown out of a purpose and will-power founded upon the peculiar form of skill known as ingenium Islandicum, a specific enlightenment on which a vast amount of entertaining literature not only may be, but actually has been, written.

In the factory district north of the Chicago River stands the stately building of the Thordarson Electric Company. This organization employs more than fifteen hundred persons. A small door opens from the general offices into a spacious room which contains a large number of models of the chief's numerous inventions. Another small door opens into the chief's private office—and when it does open, the visitor at once is surrounded by a collection of about twenty-five thousand books. Here, long rows of specially constructed steel cases line the walls, and from the farther end the chief himself smiles at the visitor. His name is Chester H. Thordarson, and he is the custodian of the aforesaid ingenium, the creative power, the faith, the knowledge, the inspiration, on the basis of which his collection has been assembled. It is needless to say that he masters electricity and electric processes and machinery, for through this knowledge he is known farther than I can say. His collection of books, however, is far less known, and I deem it of interest to us all to explain the spirit, purpose, and influence of this most unusual and remarkable library at a time when the spirit of book-collecting usually moves in circles far different from the one drawn here.

Mr. Thordarson's library, briefly, contains original sources and monumental works covering the history and development of science and technology. It has been brought together, piece by piece, with infinite care and with an almost uncanny judgment —here the ingenium comes into play—during a period of thirty years.

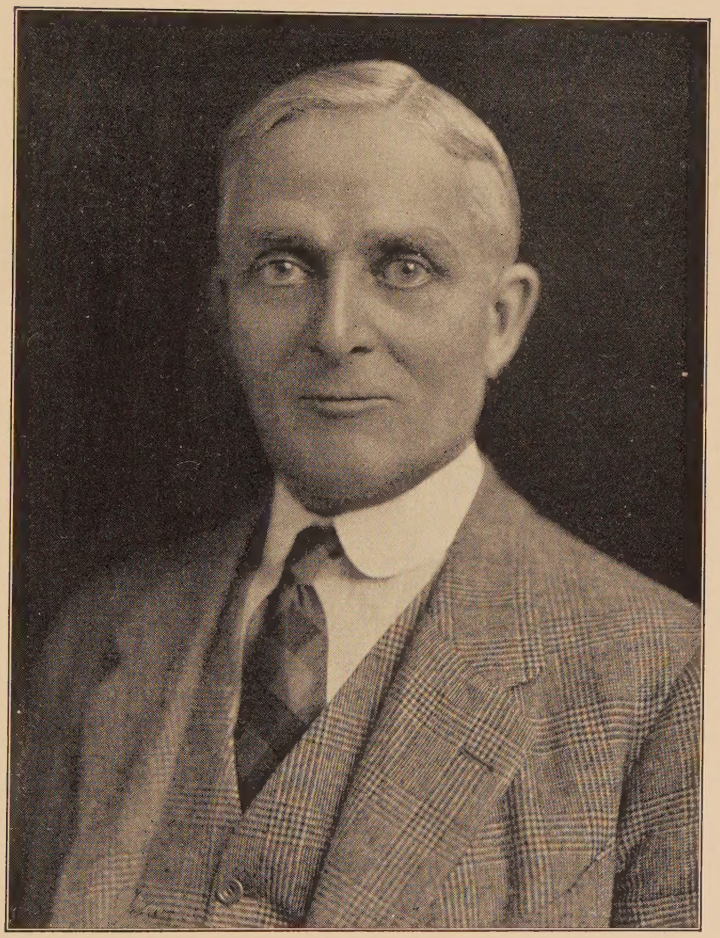
We might take a different starting-point for this account. We might state that thirty years ago a young American of Icelandic birth, who had spent all but his earliest life in the Middle West, arrived in Chicago and began work in his chosen field of electric manufacture. Mr. Thordarson maintains that his formal education is quite incidental, which merely means that he received no academic training.[1] From his ancestors, his home, and his circle he had, however, absorbed spiritual impulse through Icelandic tradition; and in a wide-awake mind this is an indelible enlightenment. Mr. Thordarson, independently, continued these traditions, transferred them into his professional work, and created a number of inventions which grew into a system, the nerve of which is high-tension electricity. It became necessary to construct, also, machinery for the mass production of these inventions, and thus began a manufacturing activity which gradually developed into a system of large proportions.

Mr. Thordarson collected books since his early youth. At first his interest centered upon Icelandica and Islando-Americana. This part of the library is continued and now is considered the third in its field—Cornell University (the Fiske Collection) and Harvard University being more extensive—in America. After some time, however, Mr. Thordarson's interests took a new turn. His historical direction of mind, at once a heritage and a method, craved information on other matters than national traditions and events. The young man, whose ability broke a way into the hidden world of nature and created new practical combinations, became interested in the forms in which mankind accepted and explained the manifestations of nature and in the means by which we have made ourselves masters of the raw materials within our reach. This readily led to inquiries into the historical development of our use of the forces in nature.

[1] On June 24, 1929, the University of Wisconsin conferred upon Mr. Thordarson the honorary degree of Master of Arts.



CHESTER H. THORDARSON

MR. THORDARSON'S FIRST LIBRARY ROOM

This interest took hold of the young collector and met in him an unusual combination of qualifications and wishes. A historical-poetical view of life, combined with talent and practical experience in the exact and the natural sciences, became his special sense and directive power in the field of book-collecting.

Still, Mr. Thordarson was unconscious of any philosophy when he began to collect books systematically. All he demanded of his acquisitions was—and still is—that the books met with his interests and answered his questions. As time passed, this element drew into the background, as his instinct became more reliable. Perhaps this instinct really is a confession of faith. But no matter what mental powers enter into the pursuit of systematic collecting, one thing is certain: It involves an expense of patience, restraint, and money to confess one's faith in books. As time passed, this difficulty lost its force in Mr. Thordarson's case—lost it as completely as it is possible in this marvelous Western hemisphere.

Every organized collection is characterized not only by a guiding idea but also by a plan. Mr. Thordarson's library embraces original historical sources within the following groups:

Exact sciences:	Physics, chemistry, alchemy
Natural sciences:	Zoölogy, botany
	Scientific travels
	Scientific illustration
Technical arts:	Technology
	Agriculture
	Surveying—building arts
	Cooking
	Medicine
	Popular medicine, health
Cultural history:	Symbolics, heraldic antiquities
	Folk lore

This plan naturally has been expanded and contracted in spots. It has grown into definite form slowly, which is explained by the fact that the monumental works now forming the more conspicuous part of the library mostly were acquired within the last fifteen years.

Beside a plan, every organized collection also has certain cardinal works, or cornerstones, by which it is fundamentally characterized. I shall name a few of the chief ones:

Shakespeare's Poems, 1640
Izaak Walton's Compleat angler, 1st ed., 1653, and the subsequent four editions, 1655, 1661, 1668, and 1676
Thomas Wilson's The art of rhetorique, 1585
Thomas Tusser, Five hundred pointes of good husbandrie, 1580
Roger Ascham, The schole-master, 1570
The great herbal, 1561 (Hortus sanitatis in English)
Hugh Platt, The jewell house of art and nature, 1594
Thomas Elyot, The castell of health, 1541

Each one of these books forms, as it were, the starting-point of one phase of Anglo-Saxon faith and knowledge.

In this connection it ought to be pointed out that C. H. Thordarson not only collects books for definite purposes, but reads his books with rare attention and perseverance. An Icelandic memory is a faculty which ranks among mental qualities like the Arabic horse among breeds of equine wonders. There is a unique quality about it. It involves recollection, remembrance, mental absorption, and tenacious reproduction, but also recombines, blends, and vivifies the absorbed matter. Hence Mr. Thordarson has the rare power of turning each significant book into a living tradition, and I know nobody else capable, as he is, of defining a book's historical position by means of quotations and of laying bare the very heart and soul of the books that win his sympathy. No formal training alone ever could develop this power. In the good old days each seat of learning had its professor of humanities—this collector, within his library, is a professor of humaniora.

In the same connection it also should be noted that Mr. Thordarson's library aims to include especially Anglo-Saxon sources. No individual collector can adduce to his library all Germanic and Romance antiquities derived from vast fields of knowledge without bursting the framework which surrounds his work and study. In the present case, too, the collector does not pretend to be a scientific worker. His sole purpose, sufficient for any man, is to collect—through the medium of great books—materials serving for the development of a valid and defensible view of life.

Man's first effort was directed toward the subjection of the soil.

For this reason, and because pioneers of all ages had the same purpose, the history of agriculture forms a very large chapter of the general history of mankind. The classical writers on agriculture outside of Greece and Rome penned their works at a time when the peasants—the men who sustained permanent dwellings—were roused into a consciousness of the position of mankind in life's ecology; and their little books were written with unconscious, but entrancing, clearness. The most significant of all of these writers was Thomas Tusser, who published, in 1557, his work, A hundred good pointes of husbandrie. It covered but thirteen small pages, but each of these contained the accumulated wisdom of centuries. The text is composed of verse, and it is true of these verses that if somebody in this day and age would adopt them as a guide of farm management, he would not be likely to go very far astray. After 1570 the title of the new editions was changed to Five hundred pointes of good husbandrie, and the text, with some expansion and little modification, was preserved unchanged from century to century. Tusser died about 1580, and Mr. Thordarson owns an edition dated this year, probably the last one revised by the author's own hand. The library also contains the editions of 1586, 1593, 1604 (a very pretty book), 1630, 1672, 1680 (the last black-letter edition), and later editions dated 1710 and 1744.

The following verses illustrate Tusser's manner:

Still crop upon crop many farmers do take
And reap little profit, for greediness' sake.

Good land that is severall, crops may have three,
In champion country it may not so be.

Some useth at first a good fallow to make,
To sow thereon barley, the better to take,

Next that to sow pease, and of that to sow wheat,
Then fallow again, or lie lay for thy neat.

Where barley ye sow after rye or else wheat,
If land be unlusty, the crop is not great:

So lose ye your cost, to your corsie and smart,
And land overburdened is clean out of heart.

This illustrates eloquently the advantages of the four-field system: fallow, barley, peas, and wheat. Rye after wheat is poor economy, and any crop after wheat is folly.

Whoever is interested in pursuing this subject will gain much valuable information from reading Donald McDonald's historical work, Agricultural writers (London, 1900).

Many of the old agricultural books possess curious titles, but their wording clings to the reader's memory. The naïve sound of the titles is only apparent. Their appeal in early days must have been direct and immediate, as in the case of Samuel Hartlib's Designe for plentie, by a universal planting of fruit-trees (1655). It recommends the planting of fruit-trees along roads and paths, quite as in our day. The praise of husbandry, the greatest of all vocations, is sounded in God speede the plough, an anonymous small quarto dated 1601. This book seems a unique copy and, with the 1580 Tusser, constitutes the most precious gem in the Elizabethan husbandry literature.

Barnaby Googe, Foure bookes of husbandry, is represented by three editions, 1577 (the first), 1578, and 1601. It contains a selection of Conrad Heresbach's classical handbook of farming and was widely read in early days. Its companion is Thomas Hill, The profitable art of gardening (1593). Hill also is the author of one of the earliest works on technology in English, The schole of skil.

Tusser warned against greediness. The warning, which held good in 1890 when our own farmers planned to take a wheat crop from the soil each year without the courtesy of fertilizing, was sounded as early as 1611 in a small but significant book entitled The commons' complaint, which treats of two subjects, the destruction of forests and the abuse of farm lands, and advises how to avoid these forms of social suicide.

FOVRE Bookes of HVSBANDRY,

Collected by M. Conradus Heresbachius,
Councellour to the high and mightie
Prince, the Duke of Cleue:

Containing the whole art and trade of Husbandry, Gardening, Grafting, and Planting, with the antiquitie, and commendation thereof.

Newly Englished, and encreased by Barnaby Googe, Esquire.

GENESIS. 3. 19.
In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eate thy bread, till thou be turned againe into the ground, for out of it wast thou taken: yea, dust thou art, and to dust shalt thou returne.

LONDON.
Printed by Tho. Wight. 1601.

The Orchard, and the Garden:

CONTAINING CERtaine neceſſarie, ſecret, and ordinarie knowledges in Grafting and Gardening.

Wherein are deſcribed ſundrie waies to graffe, and diuerſe proper new plots for the Garden.

Gathered from the Dutch and French.

Alſo to know the time and ſeaſon, when it is good to ſovv and replant all manner of Seedes.

LONDON,
Printed by Adam Iſlip.
1596.

Walter Blith, in his The English improver, or a new survey of husbandry (1649), explained how to do things rationally and well. Blith, who described himself as "a lover of ingenuity," even was able to do still better as he advanced in years, and published the Improver improved.

No wonder, then, that the farmer, the "husbandman," throve during the seventeenth century. As early as in 1654 he began to look beyond the fences and hedges of his estate and discover the Country-man's recreation, and S. Leukenor even suggested that he travel and make useful observations in foreign lands (A discourse not altogether unprofitable nor unpleasant for such as are desirous to know the customs of forraine traveling); he warns his readers, however, against staying too long in Leipzig, a place where people drink like pigs and cheat when sober.

All of these books are represented in Mr. Thordarson's library by fine copies, and many other interesting volumes might be named. The complement to this group is another, comprising several hundred books on horticulture and fruit-trees printed before the year 1700. The rarest and most noteworthy is a unique copy of The orchard and the garden, printed by Islip in London, 1596. Of William Copland, The craft of grafting (1560), two copies are known, one in the Thordarson Library. Another, very attractive book on gardening is A new orchard and garden (1623 and 1648), with this motto:

Skill and paines
Bring fruitful gaines.

In 1657 incontrovertible proof was furnished of the fact that the proper tending of fruit-trees resulted even in spiritual growth, the argument being voiced by R. Austin in his book, The spirituall use of an orchard.

Among the many demure-looking books on gardening, Reynolde Scot's A perfite platform of a hoppe-garden stands out as an exquisite and even gorgeous piece of printing. The copy before us is perfect and represents the first attempt in England at describing the cultivation of hops.

Most agricultural writers recount common experience of skilled and unskilled husbandmen. M. Cook, in The manner of raising, ordering and improving fruit trees (1676), reserves his right, however, "to think and judge as cause I find," and adds, for emphasis: "My rule is not another's mind."

On the subject of manuring, one of the earliest books is Richard Gardiner's Profitable instructions for the manuring (1603), a book deserving of a new edition.

These few titles, picked from hundreds deserving of attention, must suffice for the present survey. The comprehensive literary agricultural apparatus indicated by the names of Markham, Samuel Hartlib, and Taylor is completely covered by the catalogue of Mr. Thordarson's library. Anybody would be proud of possessing a few of these, especially Hartlib's Designe for plentie (1655), an extraordinarily rare book—rare on account of its intrinsic value—and a monument to the cumulated skill of the husbandman in times when country life and work on the land were synonymous with a safe existence.

A curious piece of agricultural sociology deserves special mention: A new system of agriculture, or a plain, easy and demonstrative method of speedily growing rich (1755). This road to riches is to guard and save the fruitful soil, the black earth, which often is washed away and carried into rivers and lakes by rain and inundation. The author recommends carrying this soil away from lowlands and river borders, depositing it in safe places and surrounding it with stone walls—a method used for hundreds of years in China and other densely populated countries.

We now turn our kaleidoscope to the herbals. These books, in the literature of every country, occupy an honored place. Only within the last thirty years have they been collected systematically. Of the greatest one of all, the Hortus sanitatis, a legion of editions and elaborations is known. The first English edition, printed in London in 1561 by Richard Pynson, was based upon Philippe le Noir's French edition, but is a much more dignified book than this. Mr. Thordarson's copy of the edition of 1561 is a remarkably beautiful copy, a perfect impression with broad margins, bound in contemporary covers of oak and pigskin studded with brass beads. It rivals Shakespeare's Poems as the grand piece of the collection.

The craft of Grafting and planting of trees; and of the .iiij. seasons of the yere, of the .xij. monethes of ye .xxx. dayes, also measuring of land &c. / imprinted

THE GREAT HERBAL

English herbals were published, however, before 1561. As early as 1540 we find a slight sedecimo, A boke of the propertyes of herbes. This book is one of Mr. Thordarson's discoveries; no copy is known in any other library, and it seems totally unknown. Macer Floridus was translated in 1535, and in 1558 another Booke of the properties of herbes saw the light. The most renowned English herbal, however, is William Turner's medical botanology, A new book of spirituall physick for dyverse diseases of the nobilite and gentlemen of Englande (1555), an extraordinarily rare book, of which Mr. Thordarson dreamed for many years before a copy would come within his reach.

The collection contains three editions of Lyte's edition of Dodoens—1578, 1585, and 1619. All are splendid copies, but the first edition, in folio, remains the most attractive. Of Lyte, the translator, a graceful eulogy survives, which deserves to be remembered:

Lyke as the swanne doth chaunt his tunes
In sygne of joyfull mynde,
So Lyte by learning shews himself
To Prince and Countrye kynde.

The great period of woodcut illustration which attained its flower with De Bry and the artists associated with Leonhard Fuchs had a number of representatives in England. Among the two or three hundred volumes in the Thordarson collection which may be considered of this period we shall mention Parkinson's book with its still uninterpreted title, Paradisi in sole paradisus terrestris, the editions of 1629 and 1656. On the titlepage, which was engraved with skill, we find, among other marvels, the famous vegetable lamb, which was a traditional riddle for several centuries. Through Turner's (1551 and 1568) and a series of editions of Gerard's Herbal we arrive at Elizabeth Blackwell's truly Curious herbal with its five hundred engraved plates, colored by hand—every plate painted, engraved, and colored by the capable lady herself. This work forms a unique chapter in the history of books. On Plate 360 we find once more the vegetable lamb, the sea-monk of the plant world, the real name of which was discovered by Smellie, who determined the phenomenon as the root system of the fern Dicksonia borometz.

The era of wood engraving was succeeded by a period when engraved illustrations were produced through other media, especially copper. But the perfection of copper-plate art belongs to a later period, as far as the interpretation of objects in nature is concerned. Artistic copper-plate work reached its highest state in Denmark; color lithography developed in England during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries to a perfection that made a number of works in natural history unique in all literature. We shall see that Mr. Thordarson has given his full attention to natural-history illustration also of the later periods.

Hand in hand with our knowledge of the forms of plants and animals goes our interpretation of what was once called the "virtues" of plants and animal substances. The Thordarson collection, true to its plan, contains shelf on shelf of ancient books on health. Popular medicine, as time passed, never kept pace with medical science, although even today there is an urgent demand for medical insight communicated in terms outside the sphere of cabalistic art. Mr. Thordarson has succeeded in bringing together an astounding number of the little health books previously in the hands of the people. The most remarkable of these is Thomas Elyot, The castell of health (1541).

The Salernitan wisdom in medicine, which dominated all the world in the late Middle Ages, rapidly permeated into England. We find in the Thordarson library an English translation of the famous Regimen of health, dated 1557. Another edition is dated 1581. The number of later editions is legion. The collection contains almost a library within a library, of the cure of disease by sympathy and by other principles, even mathematical and mechanical.

Hieronymus of Brunswick occupies a position between medicine and popular healthbooks. His excellent treatises on distillation (1527) and on surgery (1570) are here. Boorde's Breviary of health (1552) contains many curious facts, stranger even than fiction. The never ending wars always call forth a rich harvest of military medicine. One of the earliest fruits of this

❧ : A boke of the propertyes of herbes the whiche is called an Herbal.

THE TRE-

ASVRI OF HELTH CONTAY

nynge many profytable medicines, gaſ thered out of Hipocratz, Galē & Auicen by one Petrus Hyſpanus & trāſlated into En-glyſh by Hūfre Lloyd who hath addid therun to ſ cauſes & ſygnes of euery dyſeaſe, wt the A-phoriſmes of Hipocrates, and Jacobus de-Partybus reducted to a certayne ordre ac-cordyng to ſ mēbres of mans bodys, and a compendiouſe table contenyng the purgyng and confortatiue medicines, wyth the expoſicion of certayne names & weyghtes in thys boke contayned wyth an Epiſtle of Diocles vnto kyng Antigonus.

✝

Eccleſiaſt. xxxviii.

¶ The Lorde hath created Phyſycke of the earth, and he that is wyſe will not abhoze it.

effort is Arceus, A most excellent method of curing wounds in the head (1588). Adam Boorde also wrote a Compendious regiment or dietary of health, which carries the date 1576, but is a very plausible attempt at a system of public hygiene. The author states that personal health primarily depends on man's wisdom in building his house on a healthy spot and constructing his dwelling properly. He warns against the crowding that helped make the old towns ready victims of epidemics, although narrow streets and closely packed houses were a matter of mutual defense.

Thomas Phaire's Regiment of life (1560) and Petrus Hispanus's The treasurie of health (about 1560) are examples of the many small books that vied with one another for popular favor. Another book dated 1560 is The myrour or glasse of helth. The earliest edition—probably a unique copy—of the famous Antidotharius is dated 1535 and was again printed fifty years later. In 1582 we have Robert Recorde, The urinall of physicke; in 1611, Caries Farewell to Physicke; in 1657, the much-read Organon salutis. In 1642, Thomas Browne published his famous Religio medici, a tiny book, but an example of the proverbial slight cause of great uproar; it contains abundant priming for countless guns forced into the hands of the sons of freedom in their revolution against the classicism of previous ages. Between this and another tiny book, Gilbert Murray's Religio grammatici, published two hundred and seventy-six years later, there is no connecting thread, red or otherwise; the French Revolution and the World War ventilated effectively the atmosphere in our secret chambers.

The culture of health in the days of Queen Elizabeth was so popular that The Englishman's treasure—Mr. Thordarson owns editions dated 1599 and 1613—could signify only one subject, bodily health.

One of the most widely read books on popular medicine was, despite the merits of all others, John Hall's Select observations on English bodies or cures (London, 1657). A good copy is very scarce, for the author, in 1607, married Susanna Shakespeare, the poet's daughter, and their wedding was celebrated in Stratford. Mr. Thordarson's copy, in a contemporary binding, with silver clasps, is a worthy companion volume to his Great herbal.

The exact sciences are less strongly represented in the Thordarson library, yet the books on these subjects number several thousands. The beginning of mathematics was made by H. Baker, The wellspring of sciences—the wellspring being arithmetics. The first edition in our hands is dated 1562, then follows another printed in 1564; in later years many more editions were issued. The destruction of copies of this excellent textbook from constant use is attested by the fact that the British Museum possesses no copy with an earlier date than 1574. Mr. Thordarson's copy of the second edition is unique. A comparison of this excellent textbook and those of the present day is very interesting. It might lead the uninitiated to think that the writing of texts in arithmetics had become a matter of economy in printing type and ink, as times progressed. Baker explained his subject fully, while many modern schoolbooks are written in a style which seems compressed and tightened, as with restrained fury or desperation. And, indeed, such textbooks are read with desperation, while the books of Baker, the Natura brevium (about 1550), Thomas Colwell's Surveying (1562), or John Norden's Surveyor's dialogue, were honest books for readers in good faith.

Mr. Thordarson naturally has made strong efforts to acquire the most important early works on magnetism and electricity. He has eleven editions of Gilbert's book on the magnet, De magnete, which opened the literary treatment of this subject—eleven editions, beginning with the first. Another work of eminent value is Mark Ripley, Short treatise of magneticall bodies and motions (1613). The subject of physics probably is best taught and studied by the historical method, and with constant reference to arithmetic sources. Whoever cares to raise the curtain and watch the evolution of experiment, theory, and enlightenment in science will need only to read into the Philosophical transactions of the Royal Society of London, beginning at the beginning in 1665. In the course of intervening centuries, every important experiment and observation was communicated to the Royal Society; reading the Philosophical transactions inevitably leads to an insight in the history of science. This work indeed has been done by Mr. Thordarson—his library contains a magnificent set of the famous periodical from 1665 to the present day, many of the volumes marked with little white flags, each denoting a paper of historical importance and permanent value.

We may ask what is the result of such reading. The answer is given in a monumental book by F. Hauksbee, one of the earliest philosophies of knowledge entitled Physico-mechanical experiments on various subjects (London, 1709):

> The learned world is now almost generally convinced that instead of amusing themselves with vain hypotheses, which seem to differ little from Romances, there is no other way of improving natural philosophy than by demonstrations and conclusions founded on experiments judiciously and accurately made.

These wise and true words might be hewn in stone above the entrance of every laboratory in the world.

Several hundred volumes in the Thordarson library treat of the delectable art of alchemy. George Ripley's Compound of alchemy (1591) was the first book on this subject in English; then follows Bacon's Mirror of alchemy (1597) and Ashmale's Theatrum chemicum (1652).

Wiser than the gold-makers—whose saga is, however, yet far from finished—was Gabriel Platte who, in 1639, described a method of extracting pure gold from common soil without the use of an elixir.

The useful arts begin with Hugh Platt, The jewel house of art and nature (1594)—a book which may be read with unquestionable profit even in these advanced days. It is an encyclopedia of domestic arts including such subjects as the illumination of manuscripts with colors derived from live flowers, "to steal bees," tanning, brewing, wagon-making, distilling ethereal oils, blowing glass bottles, boring pumps, and producing sculptures on eggshells. The editions of 1594 and 1653 are equally interesting. In the latter year appeared also The treasurie of hidden secrets, and almost at the same time the catechism of machine construction, An invention of engines of motion. But the chief source of early popular technology is Thomas Hill, The schole of skil, now one of the great rarities of English literature.

Artistic illustrations of objects in nature form by far the most voluminous part of Mr. Thordarson's collection. The color-plate books of all ages, but especially of the nineteenth century, are objects of his special interest. Incidentally, they involve a very considerable expense. A man of wealth interested in the historical development of pure and applied science might purchase a complete set of the aforesaid Philosophical transactions, but an organized collection of color-plate books in natural history calls for a very strong will-power.

The library contains a very large number of important illustrated works in natural history before 1700; some already have been mentioned here. From the period beginning with the eighteenth century we have such classical works as the Flora danica with its 3,160 copper-plates in folio, illumined by hand, undoubtedly the finest copy of the five or six found in this country. Danish copper-plate work, as exemplified in this monumental work, in Lyngbye's Hydrophytologia, in Holmskiold's work on fungi, etc., are unique in the literature of natural history. English color lithography and colored engravings are represented by long rows of the works of the Kew botanists, especially the Hookers. To the same class belong the great reports of scientific expeditions, the Challenger, Beagle, Erebus and Terror, Rattlesnake voyages. Picking titles here and there, we brush past the voluminous literature on orchids and feast our eyes on the plates of the Pinetum britannicum, Andrews' monograph on the heaths, and special collections of Bauer's inimitable botanical art. Shelf on shelf follow Edward's Botanical register, Curtis' Botanical magazine, Paxton and Loddiges, and Lindley's numerous works. We find, further, a complete series of the grand folios of Jacquin, published from 1763 to 1797, Wallich's Plantae Asiaticae rariores, the folio series of works issued from the Botanical Garden in Calcutta, with its splendid plates drawn and illumined by native artists—Sowerby's publications, the various editions of Curtis' Flora londinensis, and much else. France is worthily represented by Redouté, Germany by the Flora brasiliensis—and finally we arrive at Sibthorp's Flora graeca, probably the only complete copy in the west.

Sargent's Silva forms a worthy American complement to these classical folios.

The ornithological iconographies are almost as numerous as the botanical. Gould's entire production, complete in fifty-five volumes, represent a small fortune. Elliott's monographs are of the same high quality; then comes Audubon's resplendent Birds of America (1828–30), and the Viviparous quadrupeds, Mrs. Jones's grand volumes on birds' nests and eggs, and a large number of special monographs, older and younger.

Amid all this wealth of color and drawing Mr. Thordarson points with satisfaction to twenty-seven short and long runs of color-plate periodicals in botany and horticulture not recorded in the available bibliographies.

Horticulture also is well represented in this section of the library, especially as regards the British works.

The guiding thought in the Thordarson library, as already pointed out, is the development of a valid view of life. The many books, the beautiful bindings, the interesting provenance —all this must serve for the purpose of demonstrating that life is worth living. History, science, art—all this would be of little avail if the fifteen hundred mechanics and electricians doing the necessary work day by day in the shops and offices were estranged from their quiet, thoughtful chief, who finds an equal joy in being familiar with his machines and in pondering over the message of his noble and remarkable books.

Here, for the first time, I try to quote Mr. Thordarson verbally: "We pay the highest salaries the business can afford, and we try to treat one another in such a way that all of us may come and go with joy in this building." May we consider this the ethic-industrial message of a noble library? I think there is a distinct connection between this principle and the reminiscence from Roger Ascham's Schole-master—the library contains the first and the second editions, 1570 and 1589—which Mr. Thordarson is fond of quoting. It refers to Ascham's friend, who died in youth:

His life he ledde, Christ's lore to learne,
With will to work the same;
He reade to knowe, and knew to live,
And lived to praise His name.

There is something else, however, which affords a key to the significance of this book collection. It is the presence of all one hundred and eighty-six annual issues of Poor Robin's almanac, of Richard Barnaby, The honestie of this age (1614), and the two companion volumes, Erasmus' Flores aliquot sententiarum and the Adagia, printed in 1550 by Richard Taverner. It also is the fact that this collector of rare books invariably makes the books speak instead of letting us know what financial forces must be liberated in order that one man might gratify his craving for rare books.

What, then, is the message of these book treasures? It is not the gospel of wealth, for the owner points with a smile to a group of old tomes on the art of growing wealthy. There is The pleasant art of money catching (1784), which became a great rarity because most copies were read to fragments and shreds. This book, Mr. Thordarson explains, published the Dutch credit system, a contrivance invented by Old Nick himself in one of his ardent moments. But The worth of a penny (1647) is a very useful book, full of salt wit.

The message in part was voiced in The pathway to knowledge (1551):

If truthe maie trie itselfe
By Reason's prudent skyll,
If reason maie prevayle by right
And rule the rage of will,
I dare the triall byde
For truthe that I pretende,
And though some lyst at me repine,
Iuste truthe shall me defende.

But there is something else, something deeper than this, at the bottom. It is the sense of historical continuity—a principle of life and conduct which must be wakened anew in every new generation. Icelandic memory, as we have seen, is long, but it is futile without a constructive love of mankind in its efforts toward higher things and new thought. The new thought grows out of the old as a shoot from an ancient root. Whoever creates new devices, new machinery, continues the work of the ages before him, but is lost unless he anchors himself to the common cause of mankind by searching for evidences of his personal continuity with all that went before. The evidence found, the man becomes a humanist, and he craves for his fellow-men the same happiness that he seeks for himself.

Therefore, Mr. Thordarson welcomes in his library scholars who, with Geoffrey Whitney (A choice of emblems, Leyden, 1586), seek

> A storehouse for thy wise conceipts,
> A whetstone for thy witte:
> Where eache man maye with daintie choice
> His fancies finely fitte,

and prove able to verify for themselves the forms of life involved in the books which we deem of lasting significance in the history of mankind.

In making this attempt at naming some examples of Mr. Thordarson's favorite books and at an elucidation of the motives behind his search for them, I am conscious of explaining a collecting energy at once wholesome and most unusual. The books are so, the initiative equally so. What is the final corollary?

I doubt if we can reach beyond Roger Ascham's simple words:

> He reade to know, and knew to live, and no library can bring any man farther than this!

CONFEDERATE IMPRINTS IN THE HENRY E. HUNTINGTON LIBRARY UNRECORDED IN PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF SUCH MATERIAL

BY WILLARD O. WATERS OF THE LIBRARY STAFF

THE present compilation is limited to the Confederate imprints in this Library whose titles have not been noted in the various bibliographies of Confederate publications listed below. No claim is made that any of the imprints included are entirely unrecorded. Many of them may be found in Sabin's Dictionary under personal authors, titles, etc., or in the various state bibliographies, as Owens' Alabama and Mississippi; De Renne's Georgia; Weeks's North Carolina; Raines's Texas; Swem's Virginia; or in Bowker's state publications. Also it is probable that Library of Congress printed cards are available for a considerable number of titles which appear in the list.

Some titles have been included which will be found in other lists. These are (a) newspapers and periodicals, of which the Huntington Library has issues not appearing in other lists; (b) works not described elsewhere with sufficient fulness to be identified with copies in the Huntington Library; and (c) a number of Virginia state documents, mentioned in other lists without description, apparently on the assumption that they were not Confederate imprints.

The intention has been to limit the list strictly to such publications as could properly be called Confederate imprints—that is, to publications issued in each state after the secession of the state, and before the cessation of military operations by Confederate forces. While this rule has in general been adhered to, there are a few exceptions, one such being the documents of the General Assembly of Virginia for the extra session, January 7–April 4, 1861, inclusive. Also there have been included a few doubtful imprints of 1861 and 1865, which may or may not belong to the Confederate period. Indication of such is given in separate notes.

The list comprises 478 titles, or nearly 48 per cent of the 1000 titles (approximately) forming the Library's entire collection.

For convenience of use and comparison the material in the list has been grouped according to the same classification as that of the list of Confederate literature in the Boston Athenaeum, published in 1917. Table I may be of interest as showing the relative number of titles in the various classes in the two collections.

TABLE I

	Boston Athenaeum	Huntington Library
		In Other Lists	Unrecorded	Totals
C.S.A. official publications	146	196	78	274
State official publications	170	50	36	86
Miscellaneous	282	195	176	371
Tracts	46	43	45	88
Music	38	7	64	71
Maps	4	3	5	8
Broadsides	19	14	24	38
Newspapers and periodicals	132	14	50	64
Totals	837	522	478	1000

It will be seen that in numbers the Huntington Library collection is surpassed by the Boston Athenaeum collection only in state official publications and in newspapers and periodicals, but these are two of the three most important groups from the standpoint of the historian. The Huntington Library has fairly comprehensive, although incomplete, files, covering the war years, of the principal Richmond dailies, the Dispatch, Enquirer, Examiner, Whig, and Sentinel. Other newspapers are found only in scattering numbers. Periodicals, both secular and religious, make a respectable showing, both in number of titles and completeness of files.

Neither the Boston Athenaeum nor the Huntington Library, in regard to Confederate States official publications, approaches the Richmond collections, with 659 titles, or the Leiter Library, with about 300 titles. Presumably the Library of Congress is also very strong in this group.

The great majority of the Confederate imprints in the Henry E. Huntington Library were acquired in 1922, in the Brock and Nicholson collections.

The former collection, consisting of many thousands of manuscripts, books, pamphlets, newspapers, etc., was brought together over a long period of years by Mr. Robert Alonzo Brock, of Richmond, Virginia, who had served as corresponding secretary of the Virginia Historical Society and secretary of the Southern Historical Society. The collection is especially rich in the history of the southern states, and more particularly of Virginia. Mr. Brock evidently had unusual opportunities for the acquistion of rare and little-known Confederate material. One item, the Virginia Senate Journal for the session beginning December 7, 1864, and ending with the fall of Richmond (No. 99), appears to be unique.

The Nicholson collection, which includes a considerable number of Confederate items, especially the general orders of various Confederate armies and departments, was made by Colonel John P. Nicholson of Philadelphia, who served as an officer in the Union Army and was for many years prominent in the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. Colonel Nicholson published a catalogue of his collection, which relates mainly to the military history of the war.

It is to be hoped that the appearance of the present list, incomplete and imperfect as it is, may help to stimulate interest in the publication by the Bibliographical Society of America, or some other organization, of a comprehensive and definitive bibliography of Confederate publications. I feel sure that the authorities of the Henry E. Huntington Library would be glad to co-operate toward that end.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF CONFEDERATE IMPRINTS

Boston athenæum. Confederate literature; a list of books and newspapers, maps, music, and miscellaneous matter printed in the South during the Confederacy, now in the Boston athenæum. Prepared by Charles N. Baxter and James M. Dearborn, with an introduction by James Ford Rhodes. . . . . [Boston]: The Boston athenæum, 1917. 3 p. l., iii–x, 213, [1] pp. 8vo. (Publications of the Robert Charles Billings fund issued by the Trustees of the Boston athenæum, v.)

Confederate memorial literary society, Richmond, Va. Southern Historical Manuscripts Commission. A calendar of Confederate papers, with a bibliography of some Confederate publications. Preliminary report of the Southern historical manuscripts commission. Prepared under the direction of the Confederate memorial literary society, by Douglas Southall Freeman. Richmond, Va.: The Confederate museum, 1908. 620 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo.

"Confederate war maps": pp. 486–490. Lists 32 maps, of which 6 were printed in the Confederate States.

"Part two. Bibliography of some Confederate publications in the Confederate museum": pp. 501–565. Records about 220 titles, exclusive of a number of items listed as "printed in foreign countries."

"Owing to the limitations of the present volume, it has been impossible to include any extended critique on the various volumes listed, and for the same reason, unimportant tracts, sheet music, and similar publications have been omitted altogether from this list."—Introductory Note.

Ellinger, Esther Parker. The southern war poetry of the Civil war. Philadelphia, Pa.; Hershey, Pa.: The Hershey press, 1918. 192 pp. 8vo.

"Bibliography of anthologies and Confederate imprints": pp. 51–55.

"Index of southern war poems of the Civil war": pp. 58–192. Many of the poems listed are described from original broadside or leaflet editions published during the war.

Kelly, James. The American catalogue of books, ... published in the United States from Jan., 1861, to Jan., 1866, ... With supplement, containing pamphlets, sermons, and addresses on the Civil war in the United States, 1861–1866; . . . . Compiled and arranged by James Kelly. New York: John Wiley & son . . . . ; London: N. Trübner & co., 1866. 2 p. l., 303 pp. 8vo.

"Supplement, containing a list of pamphlets, sermons, and addresses on the Civil war . . . .": pp. 241–282. Includes a considerable number of Confederate imprints.

"A list of books published in the southern states during the war": p. 303. Includes 42 titles from the publishing houses of Evans & Cogswell, Columbia; S. H. Goetzel, Mobile; Sterling & Albright, Greensboro, N.C.; and West & Johnston, Richmond.

Leiter, Levi Ziegler. The Leiter library. A catalogue of the books, manuscripts, and maps relating principally to America, collected by the late Levi Ziegler Leiter. With collations and bibliographical notes by Hugh Alexander Morrison. Washington: Privately printed; press of Judd and Detweiler, 1907. xiii, 533 pp. Lg. 8vo.

"Confederate States of America. President's messages, bills, resolutions, and other documents of the general government and the several state governments; also books printed in the South during the Confederacy; autographs, original letters, maps, newspapers, and other miscellaneous matter": pp. 241–332. There are approximately 700 titles.

". . . . A LIST OF THE LEADING PUBLICATIONS which, up to this time, have appeared in the Confederacy, and which constitute its war literature. They emanate from the houses of West & Johnston, Richmond, Evans & Cogswell, Columbia, and S. H. Goetzel, Mobile." (DeBow's review, July, 1864; vol. 34, pp. 98–99.)

Lists about 35 separate works.

McCABE, JAMES DABNEY. Confederate literature. (American, Philadelphia. December 11–18, 1880; January 8–15, 1881; vol. 1, pp. 136; 154; 200–201; 217–218.)

———. Literature of the war; Confederate publications in the sixties.
(Southern historical society. Papers, October, 1917; new ser., vol. IV, pp. 199–203.)

MORRISON, HUGH ALEXANDER. A bibliography of the official publications of the Confederate States of America. By Hugh A. Morrison. (Bibliographical society of America. Proceedings and papers. New York, 1909; vol. 3, pp. 92–132.)

Lists approximately 450 titles of publications in the Howard memorial library, New Orleans; the Library of Congress; the Virginia State library; and the Library of the Wisconsin State historical society.

SABIN, JOSEPH. A dictionary of books relating to America, ... By Joseph Sabin. Vol. IV. . . . . New-York: J. Sabin & sons, ... 1871. 1 vol. 8vo.

"Confederate States": pp. 349–68. Includes slightly more than 200 titles. "The following list of books and papers issued by the Confederate States is made up principally from the extensive collection belonging to Mr. John F. McCoy, of New York, with additions, chiefly from the Library of the Boston Athenæum."

SNOWDEN, YATES. Confederate books. (Charleston Sunday news, August 9, 1903. 5 cols.)

Not seen.

SOUTHERN HISTORICAL SOCIETY, RICHMOND, VA. Records of the Confederate armies in possession of the Southern hist. society, at Richmond, Va. Printed from Catalogue furnished by Rev. Wm. Jones, D.D., Secretary, Southern historical society. Washington: War records publication office, 1880. cover-title, xxxiii, [3]–58 pp., 1 leaf. Lg. 8vo.

Contents.—Index.—Battle reports. 〈NOTE.—These are printed reports, except otherwise indicated MSS.〉—General orders, etc.—Special orders.—Miscellaneous.—Confederate Congress.—Catalogue of books.—Maps.—Newspapers.

VANCE, L. J. Dixiana. (Bachelor of arts, New York. December, 1895; vol. II, pp. 74–79.)

A brief article, based on a collection of Confederate imprints belonging to a private collector in New York City.

VIRGINIA STATE LIBRARY, RICHMOND. A list of the official publications of the Confederate States government in the Virginia State library and the Confederate memorial literary society. [Richmond, Va. 1911.] 72 pp. 8vo. (Bulletin of the Virginia State library . . . . January, 1911; vol. 4, no. 1.)

The titles are numbered from 1 to 659.

"Reports of the Superintendent of public printing of the Confederate States of America": pp. [47]–65.

WEEKS, STEPHEN BEAUREGARD. . . . . Confederate text-books (1861–1865): a preliminary bibliography. By Stephen B. Weeks, Ph.D., Santa Fe, N.M. . . . . Washington: Government printing office, 1900. pp. 1139–1155. 8vo.

On front cover: United States Bureau of education. Chapter from the Report of the Commissioner of education for 1898–99. [Stamped:] Advance, sheets. Chapter 22.

Lists about 120 titles, showing location of copies in many cases.

WYNNE, THOMAS HICKS. Catalogue of the rare, curious, and valuable library collected by the late Thos. H. Wynne, of Richmond, Va., late corresponding secretary of the Virginia historical society. . . . . The whole to be sold at auction, in the City of Richmond, Va., commencing on [date omitted], 1875, by J. Thompson Brown, ... [Richmond]: Richmond dispatch steam presses, [1875]. 2 p.l., 158 pp. Lg. 8vo.

"Confederate States publications": pp. 19–41. Includes 438 titles.

CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA
OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS

ARMIES AND MILITARY DEPARTMENTS

ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. Circular.

1863. June 13. 1

———. General orders.

1863. May 21; June 4; Aug. 13; Oct. 31; Nov. 14. Nos. 65, 70, 83, 96, —.
1864. Feb. 7; Mar. 7; July 28; Nov. 10; Dec. 12. Nos. 15, 18, 51, 66, 71. 2

ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. 2d corps. General orders.

1863. June 22. No. 49. 3

ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. 3d corps. General orders.

1864. Apr. 11. No. 13. 4

ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. Cavalry brigade. General orders.

1862. July 13, 17. Nos. 12, 11.
1863. Mar. 21. No. 10.
No. 11, July 17, 1862 (no. 12, dated July 13), consists of two leaves, the verso of the first containing General order of the Cavalry brigade, no. 11, July 17, while on the recto of the second appears General order of the Department of northern Virginia, no. 74, June 23, 1862. The two orders relate to General J. E. B. Stuart's raid around the Union army. MS inscription on verso of second leaf: Miss Flora Stuart—with compliments of J. E. B. Stuart. 4*a*

ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. Cavalry division. General orders.

1863. Mar. 12; Apr. 23. Nos. —, 14. 4*b*

ARMY OF TENNESSEE. Headquarters Army of Tennessee, Dalton, Ga., December 2, 1863. To the soldiers of the Army of Tennessee! [Dalton? Ga., 1863.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Address of Lieutenant General W. J. Hardee on assuming command. 5

ARMY OF TENNESSEE. Cavalry corps. Circular.

1864. Dec. 4. 6

———. General orders.

1863. Oct. 31; Nov. 15–16. Nos. 12, 15, 16.
1864. Jan. 31–June 18. Nos. 1–6. 7 ———. Head quarters, Cavalry corps, December 31st, 1864. My brave soldiers: The close of the year terminates a campaign of eight months, ... [Signed] J. Wheeler, Major general. [n.p., 1864.] 2 leaves. 8vo. 8

———. Official orders. Headquarters Wheeler's Cavalry corps, January 1st, 1865. The following orders are re-published for the information and guidance of this command. [Signed] J. Wheeler, Major general. [n.p., 1865.] 16 pp. 8vo.

Contains a reprint of General orders of the Corps, 1863, nos. 4, 6–16; 1864, nos. 1–5.
Slip, with autograph of Joseph Wheeler, mounted on flyleaf. 9

Army of Tennessee. Hindman's division. Regulations for General Hindman's division, in camp. Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga.: Memphis Appeal job office print, [1863]. 1 p.l., 8 pp. 8vo.

Caption-title (p. [1]): Regulations for Hindman's division, ... Headquarters Hindman's division, McFarland's Spring, Sept. 4, 1863. General orders, no. 8. 10

Army of the Mississippi. (Department no. 2.) General orders.

1862. Aug. 25; Sept. 5; Dec. 12. Nos. 124, 128, 155.
1863. Feb. 19. No. 7. 11

———. Head quarters, Department no. 2. Tupelo, Miss., June 27th, 1862. . . . . Pursuant to the orders of the President, I assume the permanent command of the forces in this Department. . . . . [Signed] Braxton Bragg, Gen'l commanding. . . . . [Tupelo? Miss., 1862.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Autograph indorsement of General Bragg on verso. 12

Army of the Potomac. 1st corps. Gen. Beauregard's official report of the "battle of Manassas." [Richmond? 1861?] 29 pp. 12mo.

Dated: Headquarters First corps Army of the Potomac. Manassas, Aug. 26, 1861.
Preceded by an apparently inserted leaf, with printed title reading: Gen'l Beauregard's official report of the battle of Manassas. Richmond 1861.
It is not clear whether this pamphlet was printed during or after the war. 13

Army of the Potomac. Cavalry brigade. Orders.

1861. Oct. 15. No. 3. 13*a*

Department of Mississippi and east Louisiana. Office of Chief of subsistence. [Circular.] The Commissary general directs that soap and candles must be made from the refuse grease, by each commissary, for the use of his command. . . . . [Jackson, Miss., 1863.] 2 leaves (last blank). 8vo.

Dated: Jackson, March 3d, 1863. 14

DEPARTMENT OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA. General orders.

1863. Oct. 7; Nov. 20, 24. Nos. 92, 100, 101.
1864. Apr. 2, 9, 16, 28. Nos. 25, 29, 31, 35.
1865. January 17. No. 1. 15

DEPARTMENT OF SOUTH CAROLINA AND GEORGIA. General orders.

1862. Oct. 21. No. 82. 16

DISTRICT OF ARKANSAS. General orders.

1864. Sept. 16. No. 49. 17

DISTRICT OF THE INDIAN TERRITORY. Circular.

1864. Oct. 17; Dec. 25. 18

———. General orders.

Dated: Fort Towson, C.N.
1864. Sept. 15; Oct. 11; Dec. 11–20. Nos. 61, 62, 69–72.
1865. Jan. 25–Feb. 9. Nos. 4–6. 19

———. Special order.

At head of title of each number except 63: "Extract."
1865. Mar. 7, 11, 18, 20; Apr. 12. Nos. 63, 67, 74, 76, 95. 20

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI DEPARTMENT. Circular.

1864. Mar. 7; May 3, 3, 4, 26. 21

———. General orders.

1864. June 1, 6; Sept. 1, 13, 25–27; Oct. 4, 7, 13, 28; Nov. 18, 24–29; Dec. 3–9, 27–30. Nos. 34, 37, 67–68, 71, 74–76, 78, 79, 82, 86, 87.
1865. Jan. 3–4; Feb. 2–3, 13, 18–21, 25; Mar. 4, 7–13, 14, 21–25, 28–29, 31; Apr. 22. Nos. 2–3, 7–8, 10, 12–14, 16–17, 19–20, 22, 24–25, 27–28, 30–40. 22

———. Head quarters Trans-Miss. department, Shreveport, La., April 21, 1865. Soldiers of the Trans-Mississippi army: The crisis of our revolution is at hand. Great disasters have overtaken us. The Army of northern Virginia and our Commander-in-chief are prisoners of war. . . . . [Shreveport, La.; 1865.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Urges continued resistance. 23

VALLEY DISTRICT. Head Quarters Valley district, October 22d, 1864. Soldiers of the Army of the Valley: I had hoped to have congratulated you on the splendid victory won by you on the morning of the 19th at Bell Grove on Cedar Creek, when you surprised and routed two corps of Sheridan's army . . . . [n.p., 1864.] Broadside, 12×9½ inches.

Signed: J. A. Early, Lt. gen'l.
Pencil corrections. 24

CONGRESS: LAWS, STATUTES, ETC.

Acts and resolutions of the First session of the Provisional Congress of the Confederate States. 1861. Montgomery, Ala.: Barrett, Wimbish & co., printers and binders, 1861. 108 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo.

Apparently complete; includes Acts and resolutions, nos. 1–101, approved Feb. 5–Mar. 16, 1861. There is also an edition having 131 pages.

On recto of last leaf is a certification by the Chief clerk of the Department of state, dated 18th April, 1861. 25

Laws of the Provisional Congress of the Confederate States in relation to the War department. 1861. Richmond: Tyler, Wise & Allegre, Enquirer book and job office, 1861. 46 pp. 8vo. 26

An act to amend the tax laws. [Richmond, 1864.] 3 pp. 8vo. 27

. . . . A bill to be entitled an act to amend the tax laws. [Richmond, 1864.] 6 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

At head of title: ⟨House bill, no. 107⟩. House of representatives, May 23, 1864.—Read first and second times. June 2, 1864.—Engrossed, read a third and passed. A. R. Lamar, Clerk. Senate, June 3, 1864.—Read first and second times, and referred to Committee on finance, and ordered to be printed. 28

. . . . A bill to prevent illegal impressments, and to punish lawlessness. [Richmond, 1864.] 3 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: ⟨Senate bill, no. 97⟩. Senate, November 17, 1864.—Read first and second times, and referred to Committee on judiciary. November 29, 1864.—Reported with an amendment, and bill and amendment ordered to be printed. ⟨Mr. Brown, by leave.⟩ 29

. . . . Resolutions in relation [to] the seizure of the Confederate war-steamer Florida by the United States steam-sloop Wachusett, in the bay of Bahia, Brazil. [Richmond, 1864.] 2 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Senate, November 30, 1864.—Submitted, and ordered to be printed. By Mr. Orr, from the Committee on foreign relations. 30

. . . . A bill to provide for the employment of free negroes and slaves to work upon fortifications and perform other labor connected with the defences of the country. [Richmond, 1864.] 5 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

At head of title: ⟨Senate bill, no. 129⟩. Senate, December 6, 1864. Read first and second times and ordered to be placed upon the calendar and printed. ⟨By Mr. Sparrow, from the Committee on military affairs.⟩ 31

CONGRESS: DOCUMENTS AND REPORTS

. . . . G. Tochman's Suggestive points to the Memorial referred by the House of representatives to the Committee on military affairs.

[Dated] Richmond, Va., Feb. 24, 1863. [Richmond, 1863.] 3 pp. Lg. 8vo.

At head of title: House of representatives, February 24, 1863.—Filed February 20, 1863. ⟨Mr. Harris, from Committee on military affairs.⟩ 32

. . . . Report of the Special committee on the payment of claims. [Richmond, 1864.] 7 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: House of representatives, May 26, 1864.—Laid on the table and ordered to be printed. ⟨By Mr. Singleton, from Special committee.⟩ 33

. . . . Resolutions of the General assembly of the State of North Carolina, in reference to the right of North Carolina in the importation of goods. [Richmond, 1864.] 2 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Senate, June 8, 1864.—Laid on the table and ordered to be printed· ⟨By Mr. Graham.⟩ 34

CONGRESS: DIRECTORIES

Directory of the House of representatives. [Richmond, 1864.] 6 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 35

List of members and officers of the House of representatives, and their post-offices. [Richmond, 1864.] 4 pp. 8vo. 36

Standing committees of the Senate. Second Congress. [Richmond, 1864?] Broadside, 12×8 inches. 37

NAVY

Patrick Henry (Confederate States school-ship). Regulations for the interior police of the Confederate States school-ship Patrick Henry. [Richmond? 1863.] 16 pp. 8vo.

Signed and dated: Wm. H. Parker, Commandant. C. S. school-ship Patrick Henry, James River, July, 1863. 38

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Advertisement of January 31, 1862, inviting proposals for carrying the mails of the Confederate States in the states of Texas, Arkansas, and Louisiana, from July 1, 1862, to June 30, 1866. John H. Reagan, Postmaster-General. Received until 3 P.M. May 17, 1862. Decisions by May 31, 1862. [Richmond, 1862.] 82 pp. 8vo. 38*a*

PRESIDENT

Message of the President. To the Senate and House of representatives of the Confederate States: [Richmond, 1862.] 4 pp. 8vo.

Undated. This is the message of February 25, 1862. 39

Message of the President. Executive department, April 1st, 1862. To the Hon. the Speaker of the House of representatives: Sir: I herewith transmit . . . . a communication from the Secretary of war, affording as far as practicable the information sought by the "Resolution of inquiry, ... in regard to the disasters at Forts Henry and Donelson, etc. etc."; . . . . [Richmond, 1862.] 40 pp. 8vo. 40

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE

Circular. . . . . April 1, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 21 pp. 8vo. 41

Circular. . . . . July 20, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 2 leaves (1st and last pages blank). Folio. 42

Quarterly circular. . . . . October 1, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 10 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 43

Instructions to be observed by officers and agents receiving the tax in kind. 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 13 pp., 15–18 numbered leaves (fold. tables) 19–25 pp., 26–28 numbered leaves (fold. tables)1 blank leaf. Lg. 8vo.

Dated: Assistant Q.M. General's office, Richmond, Va., March 29, 1864. 44

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

Government transportation. No. . . . . Shipped, in good order and condition, by Captain Eugene Carrington, assistant quartermaster C. S. Army, on the Richmond and Danville rail road, at Richmond, Va., the following stores, viz: [Richmond, 186–?] [2] pp. obl. 8vo.

Blank form. 45

Regulations for the Army of the Confederate States, and for the Quartermaster's department and Pay department. Montgomery, Ala.: Barrett, Wimbish & co., printers and binders, 1861. 134 pp. 8vo.

Dated: War department, Montgomery, April, 1861.
Contains regulations for Quartermaster's and Pay departments only. 46

Regulations of the Quartermaster's department, being a compilation from the Army regulations and other sources. Little Rock: R. S. Yerkes & co., True Democrat office, 1863. 168 pp. 8vo.

Imperfect; pp. 81–96 lacking. 47

RAILROAD BUREAU

Railroad bureau, Richmond, Va. Dear sir: I beg leave to call your attention to the following extract from General orders no. 95, Nov.

25th, 1862, and ask what provisions, if any, have been made on your road to meet the requirements expressed therein. . . . . [Signed] F. W. Sims, ... in charge of Bureau. . . . . [Richmond, 1862.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Following the letter is the extract referred to, relating to transportation of sick and wounded soldiers. 48

Confederate States of America, Railroad bureau, Richmond, Va., August, 1863. Dear sir: I beg leave to call your attention to the accompanying orders and remarks bearing upon the management of railroads in the Confederacy, so far as it concerns the transportation of government freights and troops . . . . [Richmond, 1863.] 7 pp. 8vo.

Signed: F. W. Sims, Major and Q.M. in charge of Bureau. 49

Proceedings of a Conference with Virginia railroad companies held at Richmond, Virginia, September 29, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] cover-title, 4 pp. 8vo.

The conference was held between representatives of Virginia railroad companies and Lieutenant Colonel F. W. Sims, Chief of the Railroad bureau of the Quartermaster's department of the Confederate States, to consider the question of increasing the rates for government transportation. 50

SUBSISTENCE BUREAU

Confederate States of America, War department, Subsistence bureau, Richmond, April 15th, 1863. Sir: It is determined to establish, as soon as possible, a thorough system in the collection of supplies . . . . by which all competition between the commissaries and agents of this Bureau and the army commissaries, ... will be entirely prevented. . . . . [Richmond, 1863.] [2] pp. 4to.

Signed: L. B. Northrop, Commissary general subsistence, C. S. A.

Manuscript inscription on 2d page: Approved— (signed) J. A. Seddon Secty of War To Maj. John J. Walker Chief Commissary State of Alabama Mobile Ala. 50*a*

SUPERINTENDENCY OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

Estimates of appropriations necessary to comply, in part, with the treaty stipulations made with certain Indian tribes. Richmond: Tyler, Wise, Allegre and Smith, prs., 1862. 15 pp. 8vo.

"Estimates of appropriations necessary to meet certain contingent expenses of Superintendency of Indian affairs, etc., and Indian agencies for nine months, ending February 18th, 1861 [i.e. 1862]": pp. [13]–15. 51

SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE

. . . . Notes of surgical cases. Richmond: Printed by Ritchie & Dunnavant, 1862. 2 p.l., [62] pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Confederate States Hospital department.
Introductory note dated: War department, Surgeon general's office, Richmond, August 1, 1862.
Blank forms for recording cases. 52

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

Circular. Office of the State collector for Virginia, Richmond, November 13th, 1863. [Signed] Thomas C. Green, State collector for Virginia. [Richmond, 1863.] Broadside, $10\frac{3}{4}\times8\frac{3}{4}$ inches. 53

. . . . Communication from Secretary of treasury. Confederate States of America, Treasury department, Richmond, Va., December 7, 1864. . . . . Report of Second auditor. . . . . Nov. 12, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 2 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: House of representatives, December 8, 1864.—Referred to Special committee on claims of states, and ordered to be printed. ⟨By the Chair.⟩
Report on claims from each of the states paid or allowed under the act of June 14, 1864. 54

. . . . Form of list or return of the income and profits derived by each person, joint stock company and corporation, from every occupation, employment or business, ... during the calendar year 1863, ... [Richmond, 1863.] Broadside, $9\frac{3}{4}\times12$ inches.

At head of title: (No. 8). 55

. . . . Form of the estimate and assessment of agricultural products agreed upon by the assessor and the tax-payer, ... which are taxes in kind, ... [Richmond, 1863?] Broadside, $12\times9\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

At head of title: (No. 4). 56

Instructions to Confederate tax officers, explaining the forms to be used in the assessment and collection of taxes. [Richmond, 1863.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Dated and signed: Office of Commissioner of taxes, Richmond, July 24, 1863. Thompson Allan, Commissioner of taxes. 57

. . . . Letters of instruction to surgeons and assistant surgeons of hospitals and others in charge of the money and other effects of deceased officers and soldiers, with the laws, regulations, and orders relating thereto. [Richmond, 1864.] 2 leaves. Lg. 8vo.

At head of title: Treasury department C. S. Second auditor's office.
Dated and signed: Richmond, August 1st, 1864. W. H. S. Taylor, Second auditor Confederate States. 58

. . . . List or return of auctioneers, wholesale dealers in liquors of every description, ... Return of gross amount of sales to be made to the assessor, from the 24th day of April, 1863, the date of the act, ... [Richmond, 1863.] Broadside, $9\frac{1}{2}\times12\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

At head of title: No. 2. 59

Notice to all persons liable to taxation. [Richmond, 186–?] Broadside, $9\frac{1}{2}\times7\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Blank form, issued for the use of assessors for the Virginia districts, in assessing for the Confederate income tax. 60

Office of the State collector of Virginia, Richmond, October 10th, 1863. [Circular.] [Richmond, 1863.] Broadside, $9\frac{1}{2}\times8\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

Signed: Thos. C. Green, State collector for Virginia. 61

Report of the Secretary of the treasury. Treasury department C.S.A., Richmond, Nov. 7, 1864. [Richmond, 1864.] 56 pp. Lg. 8vo.

Addressed: Hon. Thomas S. Bocock, Speaker of the House of representatives.
There is also a Senate edition, having the same number of pages. 62

Synopsis of decisions under the Confederate tax law. Published by authority of Secretary of treasury. [Richmond, 1863?] 12 pp. 8vo.

Signed: Thompson Allan, Commissioner of taxes. 63

. . . . Tax on naval stores, wines, &c., and agricultural products. [Richmond, 1863.] Broadside, $12\times9\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

At head of title: List No. 1.
Blank form. 64

WAR DEPARTMENT

Army regulations, adopted for the use of the Army of the Confederate States, in accordance with late acts of Congress. Revised from the Army regulations of the old U.S. Army, 1857; retaining all that is essential for officers of the line. To which is added An act for the establishment and organization of the Army of the Confederate States of America. Also Articles of war, for the government of the Army of the Confederate States of America. Atlanta: Gaulding & Whitaker, "Intelligencer" print, 1861. 201, [2] pp. 16mo.

Printed label on front cover reads: A. W. Hammond's Army regulations and Articles of war, Confederate States.

Manuscript inscriptions on blank leaf preceding title: H. Harms Capt German Artillery Comp. B. "Captured" at Fort Walker Port Royal South Carolina Novr., 7th 1861 by Jas. M'Donough Orderly Sergeant of the U.S.S. Frigate Wabash. 65

Army regulations, adopted for the use of the Army of the Confederate States, in accordance with late acts of Congress. Revised from the Army regulations of the old United States Army, 1857; retaining all that is essential for officers of the line. To which is added, An act for the establishment and organization of the Army of the Confederate States of America. Also, Articles of war, for the government of the Army of the Confederate States of America. Raleigh, N.C.: Printed at the Inst. for the deaf & dumb & the blind, 1861. 1 pl., 198, [2] pp., 3 blank leaves, 32 pp.

"Acts and resolutions. Laws of the Provisional Congress of the Confederate States in relation to the War department": 32 pp. at end. Apparently issued with the above, but not mentioned in title or table of contents. 66

Circular. [Richmond, 1864.] 41 pp. 8vo.

Includes General orders and extracts from General orders issued by Adjutant and inspector general's office of the Confederate States, nos. 8, 15, 20, 25, 28, 30, 32, 34, 37, 39, 45, 47, 49, 53, 60, 61, 67, 104, 135, 138, 142, 147, 161, 162, 163, Jan. 20–Dec. 23, 1863; and nos. 17, 26, 28, 29, 30, 35, 45, 53, 54, 59, 60, 63, 67, 68, 73, Feb. 8–Sept. 22, 1864; Special orders, no. 63, Mar. 16, 1864; Circulars of the Quartermaster general's office, dated Sept. 30, 1863 to Sept. 17, 1864; and Circular of Office of Inspector general of field transportation, dated October 17, 1864. 67

Confederate States of America, War Department, Richmond, ——— 1862. The bearer ——— has leave to pass the Confederate lines for the purpose of going to ———. . . . . Secretary of war. [Richmond, 1862.] 1 leaf, $4\frac{1}{4}\times7$ inches.

Blank form, filled out in MS for use of Thomas H. Wynne, and signed by A. T. Bledsoe, Assistant secretary of war. 68

. . . . General orders, ... [Richmond, 1862–1865.]

At head of title: Adjutant and inspector general's office, Richmond, ...

1862. March 1; Nov. 8. Nos. 9, 82.

1863. Jan. 3, 12; Feb. 6; Mar. 19; Apr. 18; May 25; July 21; Oct. 1, 24; Nov. 17, 24. Nos. 2, 4, 15, 31, 45, 67, 99, 129, 138, 147, 152.

1864. Jan. 4–28, 30; Feb. 1–Mar. 29; Apr. 14–July 29; Aug. 6–Dec. 1; Dec. 10. Nos. 1–8, 10–40, 42–61, 63–64, 65 (2 issues), 66–85, 87.

1865. Jan. 18–Feb. 22. Nos. 2–4. 69

Letter of the Secretary of war. Confederate States of America, War department, Richmond, Sept. 27, 1862. His Excellency Jefferson Davis, President. . . . . Sir: I have the honor to return the report of Brigadier-General John H. Winder and of the Provost marshal, in the case of Chas. K. Hyde, in response to the resolution of the House of representatives, adopted on the 20th instant. . . . . [Richmond, 1862.] 11 pp. 8vo.

The Letter is preceded by Resolutions of the House of representatives (p. [1]) and Message of the President, dated Sept. 27, 1862 (p. [2]). 70

Regulations for the Army of the Confederate States, and for the Quartermaster's and Pay departments. The uniform and dress of the Army. As published by authority of the Secretary of war. The Articles of war, as amended by Act of Congress. Also, all the laws appertaining to the Army. Revised edition. New-Orleans: Bloomfield & Steel, publishers, 60 Camp-street. 1861. 1 p.l., 262 pp., 1 leaf, 100 pp. Lg. 12mo.

On verso of title-leaf: The only correct edition published. . . . .

Apparently complete. The Index occupies pp. [97]–100 of the second group of paging. 71

Regulations for the Army of the Confederate States, as adopted by Act of Congress, approved March 6, 1861. [Quotation, 4 lines.] Also containing the Articles of war, and the acts of Congress for the organization of the Army of the Confederate States. New-Orleans: Henry P. Lathrop, 74 Magazine street. Jackson, Miss. Power & Cadwallader. 1861. 2 p.l., [1], 4–244 pp. front. 16mo.

Contains the autographs of several persons, including those of Captain O. F. Gibbes, and J. J. Little, Brevet 2d lieutenant, Company H, 10th regiment, Mississippi volunteers. 72 Regulations for the Army of the Confederate States, 1862. Richmond, Va. West & Johnston, 145 Main street. [MacFarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1862. xxii pp., 1 blank leaf, 420 pp. 8vo.

Certification dated and signed: War department, Richmond, November 1st, 1862. Geo. W. Randolph, Secretary of war. 73

INDIVIDUAL STATES: OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS

GEORGIA

COMMISSARY-GENERAL'S OFFICE. Annual report of Jared I. Whitaker, Commissary-general of Georgia, September 30th, 1864. [Milledgeville, 1864.] 19 pp. 8vo.

Dated: Macon, Ga., Oct. 13th, 1864. 74
Contains also the report of Lachlan H. McIntosh, Chief of ordnance of the State of Georgia, and reports of the Master armorer and Military storekeeper.

GOVERNOR. Message of His Excellency, Joseph E. Brown, to the General assembly, convened in the Capitol by his proclamation, March 25th, 1863. Milledgeville, Ga.: Boughton, Nisbet & Barnes, State printers, 1863. 20 pp. 8vo. 75

LAWS, STATUTES, ETC. . . . . Resolutions on the subject of independence and peace. The General assembly of the State of Georgia do resolve. . . . . [Macon, 1865.] Broadside, 14×6¼ inches.

At head of title: Ordered 200 copies for the House. By Mr. Stephens of Hancock. 76

GEORGIA MILITARY INSTITUTE. Battalion of cadets. Headquarters Battalion of cadets, and Georgia military institute, Milledgeville, Oct. 27th, 1864. Maj. Gen. H. C. Wayne, Adj. and inspector general of Georgia. Sir—Your orders of the 12th, May 1864, to report myself to Gen. Jos. E. Johnston commanding the Army of Tennessee and "to hold the corps of cadets in readiness, to obey his orders during the present emergency," was joyfully received and promptly executed. . . . . [Milledgeville? 1864.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

Signed: F. W. Capers, Major commanding.
No title; text begins as above. 77

INDIAN TERRITORY

CHOCTAW NATION. PRINCIPAL CHIEF (Peter P. Pitchlynn). The inaugural address of Gov. Pitchlynn. [n.p., 1864?] 3 pp. 8vo.

Signed: P. P. Pitchlynn.
Addressed: Fellow-citizens of the Senate and of the House of representatives.
Address not dated. "It is now more than three years since this unholy and unnatural war was commenced against the Confederate States and their allies; . . . ." —p. [1]. 78

LOUISIANA

LAWS, STATUTES, ETC. Ordinance to provide for the appointment of delegates to a convention to form a Southern confederacy. [New Orleans? 1861.] 2 pp. Folio.

Ordinance adopted by the State Convention of Louisiana, in January, 1861. 79

———. Acts passed by the Twenty-seventh Legislature of the State of Louisiana in extra session at Opelousas, December, 1862. Tom Bynum, State printer. Printed at the Pointe Coupee Echo office, 1863. 31 numbered leaves, ii pp. 8vo.

Title and text in English and French on opposite pages, numbered in duplicate. A "List of acts and joint resolutions passed by the Legislature of the State of Louisiana, extra session of 1862" (ii pp., at end), is in English only. 79*a* ———. Acts passed by the Twenty-seventh Legislature of the State of Louisiana, in extra session at Opelousas, Dceember, 1862 & January, 1863. Published by authority. Natchitoches, La.: Printed at the "Times" office—Louis Dupleix, proprietor, 1864. 40 numbered leaves, 3, 3, 4, 4 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

Title and text in English and French on opposite pages, numbered in duplicate. 80

UNITED STATES. COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS, New Orleans. Report of the Collector of the New Orleans Custom-house. Presented to the Convention through the Committee on commerce, navigation and revenue. New Orleans: J. O. Nixon, Printer to the Convention, 1861. cover-title, 24 pp. 8vo.

Signed and dated: F. H. Hatch, Collector. New-Orleans, 4th February, 1861. 81

NORTH CAROLINA

GOVERNOR, 1861–1862 (Henry T. Clark). Capture of Hatteras, &c. [Raleigh]: John Spelman, printer to the State, [1861]. 13 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Document no. 12.⟩ ⟨2nd ex. ses. 1861. Odered [sic] to be printed. . . . .

Includes a report from the Governor, dated Sept. 5, 1861, in response to a resolution of the House of commons. The Governor's report is accompanied by a report from Warren Winslow, Military secretary, dated Sept. 6, 1861. 82

GOVERNOR, 1862–1866 (Zebulon B. Vance). . . . . Governor's message. [Raleigh]: John B. Neathery, printer to the State, [1864]. 18 pp. 8vo.

At head, of title: Doc. no. 1. Ses. 1864–'5. Ordered to be printed. . . . .

Message undated; it is that addressed to the regular session of the General assembly, beginning in November, 1864. 83

SOUTH CAROLINA

CONVENTION, 1860–1862. Declaration of the immediate causes which induce and justify the secession of South Carolina from the Federal Union; and the Ordinance of secession. Printed by order of the Convention. Charleston: Evans & Cogswell, printers to the Convention, no. 3 Broad and 103 East Bay street, 1860. 13 pp. 8vo.

The cover-title is the same, except that imprint reads: Charleston: Printed by Evans & Cogswell, 3 Broad and 103 East Bay streets, 1860. 83*a* CONVENTIONS. Journals of the Conventions of the people of South Carolina, held in 1832, 1833, and 1852. Republished by order of the General assembly. Columbia, S.C.: R. W. Gibbes, State printer, 1860. 173 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

Printed by resolution of the General assembly, dated Nov. 13, 1860. 84

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE AND POLICE. Report of the Chief of the Department of justice and police, to the Governor and Executive council. . . . . Columbia, S.C.: Charles P. Pelham, State printer, 1862. 3 pamphlets. 8vo.

Contents.—Part I. On the powers of the Convention. 11 pp. Part II. On the powers of the Governor and Executive council. 16 pp. Part III. On the special action of the Department of justice and police. 15 pp.
I. W. Hayne, Chief of the Department. 85

DEPARTMENT OF THE MILITARY. Report of the Chief of the Department of the military of South Carolina, to His Excellency, Governor Pickens. Columbia, S.C.: Charles P. Pelham, State printer, 1862. 63 pp. 8vo.

Dated and signed: . . . . August 30, 1862. James Chesnut, jr., Chief. 86

GOVERNOR, 1860–1862 (F. W. Pickens). . . . . Correspondence and other papers, relating to Fort Sumter. Charleston: Steam-power presses of Evans & Cogswell, no. 3, Broad and 103 East Bay street, 1861. 28 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Executive documents. No. 2. 87

LAWS, STATUTES, ETC. . . . . An ordinance to dissolve the Union between the State of South Carolina and other states united with her under the compact entitled "The Constitution of the United States of America." . . . . [Charleston, 1860.] Broadside, $11\frac{1}{4} \times 21\frac{7}{8}$ inches.

At head of title: Charleston mercury extra: passed unanimously at 1.15 o'clock, P.M., December 20th, 1860. 88

VIRGINIA

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS. . . . . Biennial report of the Board of public works to the General assembly of Virginia, 1859–60 & 1860–61. [Richmond, 1862.] 317 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Doc. no. XVII.
Dated: Jan. 23, 1862. 89

CONVENTION, 1861. Rules and articles for the government of the Army of Virginia. Richmond: Wyatt M. Elliott, printer, 1861. 29 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

An ordinance adopted by the Convention of Virginia, February–April, 1861. 90

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. Documents Vol. I. Extra session. [binder's title] [Richmond, 1861.] 1 vol. various pagings. 8vo. 91

Contents (same as in Leiter Catalogue, 1907, pp. 279–281, except as noted below):

Doc. no. I. Message of the Governor of Virginia, and accompanying documents. Richmond: William F. Ritchie, Public printer, 1861. lv, 101 pp., 1 blank leaf. 4 plates.
Message dated: Jan. 7, 1861. 91(1)

Doc. no. II. Financial statement, and suggestions relative to defects in the revenue laws, by the Auditor of public accounts. 104 pp.
Dated: December 10, 1860. 91(2)

Doc. no. III. Annual report of the Board of directors of the Penitentiary institution, year ending September 30, 1860. 39, [1] pp.
Dated: December 25, 1860. 91(3)

Doc. no. IV. Communication relative to reprieves, pardons, etc., 1861. 10 pp.
Dated: Executive department, January 7, 1861. 91(4)

Doc. no. V. Report of the Board of directors of the Eastern lunatic asylum for 1860. 7 pp.
Dated: October 18, 1860. 91(5)

Doc. no. VI. Report of the Lunatic asylum west of the Allegheny Mountains, 1860. 9 pp.
Dated: Dec. 31st, 1860. 91(6)

Doc. no. VII. Report of the President and directors of the Western lunatic asylum, 1859–60. 13 pp., 1 blank leaf.
Dated: December 31st, 1860. 91(7)

Doc. no. VIII. Governor's communication enclosing the credentials of Commissioners from Alabama, &c. &c. &c. 9 pp.
Dated Jan. 7, 1861. 91(8)

Doc. no. XII. Governor's communication announcing the secession of Mississippi, January, 1861. 5 pp., 1 blank leaf. 91(9)

Doc. no. XVIII. Communication from the Board of public works, relative to the Covington and Ohio rail road, January 28, 1861. 8 pp. 91(10)

Doc. no. XIX. Statements of the Second auditor, called for by a resolution of House of delegates, dated January 22, 1861. 3, [1] pp., 2 leaves (last blank). 91(11)

Doc. no. XXII. Governor's communication relative to specie to be raised by the banks for the commonwealth for payment of state interest, etc., January, 1861. 7 pp.
Dated: January 29, 1861. 91(12)

Doc. no. XXVII. Report made by Mr. Alfred Paul, Consul of France at Richmond, to His Excellency the Minister of foreign affairs of France, under instructions from his government, relative to the James River & Kanawha canal, June 5, 1860. [Richmond]: Printed by joint order of the committees of roads and internal navigation of the Senate and House of delegates [1861?]. 20 pp. 91(13)

Doc. no. XXXI. Report of the committees of roads and internal navigation of the Senate and House of delegates sitting jointly, in regard to the ability of Bellot des Minieres, brothers & co. to comply with their contract for the completion of the James River and Kanawha canal. Submitted February 19, 1861, by Mr. Chapman, Chairman of the House committee. 45 pp., 1 blank leaf. 91(14)

Doc. no. XXXVII. Report of the Auditor of public accounts relative to the banks of the commonwealth, February, 1861. 9, [1] pp., 1 leaf. 91(15)

Doc. no. XXXIX. Report of Col. A. W. McDonald, relative to his mission to England, March, 1861. 20 pp. 91(16)

Doc. no. XL. Communication of the Secretary of the commonwealth, relative to the publication of the code, March, 1861. 15 pp. 91(17)

Doc. no. XLI. Report of the Board of directors of the Virginia Penitentiary, March, 1861. 11 pp. 91(18)

Doc. no. XLIII. Governor's communication transmitting a joint resolution of Congress to amend the Constitution of United States, March, 1861. 9 pp. 91(19)

Doc. no. XLIV. Report of the Joint committee to examine the Virginia Penitentiary, March, 1861. 3 pp. 91(20)

Doc. no. XLV. Report of the Committee on finance [of the House of delegates], relative to the Penitentiary of Virginia, &c. &c. 4 pp.
Undated. 91(21)

Doc. no. XLVI. Report of the Superintendent of the Virginia Penitentiary, March, 1861. 8 pp. 91(22)

Index [to Documents 1–47]. 2 pp.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. Message & documents. Part I [binder's title]. [Richmond, 1861.] 1 vol. various pagings. 8vo. 92

Contents:

Doc. no. I. Message of the Governor of Virginia, and accompanying documents. Richmond: William F. Ritchie, Public printer, 1861. xxiv, 16 pp.
Message dated: December 2, 1861. 92(1)

Doc. no. II. A synopsis of the funds of the Commonwealth, year ending September 30, 1860 [and September 30, 1861]. 5 pp., 1 blank leaf; 5 pp., 1 blank leaf.
Dated: Auditor's office, Richmond, Va. November, 1860 [and] November, 1861. 92(2)

Doc. no. III. A synopsis of the financial condition of the Treasury, year ending September 30, 1860 [and September 30, 1861]. 5 pp., 1 blank leaf; 5 pp., 1 blank leaf.
Dated, respectively: Oct. 15, 1860; Oct. 3, 1861. 92(3)

Doc. no. IV. Synopsis of the financial condition of the fund for internal improvement and sinking and literary funds, September 30, 1860 [and September 30, 1861]. 12, 11 pp. 92(4)

Doc. no. v. Biennial report of the Auditor of public accounts, 1860 & 1861. 696 pp. Dated: November, 1861. 92(5)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. Message & documents [1861]. Part II [binder's title]. [Richmond, 1861.] 1 vol. various pagings. 8vo. 93

Contents (same as in Boston athenæum. Confederate literature, 1917, p. 59, except as noted below):

Doc. no. VII. Second auditor's report on the state of the literary fund for the year 1860 [and 1861], and proceedings of the School commissioners in the different counties September 30, 1859 [and September 30, 1860]. 102 pp., 1 blank leaf. 93(1)

Doc. no. X. Report of the Adjutant general, year ending September 30, 1860 [and September 30, 1861]. 31, 32 pp. 93(2)

Doc. no. XI. Report of the Board of directors of the Virginia military institute, July 1860 [and] . . . . Virginia military institute. Semi-annual examination—January 1861 [and] . . . . Report of the Board of visitors of the Virginia military institute, July, 1861. 79, 31, 59 pp. 93(3)

Doc. no. XIII. Annual report of the Board of directors of the Penitentiary institution, year ending September 30, 1860 [and September 30, 1861]. 39, [1] pp.; 42 pp., 1 blank leaf. 93(4)

Doc. no. XXII. Report of the Weighmaster of livestock, 1860 [and 1861]. 7 pp. 93(5)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. Documents 1861–62. Part 5 [binder's title]. [Richmond, 1861–1862.] 1 vol. various pagings. 8vo. 94

Contents (same as in Boston athenæum. Confederate literate literature, 1917, p. 59, and Leiter Catalogue, 1907, pp. 281–284, except as noted below):

Doc. no. XX. Accounts of the Deaf, dumb and blind institution, year ending September 30, 1860. 16 pp.

Dated: November 19, 1860. 94(1)

Doc. no. XXII. Report of the Weighmaster of live stock, 1860 [and 1861]. 7 pp. 94(2)

Doc. no. XXVI. A list of mining and other companies, incorporated by the circuit and county courts. 5 pp., 1 blank leaf.

Dated: Executive department, December 2, 1861. 94(3)

Doc. no. XXVIII. Communication relative to fire at Dibrell's warehouse, &c. &c. &c. pp.

Dated: Executive department, December 4, 1861. 94(4)

Doc. no. XXXII. Resolutions of the Council of Petersburg, &c. &c. &c. 3 pp.

Resolutions adopted December 10, 1861. 94(5)

Doc. no. XL. Communication relative to reprieves, pardons, etc., 1861. 15 pp.

Dated: Executive department, December 2, 1861. 94(6)

Doc. no. LXV. Report of the Joint committee on the Public library, 1860–61. 19 pp. 94(7)

Doc. no. LXVI. Report of the Joint committee on the Penitentiary, March, 1862. 4 pp. 94(8)

Doc. no. LXVII. Report of the Joint committee to examine the bonds of public officers, March, 1862. 3 pp. 94(9)

Doc. no. LXVIII. Returns of provisions, small stores & clothing, at the Gosport navy yard, April, 1861. 16 pp.
Dated: Executive department, March 31, 1862. 94(10)
Doc. no. II. Report relative to the assessment of taxes on property of corporations, &c. &c. &c. 7 pp.
Dated: Auditor's office, Richmond, Va., May 7, 1862. 94(11)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. . . . . Report in favor of the enlistment of slaves, under certain restrictions. [Richmond, 1865.] 3 pp. 8vo. 95

At head of title: Doc. no. XXXVI.
Undated resolutions of the General assembly.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Journal of the House of delegates of the State of Virginia, for the Extra session, 1861. Richmond: William F. Ritchie, Public printer, 1861. 321, lv pp. 8vo.

Session: January 7–April, 4, 1861. 96
Appended is the following document:
Doc. no. I. Message of the Governor of Virginia, and accompanying documents. Richmond: William F. Ritchie, Public printer, 1861. lv pp.
Message dated: Jan. 7, 1861. It is without the accompanying documents. 96(1)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. SENATE. Journal of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Virginia: begun and held at the Capitol in the City of Richmond, on Monday, the seventh day of January, [1861] . . . . Extra session. Richmond: James E. Goode, Senate printer, 1861. 324 pp., 2 leaves; [various pagings]; 33 pp. 8vo.

Session: January 7–April 4, 1861. 97
Appended are the following documents:
Doc. no. I. Communication from the Governor of Virginia transmitting credentials of the Commissioners from the State of Alabama. January 8, 1861. 8 pp. 97(1)
Doc. no. II. Report of the Board of commissioners appointed to audit and pay expenses of the Harpers Ferry invasion. January 8, 1861. 7 pp. 97(2)
Doc. no. III. Communication from the Governor of the State relative to reprieves and pardons. January 15, 1861. 10 pp. 97(3)
Doc. no. IV. Letter from the Governor enclosing plans for reconstruction of militia brigade and division districts of the Commonwealth. January 17, 1861. 10 pp. 97(4)
Doc. no. V. Communication from the Governor of the State enclosing preamble and resolutions of the Legislature of New York offering aid to the President of the United States. January 17, 1861. 7 pp. 97(5)
Doc. no. VI. Communication from the Adjutant general in response to a resolution of the Senate. January 19, 1861. 3 pp. 97(6)
Doc. no. VII. Communication from the Alabama State Convention and also a telegraphic despatch from the Governor of Georgia. January 21, 1861. 8 pp. 97(7)

Doc. no. VIII. Communications from the Alabama Commissioners to the Senate of Virginia. January 21, 1861. 4 pp. 97(8)

Doc. no. IX. Communication from the Governor of Virginia transmitting a series of resolutions adopted by the Ohio Legislature. January 22, 1860 [i.e., 1861]. 4 pp. 97(9)

Doc. no. X. Communication from the Governor of Maryland, and also from the President of the Georgia Convention. January 28, 1861. 10 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(10)

Doc. no. XI. Communication from the Governor of Virginia transmitting preambles and resolutions adopted by the legislatures of Tennessee and Pennsylvania. January 29, 1861. 14 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(11)

Doc. no. XII. Communication from the Governor relative to the refusal of certain banks to contribute specie for the payment of interest on the public debt. January 31, 1861. 7 pp. 97(12)

Doc. no. XIII. Communication from the Governor transmitting correspondence of Pres. Buchanan and His Excellency John Tyler, from the Commissioner from Virginia. February 1, 1861. 14 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(13)

Doc no. XIV. Communication from the Auditor of public accounts enclosing financial statement responsive to a Senate resolution. February 2, 1861. 13 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(14)

Doc. no. XV. Communication from the Governor transmitting resolutions of the State of Maine in relation to uniform system of weights, &c. February 2, 1861. 8 pp. 97(15)

Doc. no. XVI. Communication from the Governor transmitting preamble and resolutions of the Legislature of New Jersey. February 2, 1861. 8 pp. 97(16)

Doc. no. XVII. Communication transmitting joint resolutions from the states of Kentucky and Minnesota to the Legislature of Virginia. February 4, 1861. 8 pp. 97(17)

Doc. no. XVIII. Communication from Commissioner John Robertson, appointed by the State of Virginia to the seceded states. February 12, 1861. 6 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(18)

Doc. no. XIX. Communication enclosing Ordinance of secession and Resolution of the State of Louisiana; also joint resolutions from the states of Indiana and New York. February 12, 1861. 16 pp. 97(19)

Doc. no. XX. Communication from the Governor transmitting resolutions of State of Michigan on the state of the Union. February 20, 1861. 4 pp. 97(20)

Doc. no. XXI. Communication from the Governor enclosing resolutions of the State of Texas relative to coercion. February 20, 1861. 7 pp. 97(21)

Doc. no. XXII. Communication from Hon. John Robertson, the Commissioner to seceding states, enclosing correspondence with them. February 20, 1861. 24 pp. 97(22)

Doc. no. XXIII. Communication from the Superintendent of the Armory to the Governor. February 20, 1861. 4 pp. 97(23)

Doc. no. XXIV. Communication enclosing joint resolutions of Illinois and Ordinance of secession of the State of Texas. February 25, 1861. 11 pp. 97(24)

Doc. no. XXV. Communication from Governor of Virginia enclosing report of Hon. John Robertson the Commissioner to seceding states. February 27, 1861. 15 pp. 97(25)

Doc. no. XXVI. Report of the Peace conference commissioners to the General assembly. March 6, 1861. 8 pp. 97(26)

Doc. no. XXVII. Communication from the Commissioners appointed to audit and pay the expenses incurred by the invasion of the State, responsive to a Senate resolution. March 8, 1861. 4 pp. 97(27)

Doc. no. XXVIII. Report of Col. Angus McDonald, relative to boundary lines. March 9, 1861. 19 pp. 97(28)

Doc. no. XXIX. Communication from the General assembly of Indiana relative to amending federal Constitution. March 19, 1861. 7 pp. 97(29)

Doc. no. XXX. Communication from Abraham Lincoln transmitting a resolution adopted by Congress for amending the Constitution of the United States. March 19, 1861. 8 pp. 97(30)

Doc. no. XXXI. Communication from the Auditor of public accounts relative to the necessary increase of taxation, responsive to a Senate resolution. March 23, 1861. 8 pp. 97(31)

Doc. no. XXXII. Communication from the Governor of Virginia relative to the Ordnance department. March 26, 1861. 6 pp., 1 blank leaf. 97(32)

Index. 33 pp.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. SENATE. Journal of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Virginia: Begun and held at the Capitol in the City of Richmond, on Monday, the seventh day of September, [1863] . . . . Extra session. Richmond: James E. Goode, Senate printer, 1863. 174 pp., 1 leaf; [various pagings]; 20 pp. 8vo. 98

Session: September 7–November 2, 1863, inclusive.

Manuscript inscription on front flyleaf: This book was taken from the Senate Chamber of the Confederate States in Richmond April 7th, 1865; a party of visitors having resolved themselves into the Senate, with John Van Buren in the chair—(Discussion on the arming of slaves)—by Geo. Griswold Gray Richmond captured April 3d—1865.

Appended are the following documents:

Doc. no. I. Appendix to Governor's message. 16 pp. 98(1)

Doc. no. II. Report of the Superintendent of the Penitentiary. September 23, 1863. 7 pp. 98(2)

Doc. no. III. Communication from the Second auditor responsive to Senate resolution. September 28, 1863. 4 pp. 98(3)

Doc. no. IV. Report of the Committee on finance relative to the sale of the State's investments in internal improvements for the redemption of the public debt. October 2, 1863. 4 pp. 98(4)

Doc. no. V. Report of the Joint committee on the Public library. October 3, 1863. 14 pp., 1 blank leaf. 98(5)

Doc. no. VI. Communication from the Governor of Georgia relative to supply of salt. October 6, 1863. 8 pp. 98(6)

Doc. no. VII. Communication relative to the tax on tobacco in public warehouses. October 16, 1863. 20 pp. 98(7)

Doc. no. VIII. Report of the Committee on Confederate relations relative to impressments. October 30, 1863. 8 pp. 98(8)

Doc. no. IX. Report of the Joint committee on salt to the General assembly. October 30, 1863. 4 pp. 98(9)

Doc. no. x. Report of the Joint committee on salt in respect to salt for Georgia. October 30, 1863. 29 pp., 1 blank leaf. 98(10)

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. SENATE. Journal of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Virginia: begun and held at the Capitol, in the City of Richmond, on Wednesday, the seventh day of December, [1864] . . . . Extra session. Richmond: James E. Goode, Senate printer, 1864 [i.e., 1865]. 248 pp.; [various pagings]. 8vo. 99

Session: December 7, 1864—April 1, 1865.

The name J. E. Goode occurs in pencil on front flyleaf.

Apparently the only existing copy.

Printed Memorandum at foot of p. 248: On Sunday, April 2, 1865, about 5 o'clock P.M., the legislature assembled to consider the propriety of removing the seat of government to Lynchburg, but no quorum of either house was present, and it was informally resolved, in joint session, to adjourn to meet in said city, and at one o'clock that night the legislature and officers of government, with the archives, left on the boat for Lynchburg, but owing to the rapid succession of untoward events, they never reassembled.

Appended are the following documents:

Doc. no. I. Appendix to Governor's message. 4 pp. 99(1)

Doc. no. II. Communication from the State auditing board, relative to the amount of claims audited, &c. December 10, 1864. 6 pp., 1 blank leaf. 99(2)

Doc. no. III. Report of the Committee of distribution to relieve soldiers' families. December 13, 1864. 7 pp. 99(3)

Doc. no. IV. Report of the Commercial agent of the State to the General assembly of Virginia. December 21, 1864. 12 pp. 99(4)

Doc. no. V. Communication from the Auditor of public accounts, in response to Senate resolution. January 5, 1865. 7 pp. 99(5)

Doc. no. VI. Communication from the Second auditor, in response to Resolution of the Senate. January 7, 1865. 4 pp. 99(6)

Doc. no. VII. Governor's response to Resolution of the General assembly relative to exempting state officers. January 12, 1865. 8 pp. (99)7

Doc. no. VIII. Communication from the Board of public works in response to Senate resolution. January 20, 1865. 8 pp. 99(8)

Doc. no. IX. Communication in regard to transportation charges by internal improvement companies. January 21, 1865. 51 pp. 99(9)

Doc. no. X. Communication from the Governor of North Carolina, transmitting resolutions of his Legislature. January 23, 1865. 5 pp., 1 blank leaf. 99(10)

Doc. no. XI. Report of the Senate Committee on finance on the condition of the State. January 28, 1865. 9 pp. 99(11)

Doc. no. XII. Statement relative to escape of slaves to the enemy, transmitted by First auditor. February 1, 1865. 7 pp. 99(12)

Doc. no. XIII. Communication from the Governor of the Commonwealth relative to pardons, reprieves, etc. March 16, 1865. 23 pp. 99(13)

Doc. no. XV. Report of the Joint committee to examine bonds of public officers. March 7, 1865. 3 pp. 99(14)

Doc. no. 14. Report [of the Joint committee appointed to examine the Register's office]. 4 pp. 99(15)

Incomplete; title-leaf lacking.

JOURNAL

OF

THE SENATE

OF THE

COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA:

BEGUN AND HELD AT THE CAPITOL,

IN THE CITY OF RICHMOND,

ON WEDNESDAY, THE SEVENTH DAY OF DECEMBER, IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR—BEING THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

EXTRA SESSION.

RICHMOND:
JAMES E. GOOLE, SENATE PRINTER.
1864.

GOVERNOR, 1860–1864 (John Letcher). Governor's message to the General assembly of the State of Virginia, January 7, 1861. Printed by order of the Senate. Richmond: James E. Goode, Senate printer, 1861. 54 pp., 1 blank leaf. Lg. 8vo. 100 ———. . . . . Message of the Governor of Virginia, and accompanying documents. Richmond: William F. Ritchie, Public printer, 1863. xxiv pp. 8vo.

At head of title: Doc. No. 1.
Dated: Dec. 7, 1863.
Issue in the original paper covers, with the "accompanying documents" omitted. 100*a*

LAWS, STATUTES, ETC. An act to amend the Charter of the City of Richmond. Passed March 18th, 1861. Richmond: Ellyson's steam presses, 130 Main street, 1861. 32 pp. 8vo. 101

———. . . . . A bill to incorporate the Virginia canal company and to transfer the rights and franchises of the James River & Kanawha company thereto. [Richmond, 1861.] 106 pp., 1 blank leaf. Lg. 8vo.

At head of title: Bill no. 218.
Following title on p. [5]: Feb. 19, 1861—Read first, to be read second time. 102

———. Laws in relation to commissioners and collectors of the public revenue, etc., now in force. Containing suggestions to and forms for clerks of courts. Published by Auditor of public accounts. Richmond, Va. Printed by Ritchie & Dunnavant, 1861. 182 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

"Circular. Auditor's office, ... April 9, 1861": pp. 121–161. 103

———. An ordinance to repeal the ratification of the Constitution of the United States of America, by the State of Virginia, and to resume all the rights and powers granted under said Constitution. . . . . Done in Convention in the City of Richmond, on the seventeenth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and in the eighty-fifth year of the Commonwealth of Virginia. . . . . Richmond, V^a^ Lith By Cha^s^. L. Ludwig [1861]. Broadside, $39\frac{1}{2} \times 26$ inches.

In scroll below second word of title: Written by William Flegenheimer, prof. of penmanship, Richmond, Va.
With reproductions of the signatures of the signers of the Ordinance. 104

———. An act imposing taxes for the support of government. Passed March 28, 1863. [Richmond, 1863.] 57 pp. 8vo.

"Circular. Auditor's office, Richmond, Va. April 2, 1863": pp. [51]–57. 105

———. . . . . A bill suspending the act passed March 28th, 1863, entitled an act imposing taxes for the support of government, and to continue the rights and remedies of the Commonwealth, and prescribing further regulations for licenses. Feb. 24, 1865—Read first, to be read second time. [Richmond, 1865.] 1 leaf. 8vo.

At head of title: Bill no. 96. 106

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS PRINTED IN THE SECEDING STATES DURING THE PERIOD OF SECESSION AND CIVIL WAR

Abrams, Alex. St. Clair. The trials of the soldier's wife: a tale of the second American revolution. By Alex. St. Clair Abrams. Atlanta, Georgia: Intelligencer steam power press, 1864. 188 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo.

Preface dated: Atlanta, April 20th, 1864. 107

Almanac and annual diary [seal of Virginia] and memoranda for 1864. Lynchburg, Va.: Johnson & Schaffter, publishers, [1863]. 96 pp. Sm. 12mo.

Blank pages for Memoranda: pp. 90–96. 108

Bank convention of the Confederate States, Richmond, 1861. Proceedings of the Bank convention of the Confederate States, held at Richmond, Va., July 24th, 25th, and 26th, 1861. Charleston: Steam-power press of Evans & Cogswell, no. 3 Broad and 103 East Bay street, 1861. 14 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 109

Barrow, Robert Ruffin. Remarks on the present war, By R. R. Barrow, [woodcut] of Terrebonne. The objects of the Abolition party. [New Orleans? 1861.] 4 pp. Folio.

Signed and dated: R. R. Barrow, Parish of Terrebonne, La. New Orleans, Oct. 7th, 1861. 110

Bassett, George W. A northern plea for the right of secession. By Geo. W. Bassett. [n.p., 1861?] 24 pp. 8vo.

Possibly a Confederate imprint.

Another edition has imprint: Ottawa [Ill.]: Printed at the office of the Free trader, 1861. 111

[Benham, Calhoun]. A system for conducting musketry instruction. Printed by order of the Secretary of war. [Richmond], 1864. 18 pp. 8vo.

On verso of second leaf is printed a letter from Major Calhoun Benham, dated, Richmond, Va., Sept. 2, 1863, and addressed to the Secretary of war, in which Benham states that the treatise was prepared by order of General Bragg.

The Catalogue of the Leiter library lists an edition described as follows: A system of conducting musketry instruction. Prepared and printed by order of General Bragg, for the Army of Tennessee. Richmond: Printed at the Enquirer job office, 1863. 34 pp., 1 plate. 8vo. 112

Berry, Harrison. Slavery and abolitionism, as viewed by a Georgia slave. By Harrison Berry, the property of S. W. Price, Covington, Georgia. Atlanta, Georgia: M. Lynch & co., publishers. Printed at the Crusader office, 1861. 3 p.l., [v]–vi, 46 pp., 1 blank leaf. incl. front. (port.). 8vo.

Incomplete; paper covers and pp. 1–2 lacking.

On verso of title-leaf: Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1861, by A. M. Eddleman & brother, for the use of Harrison Berry, ... in the Clerk's office of the District court for the Eastern District of Tennessee.

"Preface to Comment on Mr. Lincoln's inaugural." Signed: Harrison Berry.

"Certificates" on p. [v] dated: April 10–18, 1861.

"To the public." Signed and dated: A. M. Eddleman. Atlanta, Georgia, February 26, 1861. 113

Bible. New testament. The New Testament of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, translated out of the original Greek; and with the former translations diligently compared and revised. Nashville, Tenn. Published by the Bible board of the Southern Baptist convention. 1861. 303 pp. 32mo.

2d leaf mutilated, with loss of text. 114

Bible. New testament. John. The Gospel according to St. John. Petersburg, Va. Published by Evangelical tract society, 1862. 48 pp. Lg. 12mo. 114*a*

Bible society of the Confederate States of America. First annual report of the Bible society of the Confederate States of America, 1863; with the constitution of the society, its by-laws, charter, list of patrons, life directors, members, etc. Augusta, Ga.: Printed at the office of the Constitutionalist, 1863. 21, [5] pp. 8vo. 114*b*

Bible society of virginia. Forty-ninth annual report of the Bible society of Virginia, with the proceedings of the annual meeting, held in St. Paul's church, Richmond, Virginia, April 2nd, 1862. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1862. 16 pp. 8vo. 114c

Birch, Edmund Pendleton, 1824–1883. The devil's visit to "Old Abe." By Rev. E. P. Birch, of La Grange, Ga. Written on the occasion of Lincoln's proclamation for prayer and fasting after the battle of Manassas. Revised and improved expressly for La Grange reporter, by the author. [La Grange? Ga., 1862?] 8 pp. 16mo.

Apparently a Confederate imprint. Reprinted, New York, 1682, "From N.Y. Herald, Feb. 4th," with title: The refined poetry of the South. ⟨From the "Southern Confederacy."⟩ The devil's visit to "Old Abe." By Rev. E. P. Birch. 115

Blackwell, Robert. Original acrostics; on some of the Southern states, and most eminent men of the Southern Confederacy; and on various other subjects, political and personal. By Robert Blackwell. [n.p.] Published By Z. F. Milbourn, of Loudoun Co., Va., 1863. cover-title, 24 pp. 8vo. 116

[Bland], pseud. . . . . A southern document. To the people of Virginia. The great issue. Our relations to it. . . . . Wytheville: D. A. St. Clair, printer, 1861. cover-title, 32 pp. 8vo.

Six letters, dated from December 19, 1860 to January 18, 1861, and first published in the Richmond examiner. The letters are signed: Bland. 117

Blum's Farmers' and planters' almanac, for the year 1865: . . . . Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. [vignette] Salem, N.C. Published and sold by L. V. & E. T. Blum. Copyright secured according to law [1864]. 16 pp. Sm. 4to. 118

Brown, Albert Gallatin, 1813–1880. State of the country. Speech of Hon. A. G. Brown, of Mississippi, in the Confederate Senate, December 24, 1863 [Richmond, 1863?] 16 pp. 8vo. 119

[Brown, William], 1811–1894, supposed author. Rev. James M. Brown, D.D. [Richmond, 1862.] [3] pp. Folio.

At head of title: The Central Presbyterian, extra.
Written by a brother of James M. Brown. 120

Charlotte and South Carolina railroad company. Proceedings of the stockholders of the Charlotte & South Carolina railroad company, at their sixteenth annual meeting, held at Columbia, S.C., third day of February, 1864; also, the annual reports of the President, Treasurer, and General superintendent. Columbia, S.C.: South Carolinian steam press, 1864. 23 pp. 8vo. 121

Chisolm, Julian John, 1830–1903. A manual of military surgery, for the use of surgeons in the Confederate States Army; with explanatory plates of all useful operations. By J. Julian Chisolm, M.D., Professor of surgery in the Medical college of South Carolina, surgeon in the Confederate States Army, etc. Third edition—carefully revised and improved. Columbia: Evans and Cogswell, 1864. xxiii, 529 [25] pp., 1 leaf. 13 plates. 8vo. 122

Clarke, H. C. . . . . Clarke's Confederate almanac for the year of our Lord 1864 Being bissextile or leap year, and the fourth of southern independence; and . . . . the eighty-eighth of the independence of the United States. Calculated. . . . . By T. P. Ashmore, of Americus, Ga. Mobile, Ala. H. C. Clarke: publisher and bookseller. Singer's steam printing establishment. Augusta, Ga. [1863]. 22 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo.

At head of title: Cheap edition. 123

———. The Confederate States almanac, and repository of useful knowledge, for 1862. Compiled and published by H. C. Clarke, Vicksburg, Mississippi. For sale by all booksellers in the Confederacy [c. 1861]. 80 pp. 8vo.

The cover-title is the same, except the imprint, which reads: Published by H. C. Clarke, bookseller and stationer, Vicksburg, Miss. For sale by all booksellers in the Confederacy. 123*a*

Collier, Robert R. Remarks on the subject of the ownership of slaves, delivered By R. R. Collier of Petersburg, in the Senate of Virginia, October 12, 1863. Richmond: Printed by James E. Goode, 180 Main st., 1863. 28 pp. 8vo. 124

Collins, Wilkie, 1824–1889. No name. A novel. By Wilkie Collins, author of "The woman in white," "Queen of hearts," "Antonina," etc. Richmond: West and Johnston [Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3 Broad street, Charleston, S.C.], 1863. 279 pp. 8vo.

Publisher's advertisements on 2d–4th pages of cover. 125

Commercial and financial convention, Macon, Ga., 1861. Proceedings of the Commercial and financial convention associated with the Convention of cotton planters, held in Macon, Ga., on the 14th, 15th, & 16th of October, 1861. Printed for the Macon Chamber of commerce. Macon: S. Rose & co., printers, 1861. 24 pp. 8vo. 126

Concord Baptist association, Virginia. Minutes of the thirty-second annual session of the Concord Baptist association, held at Liberty church, Mecklenburg County, Va., August 12th, 13th, and 14th, 1863. Petersburg: John B. Ege, printer, no. 64½ Sycamore st., 1863. 16 pp. 8vo. 127

CONFEDERATE ALMANAC AND REGISTER for 1862. Being the . . . . eighty-sixth of American independence and second of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, portrait of George Washington.] Lynchburg, Va.: Published and for sale by J. P. Bell, dealer in newspapers, periodicals, stationery, ... no. 55 Market street. Virginian print, Lynchburg, Va. [1861]. 31, [1] pp. Lg. 16mo. 128

CONVENTION OF PRESIDENTS AND SUPERINTENDENTS OF RAILROADS IN THE CONFEDERATE STATES, AUGUSTA, GA., 1862. Proceedings of a Convention of presidents and superintendents of rail roads in the Confederate States, held in Augusta, Ga., December 15, 1862. [Augusta? 1862?] cover-title, 8 pp. 8vo. 129

COOPER, SAMUEL, 1798–1876. Instruction for field artillery; including schools of the piece and battery, by Capt. Sam'l Cooper. To which is added A manual for Colt's revolver, etc., etc., etc. New Orleans and Jackson.: H. P. Lathrop, New Orleans, ——— J. L. Power, Jackson, Miss., 1861. 80 pp. 2 plates. 8vo.

Taken in part from Cooper's A concise system of instructions and regulations for the militia and volunteers of the United States, ... Philadelphia, 1836. 130

[CULVER, C. P.] The Southern telegraph. [n.p., 1863.] 7 pp. 8vo.

Signed and dated: C. P. Culver. Berzelia, Ga., January 25th, 1863.
MS corrections. 131

CUSHMAN, GEORGE F. The Israelite without guile. A memorial sermon of the Right Reverend Nicholas Hamner Cobbs, D.D. Preached before the Convention of the Diocese of Alabama, May 4, 1861, By the Rev. Geo. F. Cushman, D.D. Rector of St. Luke's church, Cahaba. Mobile: Farrow & Dennett, prs., no. 3 North Water st., 1861. 37 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

On verso of title-leaf: resolution for printing 1000 copies. 132

[DE BOW, JAMES DUNWOODY BROWNSON], 1820–1867. . . . . The interest in slavery of the Southern non-slaveholder. The right of peaceful secession. Slavery in the Bible. Charleston: Steam-power presses of Evans & Cogswell, no. 3 Broad and 103 East Bay streets, 1860. 30 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: 1860 association. Tract, No. 5.

The first article is a letter by James D. B. de Bow, dated Nashville, Dec. 5, 1860. The second is a communication to the Boston courier of December 8, 1860, signed:

Langdon. The third has title: The character and influence of abolitionism. Extracts from a sermon preached by Rev. Henry J. Van Dyke.

This pamphlet must have been printed very near the date of the secession of South Carolina, which occurred on December 20, 1860. 133

"Dollie," pseud. Our own heroes. A thrilling narrative. By "Dollie" and "Mollie." Volume 1. Atlanta, Ga.: Office of "The Soldier's friend," 1863. 128 pp. Sm. 8vo.

MS inscription on 2d page of cover: Sent home from Atlanta by Lieut. John P. Nicholson 28th Regt P. V. Sept. 1864. 134

Domestic missionary society, Richmond, Va. Proceedings of the twenty-second annual meeting of the Domestic missionary society of Richmond. Held on Monday evening, April 18, 1861. With an appendix. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, 1861. 24 pp. 12mo. 135

East Tennessee and Virginia railroad company. Twelfth annual report of the President and other officers, of the East Tenn. & Virginia railroad company, to the stockholders, at their meeting at Knoxville, November 28th, 1861. Jonesborough, Tenn.: John Slack, Office of the Express, 1861. 10, [2] pp. 8vo. 136

Educational association of the Confederate States of America. Proceedings. [n.p., 1863.] 19 pp. 8vo.

Paper covers (with cover-title?) lacking.

Running-title: Proceedings of the Convention of teachers. Name of the Association from constitution, p. 3. 137

[Ellis, Thomas H.], supposed author. Hon. Powhatan Ellis, of Mississippi. [Richmond: Southern literary messenger, 1863.] 11 pp. 8vo.

Dated: Richmond, Va., March 25th, 1863.

Signed (in pencil): T. H. E. [i.e., Thomas H. Ellis?].

Reprint from Southern literary messenger, April, 1863. 138

Fanning, David, 1755–1825. The narrative of Colonel David Fanning (a Tory in the Revolutionary war with Great Britain); giving an account of his adventures in North Carolina, from 1775 to 1783, as written by himself, with an introduction and explanatory notes. Richmond, Va. Printed for private distribution only. 1861. In the first year of the independnence [sic] of the Confederate States of America. xxv, 92 pp. 4to.

Title and imprint in red and black.

Preface signed and dated: T. H. W. [i.e., Thomas H. Wynne]. Richmond, Nov. 25th, 1861.

Introduction by John H. Wheeler.
Here first printed from a copy of the author's original manuscript.
Half-title: Historical documents relating to the Old North state. No. 1. . . . .
No. 42 of 50 4to copies. 139

FEUILLET, OCTAVE, 1821–1890. The romance of a poor young man. A newly revised and corrected edition. Translated from the French of Octave Feuillet. Richmond: West & Johnston [Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1863. 98 pp. 8vo.

On 4th page of cover: West & Johnston's list of new publications. 140

FÉVAL, PAUL, 1817–1887. The golden daggers; a romance of California. Translated from the French of Paul Feval, By a gentleman of Louisiana. Columbia, S.C.: Evans and Cogswell, 1864. 172 pp. 8vo.

Translator's preface dated: Mobile, April, 1864.
On 4th page of cover: New books just published by Evans & Cogswell, ... 141

FREEMASONS. VIRGINIA. GRAND LODGE. Free masonry and the war. Report of the Committee under the resolutions of 1862, Grand lodge of Virginia, in reference to our relations as Masonic bodies and as Masons, in the North and South, growing out of the manner in which the present war has been prosecuted. Adopted by the Grand lodge of Virginia, December 12, 1864, and ordered to be published. John Dove, Grand secretary. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 1865. 31 pp. 8vo.

Signed: S. S. Baxter, Chairman. 142

———. Proceedings of a grand annual communication of the Grand lodge of Virginia, begun and held in the Masons' hall, in the city of Richmond, on Monday, the 9th day of December, A.L. 5861, A.D. 1861. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 94 Main street, 1861. 67, 1 pp., 2 leaves (last blank). 143

———. Proceedings of a grand annual communication of the Grand lodge of Virginia, begun and held in the Masons' hall, in the city of Richmond, on Monday, the 14th day of December, A.L. 5863, A.D. 1863. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 94 Main street, 1863. 78 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo. 144

FREEMASONS. VIRGINIA. KNIGHTS TEMPLAR. GRAND COMMANDERY. Proceedings of an annual assembly of the Grand commandery of Knights templar of the State of Virginia, held in Richmond, on Thursday, being the 17th day of December, A.L. 5863, A.D. 1863, A.O.

746. [Woodcut.] Richmond: James E. Goode, printer, Main street, 1863. 19 pp., 2 leaves (last blank) 8vo. 145 ———. Proceedings, &c.—1864. At a Grand annual assembly of the Grand commandery of Knights templar and the appendant orders of Virginia, begun and held at the Masons' hall in the city of Richmond, on Thursday, being the 15th day of December, A.L. 5864, A.D. 1864, A.O. 747. [Richmond, 1864.] 16 pp. 8vo.

Incomplete; title-leaf lacking; title from caption. 146

[Fuller, Hiram], 1815?–1880. The times or The flag of truce, dedicated to the cabinets at Washington and Richmond, by a white Republican. [Quotation, 1 line.] Richmond: Ritchie & Dunnavant, printers, 1863. 18 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

MS inscription on title-page: With the Respects of The Author April, 1863. 147

"Gems of song." A choice collection of hymns and songs, for Sunday-schools, and social meetings. Richmond, Va.: Published by W. H. Clemmitt, 1864. 95 pp. 32mo.

The Leiter Catalogue, p. 303, lists an issue with same imprint, having 64 pp. 148

Georgia artillery. Chatham artillery, 1786——. Celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Chatham artillery of Savannah, May 1, 1861. Published in compliance with a resolution adopted by the Corps. [Quotation, 3 lines.] Savannah: John M. Cooper and company, 1861. 65 pp. 8vo.

Oration by Charles C. Jones, jr.: pp. [9]–62.

Two A. L. S. by Charles C. Jones, jr., dated, respectively, Jan. 20 and Jan. 21, 1879, relating to this pamphlet, are inserted. 149

Georgia Baptist association. Minutes of the Georgia Baptist association, held at Crawfordville, Taliaferro County, Georgia. On the 11th, 12th and 14th October, 1861. Augusta, Ga.: Printed at the Office of the Constitutionalist, 1861. cover-title, 15 pp. 8vo. 150 ———. Minutes of the Georgia Baptist association, held at Clark's Station, Wilkes County, Georgia, on the 10th, 11th and 13th October, 1862. Macon, Ga.: Printed at the Christian index office, 1862. 16 pp. 8vo.

Advertisements of Samuel Boykin, Macon, publisher of the Child's index and the Christian index, and of the Southern publishing house, Burke, Boykin & co., Macon, on 4th page of cover. 151 ———. Minutes of the seventy-ninth anniversary the Ga. association was, according to Jesse Mercer, constituted at the Kiokee church.

1784, of the Georgia Baptist association, held with Damascus church, Columbia County, Ga., October 9th and 10th, 1863. Macon, Georgia: Burke, Boykin & co., steam book and job printers, 1863. 16 pp. 8vo. 152 ———. Minutes of the eightieth anniversary of the Georgia Baptist association, held with Pine Grove church, Columbia County, Georgia, October 7th and 8th, 1864. Macon, Ga.: Burke, Boykin & company, 1864. 16 pp. 8vo.

At foot of p. 16: Received of clerk, $525 for printing these minutes—and express expenses.—Burke, Boykin & co. 153

Georgia Baptist state convention. Minutes of the forty-first anniversary of the Georgia Baptist state convention, held at Griffin, the 24th, 25th and 27th of April, 1863. Macon, Ga.: Burke Boykin & co., steam book and job printers, 1863. cover-title, 30 pp., 1 leaf. 154

Gholson, Thomas S. Speech of Hon. Thos. S. Gholson, of Virginia, on the policy of employing negro troops, and the duty of all classes to aid in the prosecution of the war. Delivered in the House of representatives of the Congress of the Confederate States, on the 1st of February, 1865. Richmond: Geo. P. Evans & co., printers, 1865. 20 pp. 8vo. 155

Graham, William Alexander, 1804–1875. Speech of Hon. William A. Graham, of Orange, in the Convention of North-Carolina, Dec. 7th, 1861, on the Ordinance concerning test oaths and sedition. Raleigh: W. W. Holden, printer, 1862. 31 pp. 8vo. 156

Great expectations; or, Getting promoted. A farce, in one act. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 1864. 11 pp. Lg. 12mo. 157

Green, Duff (d. 1875). Facts and suggestions on finance and currency. By Duff Green. [Richmond? 1864?] 28 pp. 8vo. 158

Greenville and Columbia railroad company. Minutes of proceedings of the stockholders of the Greenville and Columbia r.r. co., at their annual meeting, held in the Court house, in Greenville, Thursday, 27th April, 1865. Charleston: Joseph Walker, agt., printer, 129 Meeting street, 1865. 16 pp. 8vo.

This is not strictly a Confederate imprint, as Charleston had been in possession of the Union army since February 18. The proceedings, while recording losses by floods and from Sherman's army, do not mention the fall of the Confederacy or the surrender of Johnston's army, which took place on April 26. 159

Gregg, Alexander, bishop of Texas, 1819–1893. The duties growing out of it, and the benefits to be expected, from the present war. A sermon, preached in St. David's church, Austin, on Sunday, July 7th, 1861, by the Right Rev. Alex. Gregg, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Texas. Published by request. Austin: Printed at the office of the State gazette, 1861. cover-title, 20 pp. 8vo. 160

Gross, Samuel D., 1805–1884. A manual of military surgery, or Hints on the emergencies of field, camp and hospital practice. By S.S. Gross, M.D. Professor of surgery in the Jefferson medical college, of Philadelphia. Richmond, Va.: J. W. Randolph, 121 Main street [C. H. Wynne, printer], 1862. 96 pp., 1 blank leaf. Lg. 12mo.

Reprinted from the Southern medical and surgical journal, Augusta, Georgia. 161

Gutheim, James K. Oration delivered on the fifth anniversary of the Home for Jewish widows and orphans: January 8th, 1861. By Rev. James K. Gutheim. Published by order of the Board of officers of the Association. New Orleans: Clark & Brisbin, 19 Commercial place, 1861. 17 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

On p. [3] is a letter requesting publication, dated: January 21st, 1861. 162

Hardee, William Joseph, 1815–1873. Hardee's Rifle and light infantry tactics. Complete in one volume. [n.p.], 1861. 84 pp. 2 fold. plates (incl. front.) 8vo. 163

———. . . . . Rifle and infantry tactics, revised and improved. By Brig. Gen. W. J. Hardee, C.S. Army. Fifth edition. . . . . Mobile: S. H. Goetzel & co., First year of the Confederacy. [c. 1861.] 2 vols. fold. front. (vol. 1) plates (part fold.) Sm. 16mo.

At head of title: The only copy-right edition.
Publishers' advertisement on leaf preceding title-leaf of each volume.
Contents.—Vol. 1. Schools of the soldier and company; Instruction for skirmishers. —Vol. II. School of the battalion. 164

———. Rifle and light infantry tactics; for the exercise and manœuvres of troops when acting as light infantry or riflemen. Prepared under the direction of the War department, By Brevet Lieut.-Col. W. J. Hardee, U.S. Army. Nashville, Tenn.: J. O. Griffith & co., Union and American office, 1861. 1 vol. (1 p.l., 5–232 pp.) Sm. 12mo.

The Library has vol. II, only, with title: School of the battalion. 165 ———. Rifle and light infantry tactics; for the exercise and manœuvres of troops when acting as light infantry or riflemen. Prepared under the direction of the War department, By Brevet Lieut.-Col. W. J. Hardee, U.S. Army. . . . . Richmond, Va.: J. W. Randolph, 121 Main street [Steam-power presses of Evans & Cogswell, Broad street, Charleston, S.C.], 1861. 2 vols. in 1. Sm. 12mo.

Contents.—Vol. I. Schools of the soldier and company; Instruction for skirmishers. —Vol. II. School of the battalion. 166

Hill, Theophilus Hunter. Hesper, and other poems, by Theo. H. Hill. [Six lines of verse.] Raleigh: Strother & Marcom, publishers, MDCCCLXI. viii pp., 1 leaf, [1], 12–96 pp. 12mo.

Errata slip tipped in between p. [vi] and p. [vii].
Preface dated: Raleigh, December, 1861. 167

Hoge, Moses Drury, 1818–1899. "The Christian statesman." A discourse delivered at the funeral of Hon. John Hemphill, LL.D. In the Second Presbyterian church, Richmond, Va, Jan. 7th, 1862. By Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D.D. Richmond: Enquirer book and job press. Tyler Wise, Allegre and Smith, 1862. 27 pp., 2 blank leaves. 12mo.

Requested for publication by 31 members of the Provisional Congress. 168

Hollins institute, Botetourt Springs, Va. The education of teachers in the South: embracing a letter from Prof. Edw'd S. Joynes to Geo. P. Tayloe, esq., and a plan for the foundation of a normal school in Hollins institute, Virginia; to which is added a catalogue of the Institute, for the sessions 1863–4. Lynchburg: Virginian power-press book and job office, 1864. 56, [2] pp. 8vo.

Letter signed and dated: Edward S. Joynes, Prof. in William and Mary college, and Acting prof. in Hollins institute. Hollins institute, Botetourt Springs, Va., August 20, 1864. 169

. . . . Hopkins' New-Orleans 5 cent song-book. Index: Volunteer mess Song, 2 The merry little soldier, 5 The lass that loves a sailor, 9 We'll have a little dance, 11 Happy land of Caanan, 2, 14 Hurrah for the South, hurrah, 4 Lincoln going to Caanan, 7 The Irishman's shanty, 10 My little Ned and I, 12 Dixie's land, 16, 17 [New Orleans]: John Hopkins, printer, 823 New Levee st. Near the corner of First street, 4th district, 1861. cover-title, [2]–17 pp., 1 leaf (back cover). 18mo.

Coat-of-arms at head of title. Advertisements of R. Coburn and John Hopkins on 4th page of cover.

The Library has another edition with caricature figures of a man and woman at head of title, and Index listing 12 titles. 170

[Howard, John]. Case submitted. "Insurance by the Merchants' insurance company of Richmond, on shipments of coffee, from Rio de Janeiro, in vessels taken by the United States: . . . . [Richmond, 1861.] 51 pp. 8vo.

Imperfect; all preceding p. [3] lacking; title from caption.
Signed and dated: John Howard. Richmond, Nov. 1861.
An opinion as to the liability of the insurance company. 171

Howard college, Marion, Ala. Catalogue of the officers and students of Howard college, Marion, Alabama, 1860–1. Marion, Ala.: Printed at the Commonwealth office, 1861. [15] pp. 8vo. 172

Jackson, Henry Rootes, 1820–1898. Eulogy upon the life and character of the Honorable Charles J. McDonald, pronounced by Henry R. Jackson, at Marietta, April 20th, 1861. Atlanta, Ga.: Franklin printing house. Wood, Hanleiter, Rice & co., proprietors, 1861. 35 pp. 8vo.

The subject of the eulogy was governor of Georgia, 1839–1843. 173

Jackson, Henry W. R. The Southern women of the second American revolution. Their trials, &c. Yankee barbarity illustrated. Our naval victories and exploits of Confederate war steamers. Capture of Yankee gunboats, &c. By W. H. R. Jackson. Atlanta, Georgia: Intelligencer steam-power press, 1863. vi, [7]–120, [2] pp. 8vo.

Advertisements of other books by the same author on 2d–4th pages of cover.
A few MS corrections. 174

Jones, Charles Colcock, 1831–1893. Monumental remains of Georgia: by Charles C. Jones, jr. Part first. Savannah: John M. Cooper and company, 1861. 119 pp. folded plate. 8vo. 175

Kane, George Proctor. To all Marylanders in the Confederate States. [Richmond? 1864.] [3] pp. 8vo.

"Adjutant and inspector general's office, Richmond, March 23, 1864. General orders, no. 38": p. [2].
"Form of transfer [to the Maryland line]": p. [3].
Relates to the plan, authorized by President Davis, for a separate organization of all Maryland soldiers serving in the Confederate Army. 176

Lamar, Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus, 1825–1893. Speech of Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar, of Miss., on the state of the country. Delivered in the Atheneum, Atlanta, Ga., Thursday evening, April 14, 1864. Reported by A. E. Marshall. Published by request. Atlanta, Ga.: J. J. Toon & co., publishers, Franklin steam printing house, 1864. 30 pp. 8vo. 177

Lee, James Kendall, 1829–1861. The volunteer's hand book containing an abridgment of Hardee's Infantry tactics, adapted to the use of the percussion musket in squad and company exercises, manual of arms for riflemen, and United States Army regulations as to parades, reviews, inspections, guard mounting, etc. By Jas. K. Lee, of the First regiment of Virginia volunteers. Third edition. Richmond, Va.: West & Johnston, no. 145 Main street, 1861 [c. 1860]. 111 pp. Sm. 8vo. 178

———. The volunteer's hand book: containing an abridgment of Hardee's Infantry tactics, adapted to the use of the percussion musket in squad and company exercises, manual of arms for riflemen, and United States Army regulations as to parades, reviews, inspections, guard mounting, &c. By Capt. J. K. Lee, of the First regiment of Virginia volunteers. Twentieth thousand. Richmond, Va.: West & Johnston, no. 145 Main street. [Strother & Marcom, printers, Raleigh, N.C.], 1861 [c. 1860]. 1 p.l., ii, 5–96 pp. 12mo.

Pencil inscription on flyleaf: R. A. Brock "F" Co. Va. Vols Richmond 1861.

Copyright notice reads: Entered . . . . in the Clerk's office of the District court of the United States, for the Eastern District of Virginia. 179

———. The volunteer's hand book: containing an abridgment of Hardee's Infantry tactics, adapted to the use of the percussion musket in squad and company exercises, manual of arms for riflemen, and United States Army regulations as to parades, reviews, inspections, guard-mountings, &c. By Capt. J. K. Lee, of the First regiment of Virginia volunteers. Twenty-fifth thousand. Richmond, Va. West & Johnston, 145 Main st. [Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1861. 96 pp. 12mo.

Copyright notice reads: Entered . . . . in the Clerk's office of the District court of the Confederate States, for the Eastern District of Virginia. 180

[LeGal, Eugène]. School of the guides, or The practical soldier; designed for the use of the militia of the Confederate States. New-Orleans: Bloomfield & Steel, 60 Camp-street, 1861. 60 pp., 2 leaves (last blank). illus. 16mo.

Label on front cover lettered: School of the guides, ... Illustrated with 28 engravings. 181

Le Louterel, François Philippe. Manual of military reconnaissances, temporary fortification and partisan warfare, for officers of infantry and cavalry, containing 1st. Military reconnaissances; 2d.

Elements of military topography; 3d. Elements of temporary fortification; 4th. Partisan warfare. Translated from the French of Gen. LeLouterel, by John M. Richardson, B.S., lately Major of the 21st reg't N.C. troops, C.S.A.; now, Professor of mathematics in the Georgia military institute, Marietta, Ga. Atlanta, Georgia. J. McPherson & co., publishers. [Franklin steam printing house, Atlanta, Ga.—J. J. Toon & co.], 1862. xii, 106 pp., 1 blank leaf. illus., fold. plates, fold. map. Sm. 12mo.

MS inscription on title-page: Buchholtz Capt^{n} or Ordn. Va Ordn. Dept. 182

London, ———, guardian, vs. Echols, ——— et als. Supreme court of appeals of Virginia. Richmond. London, gdn. vs. Echols & als. To any judge of the Supreme court of appeals of Virginia. [Richmond? 1864.] 87 pp. Lg. 8vo.

Petition, signed and dated: Lewis P. London, Sterling C. London, Susan V. London, by Daniel H. London, their next friend. . . . . Decr. 10, 1864. 183

[Longstreet, Augustus Baldwin], 1790–1870. Master William Mitten: or, A youth of brilliant talents, who was ruined by bad luck. By the author of "Georgia scenes." Macon, Ga.: Burke, Boykin & company, 1864. 239 pp. 8vo. 184

Louisiana infantry. Légion française, new orleans. Légion française. Ordre du jour. [New Orleans, 1861.] 7 pp. Lg. 8vo.

Dated and signed: Nouvelle-Orléans, 2 décembre 1861. Albin Rochereau, Chef de bataillon. 185

Louisiana soldiers' relief association and hospital, Richmond, Va. Louisiana soldiers' relief association and hospital, in the city of Richmond, Virginia. Established August 21st and 23d, 1861. Richmond: Enquirer book and job press. Tyler, Wise, Allegre & Smith, 1862. 38 pp. 8vo.

Last leaf slightly mutilated, with loss of text. 186

Lytton, Edward George Earle Lytton Bulwer-Lytton, 1st Baron, 1803–1873. A strange story, by Sir E. Bulwer Lytton, Second edition. Mobile: S. H. Goetzel & co., 1863. 370 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo. 187

McIntosh, William H. James C. Sumner, the young soldier ready for death. By Rev. W. H. McIntosh, Marion, Ala. [Marion? Ala., 1862?] 8pp. 8vo.

A sermon, apparently preached at Marion, Alabama, some time in 1862. 188

Marshall, A. J. Five chapters of an unpublished "Book for the times"; giving a Virginia view of the causes of the revolution in the border slave states, and demonstrating who were the true authors of the Civil war. By A. J. Marshall. Richmond: James E. Goode, printer, Main street, 1863. 40 pp. 8vo. 189

Maxwell, mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Braddon), 1837–1915. Aurora Floyd. A novel. By M. E. Braddon, author of "Lady Audley's secret." Richmond: West & Johnston, 145 Main street [Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3, Broad street, Charleston, S.C.], 1863. 198 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

Advertisements of publishers on 2d–4th pages of cover. 190

———. Eleanor's victory. A novel. By M. E. Braddon, author of "Aurora Floyd," "Lady Audley's secret," "Darrell Markham," &c., &c., &c. With illustrations. Richmond: Ayres & Wade, Illustrated news steam presses, 1864. 180+pp. illus. Lg. 8vo.

Incomplete; all lacking after p. 180. 191

Medical college of Virginia. Catalogue of the Medical college of Virginia, session 1863–64. [Woodcut.] Announcement of session 1864–65. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 1864. 16 pp. 8vo. 192

Memoranda of facts bearing on the Kentucky campaign. [n.p., 1862?] 4 pp. 8vo. 193

Middle District Baptist association, Virginia. Minutes of the eightieth annual session of the Middle District Bap. association, held with Mt. Hope church, Amelia County, Va. July 28th and 29th, 1863. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1863. 8 pp. 8vo. 194

Minnigerode, Charles. "He that believeth shall not make haste." A sermon preached on the first of January, 1865, In St. Paul's church, Richmond, by the Rector, Rev. Chas. Minnigerode, D.D. Published by request. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 1865. 16 pp. 8vo. 195

Mississippi infantry. Posey's brigade. Christian philanthropic society. Constitution, by-laws, and catalogue of members of the Christian philanthropic society of Posey's brigade, Anderson's division, Army of northern Virginia, composed of Mississippians. Organized March 28th, 1863. [Quotation, 1 line.] Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, 1863. 16 pp. Sm. 8vo. 196

Moore, William D., 1824–1896. The life and works of Col. Henry Hughes; a funeral sermon, preached in the Methodist Episcopal church, Port Gibson, Miss., October 26th, 1862. By Rev. W. D. Moore. Mobile: Farrow & Dennett, printers, no. 3 North Water-st., 1863. 40 pp. 8vo. 197

. . . . THE NEW CONFEDERATE FLAG SONG BOOK, no. 1. Entered according to Act of Congress, of 1864, By H. C. Clarke, in the Clerk's office, District court of the Confederate States, for the Southern District of Alabama. Mobile: H. C. Clarke, publisher, 1864. 1 p.l., 78, ii pp. 16mo.

At head of title: Fourth edition—enlarged. 198

NORVELL, WILLIAM W. A catalogue of the books in the library of Wm. W. Norvell, of Lynchburg, Va., now offered for sale. Lynchburg: Johnson & Schaffter, printers, 61 Market-st., 1863. 1 p.l. [5]–27 pp. 12mo.

Includes 341 numbered entries. 199

NORWOOD, WILLIAM. God and our country. A sermon, preached by the Rev. Wm. Norwood, D.D., in St. John's church, Richmond, on the 27th day of March, 1863, the day appointed for prayer and humiliation by the President of the Confederate States, from the 19th verse of the 103d Psalm. Richmond: Smith, Bailey & co., 1863. 16 pp. 8vo. 200

THE ORIGIN AND END of the irrepressible conflict. [n.p., G. E. Elford, printer, 1861.] 12 pp. 8vo.

Signed: Octogenarian.

Apparently printed at some point in the South after the seccession of seven states.—cf. p. 2. 201

PATE, HENRY CLAY, defendant. Proceedings of the General court martial, in the case of Lieut. Col. H. Clay Pate, 5th Va. cavalry. [Richmond, 1863.] 126 pp., 1 leaf. 8vo.

"Remarks" signed and dated: H. Clay Pate. Richmond, Va., Sept. 29, 1863.

Pencil annotations and corrections, apparently by Lieutenant-Colonel Pate. 202

[PAYNE, R. L.]. The millennium; or, Essays theological and didactic, on the Sabbath; on the Scriptural passage, "One fold, and one shepherd"; on the Seven churches in Asia, &c. Revised by the author. Richmond: Printed for the author, verbatim et literatim, 1865. 55 pp. 8vo.

Cover-title: A proclamation of the millennium; or, that rest promised to the people of God. Revised and enlarged by R. L. Payne, of Halifax County, Virginia, late of Wayne County, Kentucky. . . . .

Nothing in the text indicates whether this was published before or after the fall of the Confederacy. 203

Pinckney, Charles Cotesworth, 1812–1898. Nebuchadnezzar's fault and fall: a sermon, preached at Grace church, Charleston, S.C., on the 17th of February, 1861. By the Rev. C. C. Pinckney. Charleston: Printed by A. J. Burke, 40 Broad-street, 1861. 14 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 204

Pollard, Edward Albert, 1828–1872. The Southern spy. Letters on the policy and inauguration of the Lincoln war. Written anonymously in Washington and elsewhere. By Edward A. Pollard, of Virginia. Author of "Black diamonds." [Quotation, 4 lines.] Richmond, Va.: West & Johnston, 145 Main street [Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1861. 103, iv pp. 12mo.

Copyright notice reads: Entered . . . . In the Clerk's office of the Eastern District of the Confederate States of America.

"The book for the times. Black diamonds. ⟨Second edition.⟩" (Press notices): iv pp. at end. 205

Prayers and other devotions for the use of the soldiers of the Army of the Confederate States. Charleston, S.C.: Published for Female Bible, prayer-book and tract society. Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3 Broad street, [186—?]. 12 pp. 12mo. 206

Presbyterian church in the Confederate States of America. United synod. Minutes of the United synod of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America: with an appendix. May, A.D., 1861. Richmond, Va. Published by the Stated clerk of the United synod. Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1861. 1 p.l., [143]–182 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

The separation of the Presbyterian church in the seceding states was formally accomplished at a meeting held in Augusta, Georgia, in December, 1861. 207 ———. Minutes of the United synod of the Presbyterian church, in the Confederate States of America: with an appendix. May, A.D., 1863. Richmond, Va.: Published by the Stated clerk of the United synod. Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1863. 1 p.l., [187]–224 pp. 8vo. 208

Presbyterian church in the Confederate States of America. Synod of virginia. Minutes of the Synod of Virginia, at their session in Petersburg, October, 1861. With an appendix. [Richmond?]: Published by order of the Synod, [1861]. 1 p.l., [277]–291 pp. 8vo.

Original yellow paper covers lacking. 209

———. Minutes of the Synod of Virginia, at their session in Staunton, October, 1862. With an appendix. [Richmond?]: Published by order of the Synod, [1862]. 1 p.l., [295]–320 pp. 8vo. 210 ———. Minutes of the Synod of Virginia, at their session in Salem, October, 1853 [i.e., 1863]. With an appendix. [Richmond?]: Published by order of the Synod, [1863]. 1 p.l., [323]–342+pp. 8vo.

Last leaf (p. 343?) lacking. 211

———. The position, relation and prospects of the United synod: in reference to the moral issues involved in the present war. Adopted by the Synod of Virginia, October 25th, 1862. Published by order of the Synod at the office of the "Christian observer." Richmond: Printed by Charles H. Wynne, 1863. 12 pp. 8vo.

Half-title on front cover: The United synod and the state of the country.
Prefatory note dated: Richmond, Dec. 11th, 1863. 212

Protestant Episcopal church in the Confederate States of America. Book of common prayer. Selections from the Book of common prayer, in use in the Protestant Episcopal church, in the Confederate States of America. Part 1. Containing the Order for daily morning and evening prayer, the Litany, and Occasional collects. Charlottesville, Va.: Published by James Alexander, 1861. 16 pp. 8vo. 213 ———. Selections from the Book of common prayer, in use in the Protestant Episcopal church, in the Confederate States of America. Part 1. Containing the Order for daily morning and evening prayer, the Litany, and Occasional collects. Third edition. Charlottesville, Va.: Published by James Alexander, 1861. 8+pp.

All after p. 8 lacking. 214

Protestant Episcopal church in the Confederate States of America. General convention, 1861. A calendar of the days and daily lessons of the year 1862, and a catalogue of the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the Confederate States of America. Montgomery: Advertiser book and job office, 1861. 24 pp. 8vo.

On verso of title-leaf: This little pamphlet is sent to the clergy of the C.S.A. by the Secretary of the P.E. convention, held in October, at Columbia, S.C. The catalogue would have been an appendix to the Journal of that convention, if the clergy-list of all the dioceses had been obtained earlier. 215

Protestant Episcopal church in the Confederate States of America. Diocese of North Carolina. [Proceedings of the forty-sixth annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in the Diocese of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, May 14–17, 1862] [n.p., 1862.] 72 pp. 8vo.

Title-leaf lacking; title taken from text. 216

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA. DIOCESE OF VIRGINIA. Journal of the sixty-ninth annual Council of the Protestant Episcopal church in Virginia. Held in St. Paul's church, Richmond, on the 18th and 19th May, 1864. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1864. 74 pp. 8vo. 217

THE PUNCH SONGSTER. A collection of familiar and original songs and ballads. Richmond: Punch office, 1864. 72 pp. 12mo.

Advertisement of The Southern Punch on 4th page of cover. 218

RAILROAD poetry. [n.p., 1864?] 13 pp., 1 blank leaf. Lg. 16mo.

A narrative, in very poor verse, of a railroad trip in South Carolina in April, 1864. Apparently printed in South Carolina in 1864. 219

RAINS, GEORGE WASHINGTON, 1817–1898. Notes on making saltpetre from the earth of the caves. By Major Geo. W. Rains, Corps of artillery and ordnance, in charge of the Gunpowder department, C.S.A., late of the U.S.A., and former Assistant professor of chemistry, &c., U.S.M.A. Richmond: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 94 Main street, 1862. 15 pp. 8vo. 220

RAMSAY, T. N. Sketches of the great battles in 1861, in the Confederate States of America. Sumter, Bethel, Manassas, Springfield, Hatteras, Lexington, Leesburg, Port Royal, Columbus or Belmont. Also, sketches of Jefferson Davis and A. H. Stephens. By T. N. Ramsay, North Carolina. Salisbury, N.C.: J. J. Bruner, printer, 1861. 32 pp. 8vo.

Cover-title: Sketches of the American revolution of 1861.
"To the public." Dated: Mount Mourne, N.C. Jan. 1, 1861. 221

RAMSEY, JAMES BEVERLIN, 1814–1871. True eminence founded on holiness. A discourse occasioned by the death of Lieut. Gen. T. J. Jackson. Preached in the First Presbyterian church of Lynchburg, May 24th, 1863. By Rev. James B. Ramsey. Lynchburg: Virginian "Water-power presses" print., 1863. 21 pp. 8vo. 222

REID, SAMUEL CHESTER, 1818–1897. Great battle of Chicamauga [sic]: a concise history of events from the evacuation of Chattanooga to the defeat of the enemy. Full details of the battle, incidents, &c. By S. C. Reid, "Ora," of the Mobile tribune. . . . . Mobile: F. Titcomb, corner Dauphin and Royal streets, 1863. 16 pp. 8vo.

Entered for copyright by H. Ballentyne & co.

Advertisement of military publications for sale by F. Titcomb, bookseller and stationer, on verso of title-leaf. 223

Renfroe, John J. D. A model Confederate soldier, being a brief sketch of the Rev. Nathaniel D. Renfroe, Lieutenant of a company in the Fifth Alabama battalion, of Gen. A. P. Hill's division, who fell in the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13th, 1862. By the Rev. J. J. D. Renfroe. . . . . [n.p., 1863?] 16 pp. 16mo.

Prefatory note signed: S. H.
Articles reprinted from South western Baptist and Religious herald. 224

Richardson, David. . . . . Richardson's almanac, 1862. Being the second after bissextile or leap year, eighty-sixth of American independence, and the first of the Southern Confederacy. [Woodcut, seal of Virginia.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond, Va.: Published and for sale by J. W. Randolph, [1861]. [36] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: (Cottom's edition).
"New books, published in Virginia, and for sale by all booksellers": recto of last leaf.
"Military books. Published and for sale by J. W. Randolph, ...": verso of last leaf. 225

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1862, being the second after bissextile or leap year, the eighty-sixth of American independence, and the first of the Southern Confederacy. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond, Va.: A. Morris, publisher, bookseller and stationer, 97 Main street; Chas. H. Wynne, printer, [1861]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: A. Morris, bookseller, ... 226

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1863, being the third after bissextile or leap year, the eighty-seventh of American independence, and the second of the Southern Confederacy. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond, Va.: West & Johnston, publisher, bookseller and stationer, 145 Main street; Chas. H. Wynne, printer, [1862]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement of West & Johnston on last page. 227

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1864, being bissextile or leap year, the eighty-eighth of American independence, and the third of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond: J. W. Randolph, publisher, bookseller and stationer, 121 Main street; Chas. H. Wynne, printer, [1863]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: Military and other books for sale by J. W. Randolph, ...
Interleaved with ruled blanks, containing a manuscript diary for the year 1865. 228

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1864, being bissextile or leap year, the eighty-eighth of American independence, and the third of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond: Published by Chas. H. Wynne, steam book and job printing house, 94 Main street, [1863]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: Book and job printing! Chas. H. Wynne, ... 229

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1864, being bissextile or leap year, the eighty-eighth of American independence, and the third of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond: Published by Chas. H. Wynne, steam book and job printing house, 94 Main street, [1863]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: West & Johnston, publishers & booksellers, ... 230

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1865, being the first year after bissextile or leap year, the eighty-ninth of American independence, and the fourth of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond: Published by Chas. H. Wynne, steam book and job printing house, 94 Main street, [1864]. 35, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: Book and job printing! Chas. H. Wynne, ... 231

———. . . . . Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, for the year of our Lord 1865, being the first after bissextile or leap year, the eighty-ninth of American independence and the fourth of the Confederate States. [Woodcut, Virginia state capitol.] Calculated by David Richardson, of Louisa County, Va. Richmond: Published by Chas. H. Wynne, steam book and job printing house, 94 Main street, [1864]. 35, [1] pp. Lg. 12mo.

At head of title: Wynne's edition.
Advertisement on last page: J. C. Swan, book-seller. 232

Richmond, Va. City council. Committee on light. Report of the Committee on light of the City of Richmond, for the year ending January 31st, 1864. Richmond: Geo. P. Evans & co., printers, 1864. 19 pp. 8vo. 233

Rigg, James Harrison, 1821–1909. The Bible and modern progress. A lecture, by the Rev. James H. Rigg. Delivered before the Young men's Christian association in Exeter hall [London], January 25, 1859. [Richmond? 186—?] 54 pp. 8vo.

Cover-title: Reading for the ranks. [Woodcut, Confederate flag.] 234

Roberts, Joseph, 1814–1898. The hand-book of artillery. By Capt. Joseph Roberts, Fourth regt. artillery U.S. Army. Richmond: Printed by Ritchie & Dunnavant, 1861. 137 pp. illus. 12mo. 235

[Robertson, John], 1787–1873. Letters on the subject of Southern wrongs and remedies. By J. R. Richmond, Va., 1861. cover-title, 60 pp. 8vo.

Includes 15 numbered articles, and 3 not numbered, apparently reprinted from Richmond newspapers, and dated from November, 1859, to December 25, 1860, inclusive. The pamphlet was probably issued early in 1861. 236

Saint-Robert, Paolo di, cónte. The movement of projectiles from rifled cannon. By Count Paul de Saint-Robert. Paris: 1861. Translated By W. LeRoy Broun, Lieutenant-Colonel, commanding Richmond arsenal. Columbia: Evans and Cogswell, 1864. 60 pp. illus. Sm. 8vo.

On 4th page of cover is a list of new publications issued by Evans and Cogswell. 237

SCHREINER, HERMANN L. The Beauregard songster, being a collection of patriotic, sentimental, and comic songs, the most popular of the day. Arranged by Hermann L. Schreiner. Macon and Savannah, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, 1864. 36 pp. Sm. 12mo.

At head of cover-title: No. 1.

On p. [3]: ⟨The music, with piano-forte accompaniment, of most of the songs in this book, can be obtained of Messrs. Schreiner & son. Price $1.50.⟩

On 3d page of cover: Catalogue of sheet music, just published by J. C. Schreiner & son, ... 238

SCRIPTURE HELP: specially designed for Bible-classes and Sunday-schools. Revised by Thomas O. Summers, D.D. Nashville, Tenn.: Southern Methodist publishing house. 1861. vii pp. (1st leaf blank), 9–340 pp., [4] pp. advts. 16mo.

Based upon Bickersteth's Scripture help—cf. Introductory note, dated: Nashville, Tenn., September 2, 1856. 239

SEGAR, JOSEPH E., 1804–1885. Speech of Joseph Segar, esq., of the York District, delivered in the House of delegates of Virginia, March the 30th, 1861, on the resolutions of the Senate, directing the Governor of Virginia to seize, by military force, the U.S. guns at Bellona arsenal, and on the secession of Virginia. [Richmond? 1861.] 23 pp. 8vo. 240

THE SEVEN DAYS' BATTLES in front of Richmond. An outline narrative of the series of engagements which opened at Mechanicsville, near Richmond, on Thursday, June 26, 1862, and resulted in the defeat and retreat of the Northern army under Major-General M'Clellan. Compiled from the detailed accounts of the newspaper press. Richmond, Va.: West and Johnston, no. 145 Main street [Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3, Broad street, Charleston, S.C.], 1862. 45 pp. 8vo.

This issue has heading in text on p. 7: The assault upon Ellyson's Mills.

"The northern account of the Seven days' battles . . . . by the correspondent of the Cincinnati commercial . . . .": pp. 32–45. 241

THE SEVEN DAYS' BATTLES in front of Richmond. An outline narrative of the series of engagements which opened at Mechanicsville, near Richmond, on Thursday, June 26, 1862, and resulted in the defeat and retreat of the Northern army under Major-General M'Clellan. Compiled from the detailed accounts of the newspaper press. Richmond: West and Johnston, no. 145 Main street. [Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3, Broad street, Charleston, S.C.], 1862. 45 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

Publishers' advertisement on 4th page of cover.
This issue has heading in text on p. 7: The assault upon Ellerson's Mills.
A note occurs at the foot of p. 17, and there is a rearrangement of the text, pp. 17–30, showing that this issue is of a later date than no. 241. 242

SHELTON, WILLIAM J. Confederate poems. By Wm. J. Shelton. [Woodcut; quotation, 1 line.] Lynchburg: Printed at the Virginian power press job office, 1862. 28, [4] pp. Sm. 8vo.

Crude woodcuts on several pages. 243

SMITH, FRANCIS HENNEY, 1812–1890. Introductory lecture read before the Corps of cadets, on the resumption of the academic duties of the Virginia military institute, at the Alms house, Richmond, Va., December 28, 1864, by Francis H. Smith, A.M., Superintendent of the Va. military institute. Published by order of the Board of visitors. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1865. cover-title, 8 pp. 8vo. 244

SMITH, ROBERT HARDING, 1814–1878. An address to the citizens of Alabama, on the Constitution and laws of the Confederate States of America, by the Hon. Robert H. Smith, at Temperance hall, on the 30th of March, 1861. ⟨Published by request of the citizens of Mobile.⟩ Mobile: Mobile daily register print, 1861. 24 pp. 8vo. 245

THE SOLDIER'S HYMN-BOOK: for camp worship. [Richmond]: Soldiers' tract society, Virginia conference, M.E. church, South, 1862. Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 1862. 64 pp. 32mo. 246

[SOLDIERS' RELIEF ASSOCIATION, COLUMBIA, S.C.] To the friends of the Southern cause at home. [Columbia, 1864.] 2 pp. 8vo.

Printed on light-yellow paper.
Signed and dated: Mrs. Dr. John Fisher, Columbia. Mrs. M. A. Snowden, Charleston [and six others]. Columbia, S.C., November 5, 1864.
An appeal for articles to be sold at a bazaar, proposed to be held at Columbia in January, 1865. 247

THE SOUTHERN SOLDIER'S PRIZE SONGSTER, containing martial and patriotic pieces, (chiefly original,) applicable to the present war. Mobile, Ala.: W. F. Wisely, no. 38, St. Michael st., 1864. 104 pp. 16mo. 248

THE STEP-SISTER. A novelette. By a Southern gentleman. Richmond: Ayres & Wade, Illustrated news steam presses, 1863. 256+pp. 16mo.

Imperfect? text is apparently not completed on p. 256. 249

STEPHENS, ALEXANDER HAMILTON, 1812–1883. The great speech of Hon. A. H. Stephens, delivered before the Georgia Legislature, on Wednesday night, March 16th, 1864, to which is added extracts from Gov. Brown's message to the Georgia Legislature [n.p., 1864.] 32 pp. 8vo. 250 ———. Speech of Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, delivered before the Georgia Legislature on Wednesday night, March 16th, 1864. Reported for the Atlanta intelligencer, by A. E. Marshall, and revised by himself. [Atlanta? 1864.] 20+pp. 8vo.

Imperfect; all after p. 20 lacking. 251

SUMMERS, THOMAS OSMOND, 1812–1882, editor. The Confederate States almanac for the year of our Lord 1862. Being the second after bissextile, or leap year, the eighty-sixth of American independence, and the second of the Confederate States. Calculations made at the University of Alabama. Edited by T. O. Summers, D.D. Nashville, Tenn.: Southern Methodist publishing house, 1862. . . . . 32 pp. Sm. 8vo.

"Memorabilia" (Dec. 20, 1860—Nov. 26, 1861): pp. 18–22.

"Books for sale by J. B. M'Ferrin, agent, Pub. house M.E. church South, Nashville, Tenn.": pp. [23]–32. 252

A SYNOPSIS of the art of war. Dedicated to the junior officers of the Confederate Army. Columbia. Evans and Cogswell, 1864. 109 pp. 16mo. 253

THACKERAY, WILLIAM MAKEPEACE, 1811–1863. The adventures of Philip on his way through the world; showing who robbed him, who helped him, and who passed him by. By W. M. Thackeray, author of "Vanity fair," "The Newcomes," "The Virginians," "Pendennis," "The English humorists of the eighteenth century," "The four Georges," etc., etc. With illustrations. Columbia, S.C.: Evans and Cogswell, 1864. vii, [9]–496 pp. front. (port.) 12 plates. Sm. 12mo.

"New publications. Now ready" (dated: Nov. 20, 1864): 4th page of cover. 254

THORNWELL, JAMES HENLEY, 1812–1862. The state of the country, by Rev. J. H. Thornwell, D.D., Theological seminary, Columbia, S.C.

New Orleans: Printed at the "True witness and sentinel" office, 94 Camp st., 1861. cover-title, 15 pp. 8vo.

Review of three publications of the Convention of South Carolina.

The pamphlet was apparently written in January, 1861, and intended to influence public opinion in states which had not yet seceded. The present edition was probably printed about the time of the adoption of the ordinance of secession by Louisiana, which occurred on January 26. 255

[Tochman, Gaspard], 1795–1880. Memorial. To the Honorable the Senate and House of representatives of the Confederate States of America in Congress assembled. [Richmond, 1863.] 47 pp. 8vo.

Signed and dated: G. Tochman. Richmond, Va., January 12, 1863. 256

Tucker, J. W. God sovereign, and man free. A discourse. By Rev. J. W. Tucker, Fayetteville, [N.C.]: Printed at the Presbyterian office, 1862. 22pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 257

Tucker, John Randolph, 1823–1897. The Bible or atheism, by J. Randolph Tucker, esq., Attorney general of Virginia. [Richmond? 186—?] 31 pp. 8vo.

Addressed: To the young soldiers of the South. 258

Tucker, Nathaniel Beverley, 1784–1851. Prescience. Speech delivered by Hon. Beverly [sic] Tucker, of Virginia, in the Southern convention, held at Nashville, Tenn., April 13th, 1850. Richmond, Va: West & Johnston, 1862. 38 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo. 259

Tupper, H. A. A thanksgiving discourse, delivered at Washington, Ga., on Thursday, September 18, 1862. By H. A. Tupper. Macon, Georgia: Burke, Boykin & co., steam book and job printers, 1862. 11 pp. 8vo.

On verso of title-leaf is an extract from President Davis' proclamation for a day of prayer and thanksgiving "for the triumph of our arms at Richmond, Ky., and at Manassas." 259*a*

United States. War department. Instruction for heavy artillery; prepared by a Board of officers, for the use of the Army of the United States. Charleston: Steam-power presses of Evans & Cogswell, no. 3 Broad and 103 East Bay streets, 1861. xvi, 272 pp. 39 plates. 8vo. 260

University of Virginia. See Virginia. University.

Vanfelson, Charles A. The little red book or Department directory, for the use of the public in the Confederate States of America.

Published by C. A. Vanfelson. Richmond: Tyler, Wise and Allegre, printers, Enquirer job office, 1861. 24 pp. 8vo.

On verso of title-leaf: ⟨Entered . . . . in the Court of the Eastern District of Virginia, this 18th day of July, ... 1861⟩. 261

[Villeré, Charles J.]. . . . . Review of certain remarks made by the President when requested to restore General Beauregard to the command of Department no. 2. Charleston: Steam-power presses of Evans & Cogswell, 3 Broad and 103 East Bay streets, 1863. 28 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: ⟨Printed, but not published.⟩

On verso of title-leaf: These pages have been put in print not for general circulation, but for more convenient reading by the gentlemen who signed the paper printed in the Appendix, and marked A. Charleston, S.C., February 6, 1863.

Appendix A signed: Chs. J. Villere, Representative in Congress [and by 59 other members of Congress].

MS note, apparently by the author, on p. 4. 262

Virginia and Tennessee railroad company. Sixteenth annual report of the President and directors to the stockholders of the Virginia & Tennessee railroad co. October 15th, 1863. Lynchburg: Printed at the Virginian job office, 1863. 123 pp. 8vo. 263 ———. Seventeenth annual report of the President and directors to the stockholders of the Virginia & Tennessee railroad co. October 12th, 1864. Lynchburg: Virginian power-press book and job office, 1864. 112 pp. 8vo.

Original paper covers lacking. 264

Virginia central railroad company. Address of the President of the Va. central railroad co., to the stockholders, on the subject of withdrawal of the mails by the Postmaster general. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers, 1864. 30 pp. 8vo.

Signed and dated: E. Fontaine, Pres't. . . . . Richmond, Sept. 7, 1864. 265

———. Twenty-seventh annual report of the President and directors of the Virginia central railroad company, to the stockholders, at their annual meeting, November, 1862. Richmond: M. Ellyson, printer, 130 Main street, 1862. 87 pp. 8vo.

Imperfect; pp. [1]–6 lacking; supplied by photostat reproduction. 266

———. Twenty-eighth annual report of the President and directors of the Virginia central railroad company, to the stockholders, at their annual meeting, November, 1863. Richmond M. Ellyson, printer, 130 Main street, 1863. 72 pp. 8vo.

Original green paper covers lacking. 267

VIRGINIA INFANTRY. STONEWALL BRIGADE. CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. Constitution, by-laws and catalogue of members of the Christian association of the Stonewall brigade, Johnson's division, Army of northern Virginia. Organized May 19th, 1863. [Quotation, 1 line.] Richmond: William. H. Clemmitt, printer, 1864. 11, [1] pp. 8vo. 268

VIRGINIA SONGSTER. [Richmond? 186—?] 48 pp. 16mo.

Imperfect; lacks pp. 13–24, 39–46. 269

THE VIRGINIA SPELLER and reader. [Woodcut: Virginia arms; quotation, 2 lines.] Richmond: J. R. Keiningham, 211 Broad st. [Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1865. 94 pp. (1st leaf blank), 1 blank leaf. Sm. 8vo.

In list of abbreviations, p. 82: C.S.A. Confederate States of America. 269*a*

VIRGINIA. UNIVERSITY. Catalogue of the University of Virginia. Session of 1860. '61. Richmond, Va.: Chas. H. Wynne, printer, 94 Main street, 1861. 48 pp. 8vo. 270

VOORHEES, DANIEL WOLSEY, 1827–1897. Addresses of Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana; comprising his argument delivered at Charlestown, Va., Nov. 8, 1856 [i.e., 1859], upon the trial of John E. Cook, for treason and murder; also, An address delivered before the literary societies of the University of Virginia, July 4, 1860. Richmond, Va.: Published by West & Johnston, 1861. 55 pp. 8vo.

The cover-title is the same, except that the first date reads "Nov. 8, 1859," and at the head of title appear the words: Price 25 cents.

Advertisement of publishers on 4th page of cover, listing among other books the Volunteer's hand book.

Cook was with John Brown in his memorable raid on Harpers Ferry. 271

———. Addresses of Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana; comprising his argument delivered at Charlestown, Virginia, Nov. 8, 1859, upon the trial of John E. Cook, for treason and murder; also, An address delivered before the literary societies of the University of Virginia, July 4, 1860. Richmond, Va.: Published by West & Johnston, 1861. 55 pp. 8vo. 272

WALTHALL, J. S. The distinctive features of the Baptists: a sermon delivered before the Union association at its session, Oct. 9–12, 1860, by Elder J. S. Walthall, delivered by appointment and published by request of the body. Raleigh: Strother & Marcom book and job printers, 1861. 21 pp., 1 blank leaf. 8vo.

Incomplete; pp. 17–20 lacking. 273

WESTMINSTER ASSEMBLY OF DIVINES. The shorter catechism of the Westminster assembly. Richmond: Presbyterian committee of publication of the Confederate States, [186—?]. 32 pp. Sm. 16mo. 274

WILEY, CALVIN HENDERSON, 1819–1887. Scriptural views of national trials: or The true road to the independence and peace of the Confederate States of America. By Rev. C. H. Wiley, Superintendent of public schools of North Carolina. [Quotations, 4 lines.] Greensboro, N.C.: Sterling, Campbell & Albright, 1863. v, [7]–8+pp. 8vo.

Incomplete; all after p. 8 lacking. 275

WILSON, JOHN STAINBACK. The Southern soldier's health guide. By John Stainback Wilson, M.D., A.A. surgeon, P.A.C.S., author of "Woman's home book of health"; member of the Medical association of the State of Georgia, &c., &c. Second edition. Richmond: West & Johnston, 145 Main street [Macfarlane & Fergusson, printers], 1863. 16 pp. 16mo.

Advertisement on 4th page of cover: Now ready for the press. The plantation and family physician; a work for families generally and for slave-owners specially: . . . . By John Stainback Wilson, M.D. This work is now ready for the press, and will be published as soon as the war is over. . . . . West & Johnston, ... 276

RELIGIOUS TRACTS

EVANGELICAL TRACT SOCIETY, PETERSBURG, VIRGINIA

JESUS, the soldier's friend. By a young lady of Virginia, the author of "Enlist." Petersburg, Va.: Charles LeRoi, printer, 42 Sycamore st., 1862. 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of p. [3]: Evangelical tract society, Petersburg, Va. No. 174. 277

PRESBYTERIAN COMMITTEE OF PUBLICATION, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

. . . . SYMPATHY with the afflicted Christian. [Richmond? Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 7, [1] pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 2. 278

. . . . How shall I live? By Rev. James B. Ramsey, D.D., Lynchburg, Va. Richmond: Presbyterian committee of publication, [186—?] cover-title, 16 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 3. 279

. . . . ENTIRE DEVOTEDNESS to God. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 4. 280

. . . . WHY do you do it? [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: No. 8. 281

. . . . THE WAY to heaven. A conversation. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 35. 282

. . . . A TRUE story of Lucknow. [Richmond, Va: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 36. 283

. . . . GEORGE GILES, or "My mother's Bible." [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 37. 284

. . . . DEATH of a Christian soldier. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 40. 285

. . . . THE WAY of salvation made plain. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 41. 286

HEARING, or, hardening. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 42. 287

. . . . A MOTHER'S prayer answered. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 12 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 43. 288

. . . . OFTEN warned. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 44. 289

. . . . ONCE to die. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 7, [1] pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 45. 290

. . . . Sins going before to judgment. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 12 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: No. 46. 291

. . . . Prayer. Directions concerning prayer. By Bishop [John] Wilkins. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 49. 292

. . . . Strong consolation. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 4 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 50. 293

. . . . Sin and its wages. By Rev. J. S. Grasty, Fincastle, Va. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 51. 294

. . . . Not happy in heaven. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 53. 295

. . . . the Midnight cry. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 54. 296

. . . . the Bold blasphemer. A narrative of facts. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 57. 297

the Victory won: A memorial of the Rev. Wm J. Hoge, D.D., late pastor of the Tabb street Presbyterian church, Petersburg, Va. Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 1864. 16 pp. 8vo.

At head of p. 3: No. 64.

Contents:—[Introduction.]—Sketch of Dr. Hoge's character, by Rev. T. V. Moore, D.D.—Last hours [by Moses D. Hoge]. 298

. . . . Profane swearing. [Richmond, Va.: Presbyterian committee of publication, 186—?] 4 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 77. 299

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION, CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

A list of Tracts, nos. 1–28, published by the Association, will be found in The Church intelligencer, Raleigh, North Carolina, issue of February 16, 1865.

. . . . LETTERS to a man bewildered among many counsellors. By the Rt. Rev. Henry C. Lay, D.D., Bishop of Arkansas. Revised and enlarged. Fifth edition. [Quotations, 3 lines.] Charlotte, N.C.: Protestant Episcopal church publishing association, 1864. 55 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 1. 300

"THERE's a good time coming." [Charlotte, N.C.: Protestant Episcopal church publishing association, 186—?] 8 pp. 16mo.

Issue without number. 301

. . . . "THERE's a good time coming." [Charlotte, N.C.: Protestant Episcopal church publishing association, 186—?] 8 pp. 16mo.

At head of title: No. 7. 302

. . . . DOERS of the word. [Charlotte, N.C.: Protestant Episcopal church publishing association, 186—?] 8 pp. 16mo.

At head of title: No. 11. 303

. . . . WORDS of counsel to Confederate soldiers. [Charlotte, N.C.: Protestant Episcopal church publishing association, 186—?] 32 pp. 16mo.

At head of title: No. 18. 304

SOLDIERS' TRACT ASSOCIATION, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

. . . . A WORD of warning to an impenitent sinner. By Rev. John E. Edwards. [Richmond: Soldiers' tract association, M.E. church, South, 186—?] 8 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Soldiers' tract association, Richmond, Va. No. 5. 305

. . . . THE SOLDIER'S BIBLE. By Rev. Wm. M. Crumly, Chaplain of Georgia hospitals, Richmond. [Richmond: Soldiers' tract association, M.E. church, South, 186—?] 12 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Soldiers' tract association, Richmond, Va., No. 50. 306

OUR DANGER and our duty. By Rev. J. H. Thornwell, D.D. He, being dead, yet speaketh. [Richmond: Soldiers' tract association of the M.E. church, South, 1862?] 16 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: Soldiers' tract association, Richmond, Va. No. 64. 307

SOLDIERS' TRACT SOCIETY, VIRGINIA ANNUAL CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH

. . . . CAN I be religious while I am a soldier? [Richmond: Soldiers' tract society, Virginia annual conference, M.E. church, South, 186—?] 4 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: Soldiers' tract society, Richmond, Va. 23. 308

SOUTH CAROLINA COLPORTAGE BOARD

THE YOUNG heroes of Shiloh. [Charleston: Published by the South Carolina colportage board. Harper & Calvo, printers, 186—?] 4 pp. 8vo. 309

SOUTH CAROLINA TRACT SOCIETY, CHARLESTON AND COLUMBIA

A "List of tracts published by the South Carolina tract society" (nos. 1–103) appears on the last page of Tract no. 96.

. . . . THE WAY of peace. Charleston, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Evans & Cogswell, printers, no. 3, Broad street [186—?]. 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 20. 310

. . . . THE CHRISTIAN OFFICER. [Charleston, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Printed by Evans & Cogswell, no. 3, Broad street, 186—?] 8 pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 43. 311

. . . . THE CONFEDERATE HERO and his heroic father. [Charleston, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Printed by Evans & Cosgwell, no. 3 Broad street, 1862?] 12 pp. 12mo.

At head of title: No. 57.
A sketch of Dabney Carr Harrison, who died February 16, 1862, from wounds received at Fort Donelson. 312

. . . . THE DYING ROBBER. A true account. [Columbia, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Printed by C. P. Pelham, Southern guardian office, 186—?] 7, [1] pp. 12mo.

At head of title: No. 61. 313

. . . . A KIND WORD to the officers of our Army. [Charleston, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Printed by Evans & Cogswell, no. 3 Broad street, 186—?] 7, [1] pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 96. 314

. . . . THE MUSTER. [Charleston, S.C.: Published by the South Carolina tract society. Printed by Evans & Cogswell, no. 3 Broad street. 186—?] 4 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 101. 315

MISCELLANEOUS TRACTS

The tracts listed below bear no indication of the name of the organization by which they were issued.

. . . . ASHAMED of Christ. [n.p., 186—?] 8 pp. Sm. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 12. 316

. . . . INDIVIDUAL EFFORT; or, What can I do? [n.p., 186—?] 7, [1] pp. 16mo.

At head of title: For the soldiers. No. 21. 317

. . . . A SHORT HISTORY of the life, character and death of Capt. John B. Andrews. By Rev. Walter W. Pharr, of N.C. [n.p., 186—?] 4 pp. 16mo.

At head of title: No. 78. 318

. . . . A SKETCH of the life of Capt. Hedley Vicars, the Christian soldier. . . . . [Richmond?], 1863. 32 pp. 16mo.

At head of title: No. 90. 319
By Catherine Marsh.

. . . . THE CHRISTIAN REGIMENT encamped in every soul. By Delia Wight Jones, of N.C. [n.p., 186—?] 7, [1] pp. 8vo.

At head of title: No. 103. 320

LIQUOR and Lincoln. By a physician. [n.p., 186—?] 4 pp. 16mo.

A Confederate temperance tract.
At foot of p. 4: Each dollar given sends out 1,500 pages of this tract. 321

MUSIC

ALEXANDER, C. W. The Southern soldier boy song, as sung by Miss Sallie Partington in the "Virginia cavalier" at the Richmond New theatre. Words by Capt.ⁿ C. W. Alexander, A. A. C. & A. P. M. Air The boy with the auburn hair. . . . . Richmond, Va. Lithog.ᵈ & published by Geo. Dunn & compʸ—P.O. box 991—Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1863. [3] pp. Fol. 322

Balfe, Michael William, 1808–1870. "See at your feet a suppliant one." As sung by Miss Ella Wren, in Balfe's grand opera of the Bohemian girl. Richmond, Va. Lithog^d & published by Geo. Dunn & comp^y P.O. box 991.—Columbia, S.C.; Julian A. Selby, [186—?] [3] pp. Folio.

Imprint in one line. 323

———. "See at your feet a suppliant one." As sung by Miss Ella Wren, in Balfe's grand opera of the Bohemian girl. Richmond, Va. Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?] [3] pp. Folio.

Imprint in four lines. 324

Bowers, E. Dear mother I've come home to die. Song. Words by E. Bowers. Music by Henry Tucker. Richmond, Va. Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?] [3] pp. Fol. 325

Brown, J. H. Faded flowers. Words by J. H. Brown. Music by James Power. [Macon and Savannah, Ga. Published by John C. Schreiner & son, (etc., etc., 186—?)] 3, [1] pp. Fol.

On p. [1]: Schreiner's port-folio of popular songs . . . . 3. . . . .
On last page: Catalogue of sheet music just published. 326

Bruns, J. Dickson. . . . . Dreaming of thee. Words By J. Dickson Bruns, M.D. Music by J. H. Hewitt. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Litho graphed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^y, c. 1865. [3] pp. 4to.

At head of title: New ballad. 327

Capers, W. C. Carrie Bell Ballad, words by Cap^t W. C. Capers, C.S.A. Music by T. von La Hache. Augusta, G^a.: Published by Blackmar & bro: 199 Broad s^t Columbia, S.C.: B. Duncan & co. lith, [c. 1861]. [3] pp. Lg. 8vo. 328

Carpenter, J. E. "Her bright smile haunts me still." Poetry by J. E. Carpenter. Music by W. T. Wrighton, [Macon, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue (etc., etc.); James F. Weeks, printer, ... 186—?] 5, [1] pp. 4to.

On p. [1]: The Southern musical boquet of favorite songs and ballads no. 9. 329

———. Her bright smile haunts me still. With the original piano forte accompaniment Words by J. E. Carpenter. Music by W. T. Wrighton. Also arranged for the guitar by F. W. Rosier. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp.y, c. 1864. [4] pp. 4to. 330

———. Something to love me Words by J. E. Carpenter. Music by E. L. Hime. Ballad. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp.y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?]. [3] pp. Fol. 331

Christmas and New year musical souvenir "Fairies have broken their wands" Thomas Hood. The lover's wish F. W. Rosier. "I know a maiden fair to see" Longfellow. Music by F. W. R. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp.y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1863. [4] pp. 4to. 332

Cowdin, mrs. V. G. Gen. Beauregard's grand march, composed for the piano, by Mrs. V. G. Cowdin. . . . . New Orleans: Published by A. E. Blackmar & bro., [etc., etc., c. 1861]. 5, [1] pp. Fol.

Publisher's price-list of sheet music on last page. 333

Crouch, F. N. Kathleen mavourneen. Ballad. Composed by F. N. Crouch. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp.y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, ... [186—?] 5 pp. 4to. 334

Denck, Joseph Hart. Mother is the battle over. Ballad. Arranged by Jos. Hart. Denck. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp.y Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?]. [3] pp. Fol. 335

the Dying soldier, or The moon rose o'er the battle plain. Composed for the piano forte. Richmond, Va.: Published by J. W. Davies & sons: Lith. by E. Crehen. c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol. 336

Fontaine, Lamar. "All quiet along the Potomac to-night." Dedicated to the unknown dead of the present revolution. Words by Lamar Fontaine. Music by J. H. Hewitt. Columbia, S.C.: Published by Julian A. Selby, February, 1863. [3] pp. 4to. 337

———. All quiet along the Potomac to-night. Dedicated to the unknown dead of the present revolution. Words by Lamar Fontaine. Music by J. H. Hewitt. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp.y, c. 1864. [3] pp. Fol. 338

Foster, Stephen Collins. I see her still in my dreams. Poetry and music by Stephen C. Foster. [Augusta, Ga.: Published by Black-mar & br. 199 Broad street (etc., etc.) B. Duncan & co. lith: Columbia, S.C., 186—?] [3] pp. Fol.

On 1st page: The exotics flowers of song transplanted to Southern soil. 339

———. I see her still in my dreams. Poetry and music by Stephen C. Foster. [Macon, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue (etc., etc.). James F. Weeks, printer, ... 186—?] 5, [1] pp. 4to.

On p. [1]: The Southern musical boquet of favorite songs and ballads no. 8. 340

———. Lula is gone. Poetry and music by Stephen C. Foster. [Macon, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue (etc., etc.). Weeks.) ⟨print. 186—?] 4 pp. Fol.

On p. [1]: Parlor gems: A collection of the most popular songs and duetts, with piano accompaniment 5. 341

———. Why no one to love? Answer to No one to love. Ballad. Words & music by Stephen C. Foster. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?]. [4] pp. 4to. 342

Gallagher, William Davis, 1808–1894. They told me not to love him. Poetry by W. D. Gallagher. Music by E. Thomas. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} [186—?] [4] pp. 4to.

At head of title: Popular ballad arranged for the piano-forte and guitar. 343

Greatorex, mrs. Eliza (Pratt), 1819–1897. Love me. Answer to all the previous songs on this subject No one to love!—Why no one to love!—Something to love me! Words by Eliza. Music by H. W. Greatorex. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp. Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?]. [3] pp. 4to. 344

Halpin, Ernest. . . . . Our national Confederate anthem God save the South The text by Capt. Ernest Halpin C.S.A. Composed by C. T. De Coëniel Richmond, V^{a} Published by the composer and may be had at his residence Grace st cor 1st & of all the principal book & music stores in the Confederacy Lith by E Crehen 146 Main s^{t} c. 1863. 5 pp. Fol.

At head of title: Second edition.

The words "God save the South" appear on a Confederate flag carried by a kneeling soldier. 345

HARRELL, WILLIAM B. Up with the flag. Composed and respectfully dedicated to the Fourth N.C. troops by Dr. Wm. B. Harrell. Arranged for the piano forte by Mrs. Harrell. Richmond, Va.: Lithog[d] & published by Geo. Dunn & comp[y]—P.O. box 991—Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1863. [3] pp. Fol. 346

HEWITT, JOHN H. . . . . Somebody's darling. Music composed for the piano by John H. Hewitt. Published in Macon and Savannah, Ga. by J. C. Schreiner & son, and Schreiner & Hewitt, Augusta, Ga. [Jas. F. Weeks' job printing office, ... c. 1864]. 3, [1] pp. 4to.

At head of title: To Miss Mary Davis of Augusta, Ga.
Publishers' list of sheet music on last page. 347

HUGHES, ———, captain, of Vicksburg. Dixie, the land of King Cotton: from the highly successful military operetta, "The Vivandiere." Words by Capt. Hughes, of Vicksburg. Music by John H. Hewitt. [Macon and Savannah, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son (etc., etc.). J. F. Weeks, printer, Macon, Ga., 186—?] 3, [1] pp. Fol.

On p. [1]: The musical olio: or Favorite gems of that popular Southern composer, John H. Hewitt . . . . 7. . . . .
On last page: Catalogue of sheet music just published by John C. Schreiner & son, ... 348

. . . . I CANNOT, cannot say farewell Written by a South Carolina student on leaving Centenary college, Jackson, La. Melody by Miss Mary J. Gillespie (of Catahoula Parish, La.) Arranged for piano forte, by W. Nash. New Orleans: Published by A. E. Blackmar & bro. 74. Camp st., [etc., etc., c. 1861]. 4+pp. Fol.

Imperfect; all after p. 4 lacking.
At head of title: To Wm R. Purvis, esq. 349

KELLER, M. Mother, oh! sing me to rest. Song with chorus ad lib. Composed by M. Keller. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp[y] Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, ... [186—?] [4] pp. 4to. 350

KELP, JOSEPH. . . . . Aura Lea or The maid with golden hair. Arranged by Joseph Kelp. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp[y], c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol.

At head of title: Popular song and chorus ad lib. 351

LITTLE, A. F. Morning prayer. Written and composed by A. F. Little. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp., c. 1864. [3] pp. Fol.

At head of title: Song with piano-forte accompaniment. 352

THE MARCH of the Southern men. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1863. [3] pp. Fol. 353

MERA, C. C. "No surrender." Song. Music by C. C. Mera. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, ... c. 1864. [3] pp. Fol.

Two illustrations on title-page, the one at the right being a view of an attack by monitors on Fort Sumter. 354

MORRIS, GEORGE POPE, 1802–1864. . . . . Annie of the vale. Words by G. P. Morris. Music by J. R. Thomas. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} [c. 1864]. 5, [1] pp. 4to.

At head of title: Solo and chorus arranged for the piano-forte or guitar. 355

———. . . . . Annie of the vale. Words by G. P. Morris. Music by J. R. Thomas. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [c. 1864.] 5, [1] pp. 4to.

At head of title: Solo and chorus arranged for the piano-forte or guitar. 356

NORDENDORF, CHARLES CHĂKY DE. Southern trooper's song dedicated to Gen^{l} J. E. B. Stuart, and his gallant soldiers. By C. Nordendorf. Female college, Danville, Virginia. Columbia, S.C.: B. Duncan & co. lith: [186—?]. [4] pp. Lg. 8vo. 357

NORTON, MRS. CAROLINE ELIZABETH SARAH (SHERIDAN) 1808–1877. The murmur of the shell. Song with accompaniment for piano forte or guitar. Poetry and music by the Hon^{bl} Mrs. Norton. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y}, c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol. 358

ORDWAY, JOHN P. Let me kiss him for his mother. Poetry and music by John P. Ordway. [Macon, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue (etc., etc.). James F. Weeks, printer, ... (186—?).] 5, [1] pp. Fol.

On p. [1]: The Southern musical boquet of favorite songs and ballads No. 1. 359

P., T. N. The standard bearer. Words by Major T. N. P. C.S.A Music by N. S. Coleman Respectfully dedicated to Miss Belle B. Taylor of Richmond, Va. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol. 360 [Palmer, John Williamson] 1825–1906. Stonewall Jackson's way! Richmond, Va.: J. W. Randolph, 121 Main street [Columbia, S.C.: B. Duncan lith.], 1863. [4] pp. Folio.

Title and imprint in red.
Caption-title (2d page): Stonewall Jackson's way. Found on a Confederate sergeant of the old Stonewall brigade taken at Winchester, Va. 361

Percy, Florence. Rock me to sleep, mother. Ballad. Words by Florence Percy. Music by John H. Hewitt. Columbia, S. C.: Published by Julian A. Selby, Nov^{r} 1862. [3] pp. 4to. 362

———. Rock me to sleep, mother. Words by Florence Percy: music by Ernest Leslie, Solo and chorus, for the piano forte. Macon: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue [etc , etc., 186—?]. 5, [1] pp. 4to. 363

Peticolas, C. L. Gen'l Morgan's grand march. Composed and respectfully dedicated to the officers & privates of his command. By C. L. Peticolas. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1864. [3] pp. Fol. 364

Randall, James Ryder. . . . . Maryland! my Maryland!! A patriotic song. Words by Jas. Randall, esq., music by a lady of Baltimore. . . . . Augusta, Ga.: Published by Blackmar & bro., 255 Broad st., and Blackmar & co., New-Orleans [186—?] [4]+pp. Fol.

Incomplete; 1st and last leaves only; one or more leaves lacking.
At head of title: To Henry J. Leovy, esq.
"Having disposed of the copyright of my poem, "Maryland! my Maryland!" to Messrs. Blackmar & bro., I hereby certify that their edition is the only one that has my sanction and approval. Jas. R. Randall." 365

Raymond, Eugene. . . . . Take me home . . . . Re-arranged for the piano-forte, by Eugene Raymond. Augusta, Ga.: Published by Blackmar brothers, Broad street [etc., etc.]. J. T. Paterson & co., engravers, lithographers, and letter-press printers, Augusta, Ga. c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol.

Publishers' list of sheet music on last page.
At head of title: Southern edition. 366

Richardson, A. H. C. "No one to love" Ballad. Words adapted by A. H. C. R. Music arranged by W. B. Harvey. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S. C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?] [4] pp. Fol. 367

———. No one to love. Ballad. Words adapted by A. H. C. Richardson. Music arranged by W. B. Harvey. Published by J. C. Schreiner & son at Macon and Savannah, Ga. [etc., etc.]. Weeks print [186—?] 3, [1] pp. Fol. 368

Root, C. F. There's music in the air Composed for the piano forte by C. F. Root. Richmond, V^{a} Published by J. W. Davies & sons Lith by E. Crehen, [186—?]. [3] pp. Fol. 369

Rosenberger, J. A. The mocking bird quickstep. Arranged for the piano-forte by J. A. Rosenberger. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y}, c. 1864. [4] pp. Lg. 8vo. 370

Rosier, F. W. Virginian Marseillaise Composed & arranged for the voice & piano forte by F. W. Rosier Richmond Va Richmond, Va.: Lithographed & published by Geo. Dunn & co. P.O. box 991. Columbia, S. C.: J. A. Selby, [c. 1863]. [4] pp. Fol. 371 [Rouget de Lisle, Claude Joseph], 1760–1836. La Marseillaise. National French hymn Beyer arrangement. Piano. Guitar. March. New Orleans: Published by A. E. Blackmar & bro. 74 Camp st. Charleston: H. Siegling, [c. 1861]. 5 pp. Fol.

Cover-title: The Southern Marseillaise.
Text of the Marseillaise in French, with Blackmar's adaptation in English.
Blackmar's catalogue of sheet music on 2d and 2d pages of cover. 372

Rowe, Wallace. . . . . On guard. Words respectfully inscribed to Miss S. E. B. by Wallace Rowe. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published, by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1864. [3] pp. Fol.

At head of title: Music from an old German melody. 373

Sawyer, Charles C. "Call me not back from the echoless shore." Reply to "Rock me to sleep mother." Song with chorus & lullaby ad lib. By the authors of "When this cruel war is over." Words by Chas. C. Sawyer. Music by Henry Tucker. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [186—?]. [4] pp. 4to. 374

———. When this cruel war is over. Ballad. Words by Charles C. Sawyer. Music by Henry Tucker. Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} Columbia, S.C.: Julian A. Selby, [c. 1864]. [4] pp. Lg. 8vo. 375

STRATTON, MRS. M. W. Keep me awake mother. Ballad. Words by M^{rs} M. W. Stratton. Music by Jos. Hart Denck. Columbia, S.C.: Published by Julian A. Selby. B Duncan & co. lith: . . . . [c. 1863]. [3] pp. 4to. 376

THOMAS, J. R. The cottage by the sea! Written by J. R. Thomas. Augusta, Ga.: Published by Blackmar & bro., 199 Broad-st. and Blackmar & co., New Orleans, [186—?]. 5, [1] pp. Fol.

On last page: Blackmar & bro.'s catalogue of books, sheet music, &c. 377

TUCKER, HENRY ST. GEORGE, 1828–1863. The Southern cross. Song. Words by St. George Tucker. Music by C. L. Peticolas. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithog^{d} & published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y} P.O. box 991. Columbia, S. C.: Julian A. Selby, c. 1863. [3] pp. Fol. 378

TURNER, A. J. Spring time polka Composed by A. J. Turner. . . . . Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y}, c. 1864. [4] pp. Fol. 379

T'WAS BRIGHT but t'was a dream A ballad for piano Composed by a lady of Virginia Richmond V^{a} Lith by E. Crehen 146 Main s^{t} . . . . c. 1863. [3] pp. Fol. 380

"THE VEILED LADY," pseud. "No name" waltz. Respectfully dedicated to "The woman in white" by "The veiled lady." Richmond, Va.: Lithographed and published by Geo. Dunn & comp^{y}, c. 1865. [4] pp. Folio. 381

W., H. S. The vacant chair: or, We shall meet, but we shall miss him. Words by H. S. W. Music by G. F. Root. [Macon and Savannah, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son (etc., etc., 186—?] [3] pp. Lg. 8vo.

On p. [1]: Schreiner's port-folio of popular songs. . . . 5. 382

WEBSTER, H. D. L. Lorena. Poetry by Rev. H. D. L. Webster. Music by J. P. Webster. [Macon, Ga.: Published by John C. Schreiner & son, Cotton avenue (etc., etc.). James F. Weeks, printer, ... 186—?] 5, [1] pp. 4to.

On p. [1]: The Southern musical boquet of favorite songs and ballads no. 10. 383

———. Paul Vane, or Lorena's reply. Poetry by H. D. L. Webster. Music by J. P. Webster. [Augusta, Ga.: Published by Blackmar & br? 199 Broad street (etc., etc.). B. Duncan & co. lith. Columbia, S.C., 186—?] [3] pp. Lg. 8vo.

On 1st page: The exotics flowers of song transplanted to Southern soil. 384

Wildwood, Charlie. The South Poetry by Charlie Wildwood. Music by John H. Hewitt. Columbia, S.C.: Published by Julian A. Selby, ... B. Duncan & co. lith. . . . . c. 1863. [3] pp. 4to. 385

BROADSIDES

Convention of banks of Virginia and North Carolina, Richmond, 1864. To the Honorable the Senate and House of representatives of the Confederate States. The petition of a Convention of banks of Virginia and North Carolina, at Richmond May 2d. 1864, respectfully represents: [asking relief from the Tax act of February 17, 1864]. [Richmond, 1864.] 15×6 inches.

Signed: James Caskie, Chairman of the Convention of banks. 386 the Flag of secession. Tune—"Star spangled banner." [n.p., 1861?] 7×3⅞ inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
What appears to be another issue (attributed doubtfully to Frederick Pinkney) is listed by Ellinger, p. 94. 387

God and liberty. [Text begins]: In the name of God! Amen! Stand for our southern rights; . . . . [n.p., 186—?] 10¾×3¾ inches.

Four stanzas of verse.
Portrait of George Washington below title; title and text within border of double rules.
For same text with a different title see no. 400. 388

Hurrah for Jeff. Davis. By a lady rebel—written after the battle of Bull Run. Air—"Hurrah for the bonnets o' blue." [n.p., 1861?] 6⅜×4½ inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
What is apparently another edition is listed by Ellinger, p. 105. 389

Land of the South! Air—"Happy land." [Text begins]: Land of the South! Land of the South! What e'er my fate in life may be, ... [n.p., 186—?] 10¾×4⅝ inches.

Woodcut at head of title; title and text within type-ornament border.
What is apparently another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 113. 390

LINES on the death of the Confederate Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, of Ky. Who fell at the battle of "Shiloh," Miss. [sic], Sunday, April 6, 1862. [n.p., 1862?] $9\frac{1}{4}\times4$ inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
What is apparently another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 117. 391

ODE on the meeting of the Southern Congress. [n.p., 1861?] $8\frac{3}{4}\times6\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Printed in double columns, within border of double rules. 391*a*

OLD ABE'S lament. Tune—"The Campbells are coming." [n.p., 186—?] $7\frac{7}{8}\times4\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Printed on pink paper; title and text within type-ornament border.
What is apparently another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 131. 392

[PALMER, JOHN WILLIAMSON] 1825–1906. Stonewall Jackson's way. (Found on a Confederate sergeant of Jackson's brigade, taken at Winchester, Va.) [Martinsburg? Va., 1862.] $8\frac{3}{4}\times3\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Title and text within border of double rules.
Dated: Martinsburg, Sept. 13th, 1862.
A variant reading of the seventh line of the second stanza is given at the foot. 393

RETREAT of Crittenden's command towards Knoxville. &c., &c., &c. [Richmond? 1862.] Galley proof. $11\frac{1}{2}\times6$ inches.

Brief account of the battle of Mill Springs, Kentucky, fought January 19–20, 1862. On the lower half of the sheet are dispatches from Nashville, and Augusta, dated January 23. 394

[SINCLAIR, CARRIE BELL] The Southern girl with the home-spun dress. Written by a Southern lady. Air-Bonnie blue flag. [n.p., 186—?] $7\frac{3}{8}\times4\frac{5}{8}$ inches.

Title and text within border of double rules and type-ornaments.
Another edition is listed by Ellinger, p. 105, with title: The homespun dress: . . . . by Carrie Bell Sinclair. 395

SONG. [Woodcut.] General Butler. Tune—"Yankee doodle." [n.p., 1861?] $10\times4\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Title and text within ornamental border.
Another edition is listed by Ellinger, p. 98. 396

SONG. [Woodcut.] The retreat of the sixty thousand Lincoln troops. [n.p., 1861.] $10\frac{7}{8}\times4\frac{3}{8}$ inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
Another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 145. 397

SONG. Them saucy masked batteries. Air—"Bobbin' around." [n.p., 186—?] 11⅛×4½ inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
What appears to be another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 170. 398

SONG. Tune—"Happy land of Canaan." [n.p., 1862?] 7⅞×3¼ inches.

What is apparently another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 152. 399

THE SOUTHERN CROSS. [Text begins]: In the name of God! Amen! Stand for our Southern rights; . . . . [n.p. 186—?] 10⅜×3½ inches.

Four stanzas of verse.
Portrait of George Washington below title; title and text within border of double rules.
Ellinger, p. 159, lists another issue, dated Paris, 1862, and dedicated to President Davis by Ellen Key Blunt, and J. T. Mason Blunt, of Maryland and Virginia. For an issue with different title see no. 388. 400

THE SOUTHERN MARSEILLAIS [sic], as sung by Miss Maggie Mitchell, at the New Montgomery theatre, on Friday evening, December 14, 1860. [Montgomery? Ala., 1861?] 10×6⅛ inches. 401

THE SOUTHERN MEN By a Southern lady. [n.p., 186—?] 8¼×3 inches.

Printed in red ink; title and text within a border of double rules. 402

SOUTHERN SONG of liberty. [n.p., 186—?] 6⅞×3¾ inches.

Title and text within border of double rules. 403

THE SOUTHERN WAGON. [n.p., 1861.] 8½×4⅞ inches.

Title within type-ornament border. 404

THE SOUTHERN WAGON. [n.p., 1861.] 6¾×4 inches.

Without border. 405

SOUTHERN YANKEE DOODLE. Tune.—"Yankee doodle." [n.p., 1861?] 11×5¼ inches.

Three Confederate flags in red, white, and blue below title.
What is apparently another issue is listed by Ellinger, p. 162. 406

"STONEWALL" JACKSON A sentinel. [n.p., 1863?] 7⅞×4⅞ inches.

Five stanzas of verse, with an introductory note. 407

[TUCKER, HENRY ST. GEORGE] 1828–1863. The Southern cross. Air—"Star spangled banner." [n.p., 1861?] 7¾×5 inches.

Title and text within type-ornament border.
Text begins: Oh! say can you see, through the gloom and the storm, more bright for the darkness, that pure constellation? 408

MAPS

BAUMGARTEN, J. Seat of war Manassas and its vicinity Engraved by J. Baumgarten . . . . [Richmond]: Printed and for sale at the office of the Richmond enquirer, [1861]. $15\frac{5}{8}\times12\frac{1}{8}$ inches.

Printed on blue paper. Descriptive text, in four columns, below map.
For another edition see Leiter Catalogue, p. 326. 408*a*

LLOYD, W. ALVIN. W. Alvin Lloyd's southern rail-road map. 1865. Mobile. Lith. by W. R. Robertson [1865]. $16\frac{3}{8}\times22$ inches.

With insets: Rail-roads of Texas; Map of Charleston Harbor.
The main map includes the border states Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland, and Delaware. The division of Virginia is not recognized, a possible indication that the map was printed before the fall of the Confederacy. The Leiter library has an edition of the map dated 1863, with title: Southern rail-road map. By W. Alvin Lloyd. 409

MAP OF EASTERN VIRGINIA and North Carolina from the United States Coast survey. Columbia, S.C.: Lithographed & published by Evans & Cogswell, [1864]. 24×19 inches; folded to 12mo.

Title occurs also on front cover, with date: 1864. 410

MAP OF THE STATE OF VIRGINIA containing the counties, principal towns, railroads, rivers, canals & all other internal improvements Richmond Va Published by West & Johnston 1862 [?]. $26\times37\frac{3}{4}$ inches, folded to 12mo.

Last figure of year of imprint on face of map is indistinct.
Title and imprint on front cover: New map of Virginia 1864 Richmond: West & Johnston, 145 Main street.
"View of Capitol square Richmond, Va.": upper right corner. 411

SHEPPARD, EDWIN. Map showing the battle grounds of the Chickahominy, and the positions of the subsequent engagements in the retreat of the Federal Army towards James River and all the other points of interest in conection [sic] with the siege of Richmond from the most reliable information to be obtained by Edwin Sheppard. Hoyer & Ludwig Richmond Copyright secured [1862?] 19×24 inches. 412

NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS

ALABAMA STATE SENTINEL. Selma.

1862: Aug. 6; 1st leaf, only. 413

THE ARKANSAS BAPTIST. Little Rock: Published every Wednesday by Watson & Hooten.

1861: Feb. 13. Vol. III, no. 5. Issued before the secession of Arkansas. On 2d page is an article headed: The U.S. Arsenal,—Surrendered to the State of Arkansas. 414

THE ARMY AND NAVY messenger. Petersburg, Va.: Published by the Evanglical tract society. Semi-monthly. Rev. Philip Slaughter, editor.

1863: May 1. Vol. 1, no. [1 (? Number cut off)].
1864: Jan. 1; Feb. 1; Mar. 1; Apr. 1. Vol. 1, nos. 16, 18, 20, 22. 415

THE BIOGRAPHICAL PEN. Richmond. Josiah Davis, editor.

1862: Oct. 22. Vol. 1, no. 1. 416

BRANDON REPUBLICAN. Brandon, Miss.

1863: Apr. 30. 1 leaf, only. Printed on blue paper. 416*a*

THE CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN. Richmond: Edited and published by Rev. Wm. Brown, D.D.

1861: Apr. 27–Aug. 31; Sept. 14–Oct. 26; Nov. 16, 30; Dec. 7–28. Vol. VI, nos. 17–35, 37–43, 46, 48–52.
1862: Jan. 2–23; Feb. 6–Apr. 24; July 24–31; Aug. 14–28; Nov. 6–Dec. 25. Vol. VII, nos. 1–4, 6–17, 30–31, 33–35, 45–52.
1863: Jan. 1, 15–29; Feb. 5–May 14; Sept. 17–24. Vol. VIII, nos. 1, 3–20, 38–39.
1864: Jan. 7; Feb. 25; May 5; July 14; Aug. 4, 18; Sept. 1–15, 29; Oct. 29; Nov. 10–24. Vol. IX, nos. 1, 8, 18, 28, 30–31, 35–37, 39, 43, 45–47.
The following numbers have first leaf only:
1861: Nov. 16, 30; Dec. 7.
1862: Feb. 27; Mar. 6, 20; July 24, 31.
1863. Jan. 1; Jan. 15–Mar. 5; Mar. 19–May 14; Sept. 17–24.
1864: Feb. 25; May 5; July 14; Sept. 8, 15, 29, Oct. 29; Nov. 17–24. 417

CHRISTIAN OBSERVER. Richmond: A. Converse, editor and proprietor. Published weekly.

Title at head of 1st column on 1st page and at head of 2d page: Christian observer and Presbyterian witness.
1863: Aug. 6; Oct. 15, 29; Dec. 10; Vol. XLII, nos. 32, 42, 44, 50; each no. has first leaf, only.
1864: Apr. 28; May 5; June 30; Aug. 4, 25; Vol. XLIII, nos. 17, 18, 26, 30, 33; each no. has 1st leaf, only. 418

THE CHURCH INTELLIGENCER. Raleigh, N.C.: Rev. T. S. W. Mott, editor and proprietor.

Beginning September 14, 1864, with vol. V, new series, no. 1, the Church intelligencer was published at Charlotte, N.C., by the Protestant Episcopal church publishing association.
1861: June 27. 2d leaf, only.
1863: Apr. 10, 17; May 24; June 5, 26; July 3; Aug. 14; Sept. 4, 11, 18. Vol. III, nos. 151, 152, 156, 158, 161, 162, 167, 170–172, 178–180; no. 180, 2d leaf, only.
1864: Feb. 5–Mar. 4; Apr. 1, 8; Sept. 14–Oct. 12; Oct. 26; Nov. 2–23. Vol. III, nos. 186–190, 192, 193; vol. V, new series, nos. 1–5, 7–11, 19.
1865: Jan. 18, 26; Feb. 2, 16. Vol. V, new series, nos. 19–21, 23. 419

. . . . THE COMMISSION; or Southern Baptist missionary magazine. Published by the Board of foreign missions of the Southern Baptist convention. Edited by the secretaries of the Board. Richmond: Macfarlane & Fergusson.

1861: May–Aug. Vol. 5, nos. 11–12; vol. 6, nos. 1–2. 420

THE DAILY CITIZEN, Vicksburg, Miss.

1863: July 2. Broadside, 18⅞×10½ inches.
Printed on wall-paper.
At foot of last column: NOTE.—July 4th, 1863. Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. . . . . The "Citizen" lives to see it. For the last time it appears on "wall-paper." . . . . This is the last wall-paper edition, and is, execpting [sic] this note, from the types as we found them. . . . .
Apparently a facsimile reproduction. Indications by which an original copy may be distinguished from the various facsimiles are given by George H. Sargent in an article, "Old American newspapers, genuine and spurious," in Antiques, March, 1929, vol. xv, pp. 216–218. 421

DAILY CONFEDERATION, Montgomery, Ala.

1861: Aug. 8, 13 (2d leaf, only). 422

THE DAILY CONSTITUTIONALIST, Augusta, Ga.

1861: July 10. 1st leaf, only. 423

DAILY DISPATCH, Richmond.

The Library has the following numbers which are not listed by the Boston Athenæum:
1861: Apr. 26–27, 30. May 20–22, 28; June 3–4, 8, 12; Extra, July 20; Oct. 4, 9; Nov. 19.
1862: Feb. 7.
1863: Jan. 15.
1865: Apr. 3.
The Extra of July 20, 1861, contains President Davis' message of the same date. 424

THE DAILY EXPRESS, Petersburg, Va.

1861: June 24; Aug. 5.
1862: May 30.
1863: Feb. 5; June 11. 425

DAILY REPUBLICAN, Lynchburg, Va.

1862: Jan. 25. 426

DAILY RICHMOND WHIG.

Title varies; June 8–Aug. 30, 1861: Richmond daily Whig; Oct. 11, 1861–May 9, 1862: Daily Richmond Whig.
1861: June 8; July 18; Aug. 8, 9, 12, 20, 30; Oct. 11, 25, 29, 31; Dec. 28.

1862: Jan. 6, 8, 9, 24, 31; Feb. 4, 5, 7, 11, 12; Mar. 10; Apr. 8, 22; May 1–3, 5, 7–9, 19 (2d leaf), 23 (2d leaf).
1864: July 25; Aug. 2, 8, 24; Sept. 10 (each no., 2d leaf, only).
1865: Feb. 7 (2d leaf). 427

EVENING COURIER, Richmond.

1864: Dec. 31.
1865: Jan. 5–6, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 24–28, 30; Feb. 1, 4, 6–8, 10, 13, 14, 17, 20, 22, 23, 25; Mar. 4, 6–8, 11, 13, 14, 16, 17, 22, 24, 28–30. 428

THE FREDERICKSBURG NEWS, Fredericksburg, Va.

1861: Sept. 13.
1862: Oct. 29. 1st leaf, only. 429

THE GREENSBOROUGH PATRIOT, Greensborough, N.C.

1863: Nov. 5. 430

HOME AND FOREIGN JOURNAL. Richmond; Marion, Ala.; Nashville, Tenn.: Published by the Board of the Southern Baptist convention.

1861: Sept. Vol. XI, no. 3. 431

THE HOME CIRCLE: a monthly periodical, devoted to religion and literature. Edited by L. D. Huston. Nashville, Tenn.: Southern Methodist publishing house.

Vol. VII, nos. 2, 4, Feb.–Apr., 1861, lack front covers, and possibly some leaves and plates.
1861: Jan.–May, July–Aug. Vol. VII, nos. 1–5, 7–8. 432

LYNCHBURG VIRGINIAN.

1864: Apr. 25; May 28. 433

THE MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL, Atlanta, Ga.

1863: June 13. 1st leaf, only. 434

NEWBERN WEEKLY PROGRESS, Newbern, N.C.

1862: March 18. 1st leaf, only. The date at head of 1st column, 1st page, is "March 12." Newbern was captured by Union forces on March 14. In the 4th column of 2d page appears the note: Saturday, March 15. Friday done it. We have taken Newbern. . . . . Yankee printer. 435

. . . . THE NORTH CAROLINA JOURNAL OF EDUCATION. Greensborough: Printed by Sterling, Campbell & Albright, for the State educational association.

At head of cover-title of each number: School committee District no. [—]
1862: Mar., July. Vol. V, nos. 3, 7.
1863: Nov. Vol. VI, no. 6. 436

THE RELIGIOUS HERALD. Richmond: By Sands, Shaver & co.

1861: Feb. 7; July 11. Vol. 34, nos. 6, 28.
1862: Feb. 13; Mar. 13. Vol. 34, nos. 40, 44; each no. has 1st leaf, only.
1863: Feb. 12; June 4, 11; Dec. 17. Vol. 36, nos. 6, 21, 22, 49; each no. has 1st leaf, only.
1865: Jan. 19; Feb. 2. Vol. 38, nos. 3, 5; each no. has 1st leaf, only. 437

RICHMOND CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

1862: Jan. 16–Nov. 20; Dec. 4–25. Vol. xx, nos. 3–47, 49–52. (whole nos. 1531–1575, 1577–1580) each no. has 1st leaf, only.
1864: Feb. 4. Vol. xxi [xxii?] no. 5 (whole no. 1637) 1st leaf, only.
1865: Feb. 23. Vol. xxi [xxiii?] no. 8 (whole no. 1671) 1st leaf, only. 438

RICHMOND DAILY WHIG. See DAILY RICHMOND WHIG.

RICHMOND DISPATCH. See DAILY DISPATCH, Richmond; SEMI-WEEKLY DISPATCH, Richmond; THE WEEKLY DISPATCH, Richmond.

RICHMOND ENQUIRER. Semi-weekly edition.

1861: Feb. 8, 19–28; Mar. 7–23, 26–30; Apr. 1–9, 13–16, 20; May 7, 14; July 2; Oct. 22. 439

THE RICHMOND WEEKLY ENQUIRER.

1861: Jan. 16; May 29. 440

RICHMOND WHIG AND PUBLIC ADVERTISER. Published semi-weekly, on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The Library has the following numbers which are not listed by the Boston Athenæum:
1861: Nov. 15.
1862: Extra, May 26; June 3, 17; July 1, 4, 8, 11, 18, 22, 25; Aug. 22; Sept. 16, 18; Nov. 7, 14, 18; Dec. 9, 12, 19, 31. 441
The Extra of May 26, 1862, has title: Richmond Whig extra. [Woodcut.] Richmond, Monday morning, May 26, 1862. Two glorious victories in the Valley! The enemy routed at Front Royal!! Winchester again in our hands!!! Four thousand prisoners captured!!!! Arms, ammunition, stores, &c. 442

SEMI-WEEKLY DISPATCH, Richmond.

1861: June 25–26. 443

THE SOLDIER'S PAPER. Richmond: Published semi-monthly by the Soldiers' tract association, M.E. church, South.

1864: Feb. 15. Vol. 1, no. 14 (1st 2 leaves, only). 444

THE SOLDIER'S VISITOR. Richmond: Presbyterian committee of publication. Rev. John Leyburn, secretary and editor.

1864: Feb. Vol. 1, no. 7. 445

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN advocate. Augusta, Ga.: Published by a committee of ministers, for the M.E. church, South. E. H. Myers, editor.

1862: Aug. 7. Vol. xxv, whole no. 1911; new series, vol. 1, no. 30.
1864: Feb. 18; Mar. 3; April 21, 28; Aug. 4. Vol. xxvii, nos. 7, 9, 16, 17, 31; new series, nos. 109, 111, 118, 119, 133. 446

SOUTHERN CHURCHMAN.

Issues of May 10 and 17, 1861 published at Alexandria, Va., later issues at Richmond.
Several numbers mutilated, with some loss of text.
1861: May 10–17. Vol. xxvii, nos. 19–20.
1862: Jan. 31; Feb. 14–Apr. 4; Apr. 18; May 16; June 27; Aug. 29–Sept. 5; Oct. 17–24; Dec. 5–19. Vol. xxviii, nos. 5, 7–14, 16, 20, 26, 35–36, 42–43, 49–51. Each no. has 1st leaf, only.
1863: Jan. 23; Feb. 13; Mar. 20–27; May 1, 22; June 5; July 10, 31; Sept. 11, 25; Nov. 6, 20; Dec. 11–18. Vol. xxix, nos. 4, 7, 12, 13, 18, 21, 23, 28, 31, 37, 39, 45, 47, 50–51. Each no. has 1st leaf, only.
1864: Apr. 29; Nov. 30; Dec. 14. Vol. xxx, nos. 17, 47, 49. No. for Apr. 29 has 1st leaf, only. 447

THE SOUTHERN EPISCOPALIAN: a monthly periodical. Edited by Rev. C. P. Gadsden, and Rev. J. H. Elliott. Charleston: Printed and published by A. E. Miller.

1861: Oct. Vol. viii, no. 7. 448

THE SOUTHERN EXPRESS, Fincastle, Va. Weekly.

1862: Aug. 14. 449

THE SOUTHERN FRIEND. A religious, literary and agricultural journal. Richmond: Published semi-monthly, by Geo. W. Gary. Edited by John B. Crenshaw.

1865: Third month 1. Vol. 1, no. 11. 450

THE SOUTHERN MONTHLY. Memphis: Southern publishing house.

Cover-title: Hutton & Freligh's Southern monthly.
1861: Oct.–Nov. Vol. 1, nos. ii–iii.
1862: Mar.–Apr. Vol. 1, nos. vii–viii. 451

THE SOUTHERN PLANTER, devoted to agriculture, horticulture, and the household arts. Richmond: August & Williams, proprietors. Editors: J. E. Williams, M.D., and Prof. William Gilham.

1861: Mar. Vol. xxi, no. 3. 452

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIAN. Columbia, S.C.: A. A. Porter & co., proprietors. Published weekly. Rev. A. A. Porter, editor.

1863: Jan. 1. New series, vol. III, no. 9. 453

THE SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIAN REVIEW. Columbia, S.C. Quarterly.

No number issued for Jan., 1864.
1862: July. Vol. XV, no. 1.
1863: Jan., July, Oct. Vol. XV, no. 3; vol. XVI, nos. 1–2.
1864: Apr. Vol. XVI, no. 3. 454

THE STATE JOURNAL, Raleigh, N.C.

1861: July 10; Aug. 7. 455

STAUNTON SPECTATOR, Staunton, Va.

1863: Aug. 4. 1st leaf, only. 456

STAUNTON VINDICATOR, Staunton, Va.

1863: Apr. 24. 457

THE TRI-WEEKLY MERCURY, Charleston, S.C.

1864: Dec. 6. 1st leaf, only. 458

VIRGINIA CONDUCTOR. Petersburg, Va.: Published by authority of the Grand division of the State of Virginia [Sons of temperance]. J. Rich'd Lewellen, editor.

1861: Apr. 18. Vol. 5, no. 23. 459

THE WEEKLY DISPATCH, Richmond.

1861: Jan. 4–May 17; June 7–21. 460

THE WEEKLY REGISTER: devoted to a record of important documents and events of the times; with essays on subjects connected with arts, science & literature. Conducted by A. M. Trible and C. A. Schaffter. Volume I—1864. Lynchburg: Johnson & Schaffter, publishers, 1864. vi pp., 1 leaf, 320 pp. 8vo.

1864: Jan. 2–Dec. 31. Vol. I. nos. 1–39, 41. Although no. 40 is omitted from the numbering, the paging is continuous.

The Boston Athenæum has an issue for Feb. 4, 1865.

Not published for the weeks of Jan. 9, 30; Feb. 13; Mar. 12; Apr. 30; June 18, 25; July 9, 23; Aug. 13; Sept. 3, 17; Oct. 1, 8, 15, 29; Dec. 10, 17, 1864.

Supplements, included in the numbering, were issued for the weeks of Mar. 26; Apr. 2, 9, 16; Nov. 12, 1864.

This copy has the bookplate of C. A. Schaffter, on which is a penciled inscription: Bot at the sale of his books May 8/72 R. A. B. 461

INDEX

References are to serial numbers, not pages. The index does not, as a rule, include references to personal or corporate authors, or titles, where the arrangement in the body of the list is alphabetical. Titles of anonymous works are referred to, if entered under authors.

An act for the establishment and organization of the Army, 65, 66
An act imposing taxes for the support of government, 105
An act to amend the Charter of the City of Richmond, 101
An act to amend the tax laws, 27
Acts and resolutions of the First session of the Provisional Congress, 25
The adventures of Philip, 254
Advertisement inviting proposals for carrying the mails, 38*a*
Alabama. Commissioners to Virginia, Communications, 97(8); credentials, 91(8); 97(1)
—— State convention, Communication from, 97(7)
Alexandria, Va. Southern churchman, 447
"All quiet along the Potomac to-night," 337, 338
Allan, Thompson, 63
Almanacs: Almanac and annual diary, 108; Blum's Farmers' and planters' almanac, 118; A calendar of the days, 215; Clarke's Confederate almanac, 123; Confederate almanac and register, 128; The Confederate States almanac, 123*a*, 252; Richardson's Virginia & North Carolina almanac, 226–232
Andrews, John B., 318
Annie of the vale, 355
Appropriations, Estimates of, 51
Arkansas, postal service, 38*a*
Army, Acts of Congress for organization of, 72; Laws appertaining to, 71; Regulations, 65, 66, 71–73; Uniform, 71
Articles of war, 65, 66, 71–72
Artillery, field, Instruction for, 130
——, Hand-book of, 235
——, heavy, Instruction for, 260
Ashamed of Christ, 316
Atlanta intelligencer, 251
Atlanta, Ga. Memphis daily appeal, 434
Augusta, Ga. The Daily constitutionalist, 423; Southern Christian advocate, 446
Aura Lea, 351
Aurora Floyd, 190

B., S. E., 373
Bahia, Brazil, 30
Banks, North Carolina, 386
——, Virginia, 91(15); 97(12); 386
Baptists, Distinctive features of the, 273
——, Georgia, 150–154; Virginia, 127, 194
Battalion of cadets, Georgia military institute, 77
Baxter, S. S., 142
Beauregard, Gustave Toutant, 13, 262, 333
The Beauregard songster, 238
Bell Grove, Battle of, 1864, 24
Bellona arsenal, 240
Bellot des Minieres, brothers & co., 91(14)
The Bible and modern progress, 234
The Bible or atheism, 258
A bill suspending the act passed March 28th, 1863, entitled an act imposing taxes for the support of government, 106
A bill to be entitled an act to amend the tax laws, 28
A bill to incorporate the Virginia canal company, 102
A bill to prevent illegal impressments, 29
A bill to provide for the employment of free negroes and slaves on fortifications, 31
Blunt, Ellen Key, 400

Blunt, J. T. Mason, 400
Bohemian girl, 323, 324
The bold blasphemer, 297
Bonds of public officers, Virginia, 94(9)
Book of common prayer, 213, 214
"Book for the times," 189
Bragg, Braxton, 12
Broun, W. LeRoy, 237
Brown, Albert G., 29
Brown, James M., 120
Brown, John, raid on Harpers Ferry, 271, 272
Brown, Joseph Emerson, 75
Brown, William, 120, 417
Buchanan, James, President of the United States, 97(13)
Butler, Benjamin Franklin, 396

A calendar of the days and daily lessons, 215
California, a romance of, 141
"Call me not back from the echoless shore," 374
Can I be religious while I am a soldier? 308
Candles from refuse grease, 14
Capers, F. W., 77
Capture of Hatteras, &c., 82
Carrie Bell, 328
Carrington, Eugene, 45
Caskie, James, 386
Cedar Creek, Battle of, 1864, 24
Celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Chatham artillery, 149
The Central Presbyterian, 120, 417
Charleston Harbor, 409
Charleston mercury, 88
Charleston. The Southern Episcopalian, 448; The Tri-weekly mercury, 458
Chatham artillery of Savannah, 149
Chesnut, James, jr., 86
Chickahominy, battle grounds of the, 412
Chickamauga, Battle of, 223
Choctaw nation. Principal chief, Inaugural address, 78
Christian association of the Stonewall brigade, 268
Christian observer, 212, 418
The Christian officer, 311
Christian philanthropic society of Posey's brigade, 196
The Christian regiment encamped in every soul, 320
"The Christian statesman," 168
Church intelligencer, 300
Claims, state, 54; Virginia, 99(2)
Clark, Henry T., 82
Clarke's Confederate almanac, 123
Clergy, Protestant Episcopal, 215
Cobbs, Nicholas Hamner, 132
Coleman, N. S., 360
Colt's revolver, Manual for, 130
Columbia, S.C. Soldiers' relief association, 247
——. Southern Presbyterian, 453; The Southern Presbyterian review, 454
Commissaries of supplies, 50*a*
The Confederate hero and his heroic father, 312
Confederate poems, 243
The Confederate States almanac, 123*a*, 252
Confederate States of America. Adjutant and inspector general's office, General orders, 67, 69, 176 ——. Army. Department of Northern Virginia, General orders, 4*a* ——. Auditor, Second, Letters of instruction to surgeons and others in charge of effects of deceased officers and soldiers, 58; Report on claims, 54
——. Congress, Speeches in, 119, 155
——. ——. House. Committee on military affairs, G. Tochman's Suggestive points, 32
——. ——. ——. Special committee on the payment of claims, Reports, 33, 54
——. ——. Senate. Committee on finance, Bill referred, 28 ——. ——. ——. Committee on foreign relations, Resolutions in relation to seizure of Confederate war-steamer Florida, 30
——. ——. ——. Committee on judiciary, Bill referred, 29

——. ——, ——. Committee on military affairs, Bill submitted, 31
——. Hospital department, Notes of surgical cases, 52
——. Inspector general of field transportation, Circular, 67.
——. Pay department, Regulations for, 46, 71
——. President, Message, Feb. 25, 1862, 39; Apr. 1, 1862, 40; Sept. 27, 1862, 70
——. Provost marshal, Report in case of Charles K. Hyde, 70
——. Quartermaster-general's office, Circulars, 67
——. Quartermaster's department, Regulations for, 46, 71
——. State collector for Virginia, Circular, 53, 61 ——. War department, Laws of the Provisional Congress in relation to, 26, 66
Constitution, Confederate, 245
Convention of cotton planters, Macon, Ga., 1861, 126
Convention of teachers, 137
Converse, A., 418
Cook, John E., trial of, 271, 272
Correspondence and other papers, relating to Fort Sumter, 87
The cottage by the sea! 377
Cotton planters, Convention of, 126
Courts-martial, 202
Covington and Ohio railroad, 91(10)
Crenshaw, John B., 450
Crumly, William M., 306
Currency, Facts and suggestions on, 158
Custom-house, New Orleans, 81

Davis, Jefferson, 221
Davis, Josiah, 416
Davis, Mary, 347
Day for prayer and humiliation, 200
Day of prayer and thanksgiving, 259*a*
Dear mother I've come home to die, 325
Death of a Christian soldier, 285
Debt, redemption of Virginia public, 98(4)
Declaration of the immediate causes which induce and justify the secession of South Carolina, 83*a*
DeCoëniel, C. T., 345
Denck, Joseph Hart, 335, 376
Department directory, 261
The devil's visit to "Old Abe," 115
Dibrell's warehouse, Richmond, 94(4)
Directions concerning prayer, 292
Directory, Department, 261
Directory of the House of representatives, Confederate Congress, 35
The distinctive features of the Baptists, 273
Dixie, the land of King Cotton, 348
Doers of the word, 303
Donelson, Fort, disaster at, 40
Dove, John, 142
Drama, 157
Dreaming of thee, 327
The duties growing out of it, and the benefits to be expected, from the present war, 160
The dying robber, 313

Early, Jubal Anderson, 24
Echols et als., 183
Eddleman, A. M., 113
The education of teachers in the South, 169
Edwards, John E., 305
1860 association, Tract, no. 5, 133
Eleanor's victory, 191
Eliza, 344
Elliott, J. H., 448
Ellis, Powhatan, 138
Enlistment of slaves, 95
Entire devotedness to God, 280
Episcopalians, North Carolina, 216; Virginia, 217
Estimates of appropriations, 51
Evangelical tract society, Petersburg, Va., 277, 415
Exemption of Virginia state officers, 99(7)
The exotics, flowers of song transplanted to Southern soil, 339, 384

Facts and suggestions on finance and currency, 158
Faded flowers, 326
"Fairies have broken their wands," 332
Farmers' and planters' almanac, 118

Female Bible, prayer-book and tract society, 206
Fiction, 107, 125, 140, 141, 184, 187, 190, 191, 249, 254
Field artillery, Instruction for, 130
Finance, Facts and suggestions on, 158
Fincastle, Va. The Southern express, 449
Five chapters of an unpublished "Book for the times," 189
Flegenheimer, William, 104
Florida, Confederate war-steamer, 30
Fontaine, E., 265
Fort Donelson, disaster at, 40
Fort Henry, disaster at, 40
Fort Sumter, 87
Fortification, temporary, 182
Fortifications, employment of free negroes and slaves on, 31
France. Consul, Richmond, Report relative to James River and Kanawha canal, 91(13)
Free masonry and the war, 142
Free negroes, employment on fortifications, 31

Gadsden, C. P., 448
Gen. Beauregard's grand march, 333
General Butler, 396
Gen'l Morgan's grand march, 364
General orders, armies and departments, 2–4, 4*a*, 4*b*, 7, 9–11, 13*a*, 15–17, 19, 22, 67, 69
A gentleman of Louisiana, 141
George Giles, 284
Georgia. Chief of ordnance, report, 74
——. Convention, Communication from, 97(10)
——. General assembly, speeches before, 250–251
——. Governor, Communication on salt supply, 98(6)
——. Master armorer, report, 74
——. Military store keeper, report, 74
Georgia, Monumental remains of, 175; salt supply, 98(10)
Gilham, William, 452
Gillespie, Mary J., 349
God and our country, 200
God save the South, 345
God sovereign, and man free, 257
The golden daggers, 141
Gospel according to St. John, 114*a*
Gosport navy yard, Va., 94(10)
Government transportation, 45, 48–50
Graham, William A., 34
Grasty, John S., 294
Grease, refuse, for making soap and candles, 14
Great battle of Chicamauga, 223
The great issue, 117
Greatorex, H. W., 344
Green, Thomas C., 53, 61
Greensborough, N.C. The North Carolina journal of education, 436

Hammond, A. W., 65
The hand-book of artillery, 235
Hardee, William Joseph, Infantry tactics, 178–180; To the soldiers of the Army of Tennessee, 5
Harpers Ferry raid, 97(2); 97(27); 271, 272
Harrison, Dabney Carr, 312
Harvey, W. B., 367
Hatch, F. H., 81
Hatteras, N.C., Capture of, 82
Hayne, Isaac William, 85
"He that believeth shall not make haste," 195
Hearing, or hardening, 287
Heavy artillery, Instruction for, 260
Hemphill, John, 168
Henry, Fort, disaster at, 40
"Her bright smile haunts me still," 329, 330
Hesper and other poems, 167
Hewitt, John H., 327, 337, 338, 347, 348, 362, 385
Hime, E. L., 331
Hindman's division, Army of Tennessee, 10
Historical documents relating to the Old North state, 139
Hoge, Moses Drury, 168, 298
Hoge, William James, 298
Home for Jewish widows and orphans, New Orleans, 162

The homespun dress, 395
Hood, Thomas, 332
How shall I live? 279
Hughes, Henry, 197
Huston, L. D., 432
Hutton & Freligh's Southern monthly, 451
Hyde, Charles K., 70

I cannot, cannot say farewell, 349
"I know a maiden fair to see," 332
I see her still in my dreams, 339, 340
Illinois. Legislature, joint resolutions, 97(24)
Importation of goods, 34
Impressments, 29, 98(8)
Income tax forms, 55, 60
Indian agencies, 51
Indian tribes, Treaty stipulations with, 51
Indiana. General assembly, Communication, 97(29); joint resolutions, 97(19)
Individual effort, 317
Instruction for field artillery, 130
Instruction for heavy artillery, 250
Instructions to be observed by officers and agents receiving the tax in kind, 44
Instructions to Confederate tax officers, 57
Insurance, marine, 171
The interest in slavery of the Southern non-slaveholder, 133
Internal improvement companies in Virginia, transportation charges, 99(9)
Internal improvements, Virginia fund for, 92(4); Virginia investments in, 98(4)
The Israelite without guile, 132

Jackson, Thomas Jonathan, 222, 407
James River and Kanawha canal, 91 (13,14)
James River and Kanawha company, 102
Jesus, the soldier's friend, 277
Johnston, Albert Sidney, 391
Jones, Charles Colcock, jr., 149, 175
Jones, Delia Wight, 320
Joynes, Edward S., 169

Kathleen Mavourneen, 334
Keep me awake mother, 376
Kentucky. Legislature, joint resolutions, 97(17)
Kentucky campaign, 193
A kind word to the officers of our Army, 314
Knights templar, Virginia, 145, 146

A lady of Baltimore, 365
A lady of Virginia, 380
A lady rebel, 389
Lagrange reporter, 115
LaHache, Theodore von, 328
Lamar, A. R., 28
Langdon, 133
Lawlessness, 29
Laws, Confederate, 245
Laws appertaining to the Army, 71
Laws in relation to commissioners and collectors of the public revenue, 103
Laws of the Provisional Congress in relation to the War department, 26, 66
Lay, Henry C., 300
Légion française, New Orleans, 185
Leovy, Henry J., 365
Leslie, Ernest, 363
Let me kiss him for his mother, 359
Letters of instruction to surgeons, etc., 58
Letters on the subject of Southern wrongs and remedies, 236
Letters to a man bewildered among many counsellors, 300
Lewellen, J. Richard, 459
Leyburn, John, 445
Lincoln, Abraham, President of the United States, 97(30)
Liquor and Lincoln, 321
List of members and officers of the House of representatives, Confederate Congress, 36
List or return of auctioneers, etc., 59
Literary fund of Virginia, 92(4); 93(1)
The little red book or Department directory, 261
Little Rock, Ark. Arkansas Baptist, 414
London, Daniel H., 183
London, Lewis P., 183
London, Sterling C., 183
Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth, 332

Lorena, 383
Louisiana. Convention, Ordinance of secession, 97(19)
Louisiana, postal service, 38*a*
Love me, 344
The lover's wish, 332
Lula is gone, 341
Lynchburg, Va. Daily Republican, 426; The Weekly register, 461

McDonald, Angus W., 91(16); 97(28)
McDonald, Charles J., 173
McIntosh, Lachlan H., 74
Macon, Ga. Chamber of commerce, 126
Mails, proposals for carrying, 38*a*; Withdrawal of, 265
Maine, Legislature, resolutions, 97(15)
Manassas and its vicinity, 408*a*
A manual for Colt's revolver, 130
Manual of military reconnaissances, 182
A manual of military surgery, 122, 161
Marine insurance, 171
Marion, Ala. Home and foreign journal, 431
La Marseillaise, 372
Marseillaise, The Southern, 372; Virginian, 371
Marsh, Catherine, 319
Marshall, A. E., 177, 251
Maryland. Governor, Communication, 97(10)
Maryland! my Maryland!! 365
Maryland soldiers in Confederate Army, 176
Master William Mitten, 184
Memphis, Tenn. The Southern monthly, 451
Merchants' insurance company of Richmond, 171
Methodist Episcopal church, South, 446
——. Virginia conference, Soldiers' tract society, 246, 309
Michigan. Legislature, resolutions, 97(20)
The midnight cry, 296
Military reconnaissances, 182
Military surgery, Manual of, 122, 161
Military topography, 182
Mill Springs, Ky., Battle of, 1862, 394
The millennium, 203
Minnesota. Legislature, joint resolutions, 97(17)
Mississippi, secession of, 91(9)
Mitchell, Maggie, 401
The mocking bird quickstep, 370
Montgomery, Ala. Daily confederation, 422
Monumental remains of Georgia, 175
Moore, Thomas Verner, 298
Morgan, John Hunt, 364
Morning prayer, 352
Mother is the battle over, 335
Mother, oh! sing me to rest, 350
A mother's prayer answered, 288
Mott, T. S. W., 419
The movement of projectiles from rifled cannon, 237
The murmur of the shell, 358
The musical olio, 348
The muster, 315
Myers, E. H., 446

Nashville, Tenn. Home and foreign journal, 431; The Home circle, 432
Navy: School-ship Patrick Henry, 38; War-steamer Florida, 30
Nebuchadnezzar's fault and fall, 204
Negro troops, policy of employing, 155
Negroes, free, employment on fortifications, 31
New Jersey. Legislature, resolutions, 97 (16)
New map of Virginia, 411
New Orleans. Légion française, 185
New Orleans Custom-house, Report of Collector, 81
New Orleans 5 cent song-book, 170
The New Testament, 114
New York. Legislature, resolutions, 97 (5); joint resolutions, 97(19)
No name, 125
"No name" waltz, 381
"No one to love," 367, 368
"No surrender", 354
North Carolina. Convention. Speech in, 156

——. General assembly, Resolutions, 34, 99(10)
——. Military secretary, report on capture of Hatteras, 82
North Carolina banks, 386
North Carolina state educational association, 436
A northern plea for the right of secession, 111
Northrop, L. B., 50*a*
Not happy in heaven, 295
Notes of surgical cases, 52
Notes on making saltpetre, 220
Notices to all persons liable to taxation, 60

Octogenarian, 201
Officers, deceased, property of, 58
Often warned, 289
Ohio. Legislature, resolutions, 97(9)
On guard, 373
Once to die, 290
"Ora," 223
Ordinance concerning test oaths and sedition, 156
Ordinance of secession of the State of Louisiana, 97(19)
An ordinance to dissolve the Union between the State of South Carolina and other states, 88
Ordinance to provide for the appointment of delegates to a convention to form a Southern confederacy, 79
An ordinance to repeal the ratification of the Constitution of the United States by the State of Virginia, 104
Original acrostics, 116
Orr, James L., 30
Our danger and our duty, 307
Our national Confederate anthem, 345
Our own heroes, 134

Pardons, reprieves, etc., Virginia, 91(4); 94(6); 97(3)
Parker, William H., 38
Parlor gems, 341
Partington, Sallie, 322
Partisan warfare, 182
Patrick Henry, Confederate States schoolship, 38
Paul, Alfred, 91(13)
Paul Vane, or Lorena's reply, 384
Pennsylvania. Legislature, resolutions, 97(11)
Petersburg, Va. Council, Resolutions, 94(5)
Petersburg, Va. The Army and navy messenger, 415; The Daily express, 425; Virginia conductor, 459
Peticolas, C. L., 364, 378
A physician, 321
Pickens, Francis Wilkinson, 87
Pinkney, Frederick, 387
Pitchlynn, Peter P., 78
The plantation and family physician, 276
Porter, A. A., 453
Posey's brigade. Christian philanthropic society, 196
The position, relation and prospects of the United Synod, 212
Postal service, 38*a*, 265
Power, James, 326
Prayer. Directions concerning prayer, 292
Prescience, 259
Presbyterian church in the United States of America. United synod, Minutes, 207
Presbyterian committee of publication, 274, 278–299, 445
Presbyterians, Virginia, 209–212
Proceedings of a conference with Virginia railroad companies, 50
Proceedings of the Bank convention of the Confederate States, 109
Proceedings of the Grand commandery of Virginia, Knights templar, 145, 146
Proceedings of the Grand lodge of Virginia, Freemasons, 143, 144
Proceedings of the School commissioners of Virginia, 93(1)
Profane swearing, 299
Projectiles, 237
Protestant Episcopal church in the Confederate States of America. Clergy, 215
Purvis, William R., 349

R., A. H. C., 367
Railroad companies: 121, 136, 159, 263–267

Railroad convention, 1862, 129
Railroads, Texas, 409; Virginia, 50
Raleigh, N.C. The Church intelligencer, 419; The State journal, 455
Ramsey, James Beverlin, 222, 279
Randolph, George W., 73
Reagan, John H., 38*a*
Reconnaissances, military, 182
Regulations for the Army, 46, 71–73
Regulations for the interior police of the Confederate States school-ship Patrick Henry, 38
Regulations for the Pay department, 46
Regulations for the Quartermaster's department, 45
Regulations of the Quartermaster's department, 47
Relief of soldiers' families, 99(3)
Religious herald, 224
Remarks on the present war, 110
Remarks on the subject of the ownership of slaves, 124
Renfroe, Nathaniel D., 224
Report of the Collector of the New Orleans Custom-house, 81
Report of the Committee on light, Richmond, 233
Reprieves, pardons, etc., Virginia, 91(4); 94(6); 97(3)
Resolutions in relation to the seizure of the Confederate war steamer Florida, 30
Resolutions on the subject of independence and peace, 76
The retreat of the sixty thousand Lincoln troops, 397
Review of certain remarks made by the President, 262
Revolver, Colt's, Manual for, 130
Richardson, David, 118, 226–232
Richardson, John M., 182
Richmond. Louisiana soldiers' relief association and hospital, 186
Richmond charter, Act to amend, 101
Richmond newspapers and periodicals: The Biographical pen, 416; The Central Presbyterian, 417; Christian observer, 418; The Commission, 420; Daily dispatch, 424; Daily Whig, 427; Evening courier, 428; Home and foreign journal, 431; The Religious herald, 437; Semi-weekly dispatch, 443; The Soldier's paper, 444; The Soldier's visitor, 445; Southern churchman, 447; The Southern Friend, 450; The Southern planter, 452; The Southern Punch, 218; The Weekly dispatch, 460
Richmond, siege of, 412
Rifle and infantry tactics, 164
Rifle and light infantry tactics, 163, 165, 166
The right of peaceful secession, 133
Robertson, John, 97(18); 97(22); 97(25)
Rochereau, Albin, 185
Rock me to sleep, mother, 362, 363
The romance of a poor young man, 140
A romance of California, 141
Root, G. F., 382
Rosier, F. W., 332, 371
Rules and articles for the government of the Army of Virginia, 90

Salt supply, 98(6, 9, 10)
Sargent, George H., 421
Schaffter, C. A., 461
School commissioners of Virginia, proceedings of, 93(1)
School of the guides, 181
School-ship Patrick Henry, 38
Schreiner's port-folio of popular songs, 326, 382
Scriptural views of national trials, 275
Seat of war, Manassas and its vicinity, 408*a*
Secession, of Mississippi, 91(9); of Virginia, 240
Sedition, 156
"See at your feet a suppliant one," 323, 324
Selections from the Book of Common prayer, 213, 214
Selma, Ala. Alabama state sentinel, 413
A sentinel, 407
A short history of the life, character and death of Capt. John B. Andrews, 318

The shorter catechism, 274
Sims, F. W., 48–50
Sin and its wages, 294
Singleton, Otho R., 33
Sinking fund of Virginia, 92(4)
Sins going before to judgment, 291
A sketch of the life of Capt. Hedley Vicars, 319
Sketches of the great battles in 1861, 221
Slaughter, Philip, 415
Slavery and abolitionism, 113
Slavery in the Bible, 133
Slaves, employment on fortifications, 31; enlistment of, 95; escape of, to the enemy, 99(12); ownership of, 124
Soap from refuse grease, 14
The soldier's Bible, 306
"The Soldier's friend," 134
Soldiers, deceased, property of, 58
Soldiers, relief of families, 99(3)
Soldiers' tract association, M.E. church, South, 305–307, 444
Soldiers' tract society, Virginia conference, M.E. church, South, 246, 308
Somebody's darling, 347
Something to love me, 331
Song and hymn books: The Beauregard songster, 238; Hopkins' New-Orleans 5 cent song-book, 170; The New Confederate flag song book, 198; The Punch songster, 218; The soldier's hymn-book, 246; The Southern soldier's prize songster, 248; Virginia songster, 269
Sons of temperance, Virginia, 459
The South, 385
South Carolina. Convention, 1832, Journal, 84
——. ——, 1833, Journal, 84
——. ——, 1852, Journal, 84
South Carolina, powers of Convention, 85; of Executive council, 85; of Governor, 85
South Carolina colportage board, 309
A South Carolina student, 349
Southern Baptist convention, 431
——. Bible board, 114
——. Board of foreign missions, 420
The Southern cross, 378, 408
A Southern document, 117
A Southern gentleman, 249
The Southern girl with the home-spun dress, 395
A Southern lady, 402
Southern literary messenger, 138
The Southern Marseillaise, 372
Southern medical and surgical journal, 161
The Southern musical boquet of favorite songs and ballads, 329, 340, 359, 383
The Southern Punch, 218
Southern rail-road map, 409
The Southern soldier boy song, 322
The Southern soldier's health guide, 276
The Southern spy, 205
The Southern telegraph, 131
The Southern women of the second American revolution, 174
Southwestern Baptist, 224
Sparrow, Edward, 31
Speeches: in Congress, 119, 155; in General assembly of Virginia, 124, 240; before Georgia Legislature, 250, 251
Spring time polka, 379
The standard bearer, 360
Standing committees of the Senate, Confederate Congress, 37
State of the country, 119, 177, 255
Stephens, Alexander Hamilton, 221
Stephens, Linton, 76
Stonewall brigade. Christian association, 268
Stonewall Jackson's way! 361, 393
A strange story, 187
Strong consolation, 293
Stuart, James Ewell Brown, 357
Suggestive points to the Memorial referred to the Committee on military affairs, 32
Summers, Thomas Osmond, 239, 252
Sumner, James C., 188
Sumter, Fort, 87
Supplies, Collection of, 50*a*
Surgery, military, Manual of, 122, 161
Surgical cases, Notes of, 52
Sympathy with the afflicted Christian, 278

Synopsis of decisions under the Confederate tax law, 63
Synopsis of the financial condition of the fund for internal improvement of Virginia, 92(4)
Synopsis of the financial condition of the Treasury of Virginia, 92(3)
A synopsis of the funds of the Commonwealth of Virginia, 92(2)
A system for conducting musketry instruction, 112

Take me home, 366
Taxation, Confederate: forms for assessment and collection of taxes, 55–57, 59, 60, 64; tax in kind, 44, 56; tax laws, 27, 28, 63
——, Virginia, 53, 61, 94(11); 97(31); 98(7); 103
Taylor, Belle B., 360
Taylor, W. H. S., 58
Teachers, Convention of, 137
——, education of, 169
Telegraph, The Southern, 131
Tennessee. Legislature, resolutions 97(11)
Test oaths, 156
Texas. Convention, Ordinance of secession, 97(24) ——. Legislature, resolutions, 97(21)
——, postal service, 38*a*
Them saucy masked batteries, 398
The times or The flag of truce, 147
There's a good time coming, 301, 302
There's music in the air, 369
They told me not to love him, 343
Thomas, E., 343
Thomas, J. R., 356, 377
Thornwell, James Henley, 255, 307
To all Marylanders in the Confederate States, 176
To the friends of the Southern cause at home, 247
To the people of Virginia, 117
Tochman, Gaspar, 32
Topography, military, 182
Transportation, government, 45, 48–50
Transportation charges by internal improvement companies in Virginia, 99(9)
Treaty stipulations with certain Indian tribes, 51
The trials of a soldier's wife, 107
Trible, A. M., 461
True eminence founded on holiness, 222
A true story of Lucknow, 283
Tucker, Beverly, 259
Tucker, Henry, 325, 374, 375
'Twas bright but 'twas a dream, 380
Tyler, John, ex-President of the United States, 97(13)

Uniform and dress of the Army, 71
United States. Collector of customs, New Orleans, Report, 1861, 81
——. Congress, resolution for amending the Constitution, 97(30)
——. President (Lincoln). Communication, 97(30)
University of Virginia, see Virginia. University
Up with the flag, 346

The vacant chair, 382
Van Dyke, Henry J., 133
Vance, Zebulon Baird, 83
Vicars, Hedley Shafto Johnstone, 319
Vicksburg, Miss. The Daily citizen, 421
The victory won. A memorial of the Rev. Wm. J. Hoge, 298
Virginia. Adjutant general, Communication, 97(6); Report, 93(2)
——. Army, Rules and articles for government of, 90
——. Auditor, Biennial report, 92(5); Circular, 103, 105; Communication in response to Senate resolution, 99(5); Communication on taxation, 97(31); Financial statement, 91(2); 97(14); Report on banks, 91(15); Report on corporation taxes, 94(11); Synopsis of funds, 92(2)
——. ——, First, Statement on escape of slaves to the enemy, 99(12)
——. ——, Second, Communication responsive to Senate resolution, 98(3); 99(6); Report on literary fund, 93(1); Statements, 91(11)

——. Board of commissioners on expenses of Harpers Ferry invasion, Report, 97(2); Communication, 97(27)
——. Board of public works, Communication in response to Senate resolution, 99(8); Communication relative to Covington and Ohio railroad, 91(10)
——. Commercial agent, Report, 99(4)
——. Commissioner to seceded states, Communication, 97(18); correspondence, 97(22); report, 97(25)
——. Commissioners to Peace conference at Washington, 97(26)
——. Deaf, dumb and blind institution, Accounts, 94(1)
——. Eastern lunatic asylum, Report, 91(5)
——. Executive department, Communication relative to fire at Dibrell's warehouse, 94(4); Communication relative to reprieves, pardons, etc., 91(4); 94(6); List of mining and other companies, 94(3); Return of provisions, etc., at Gosport navy yard, 94(10)
——. General assembly, Speeches in, 124; 240
——. ——. Committees of roads and internal navigation, Report on contract of Bellot des Minieres, brothers & co. for completion of James River and Kanawha canal, 91(14)
——. ——. Joint committee on bonds of public officers, Report, 94(9); 99(14)
——. ——. Joint committee on salt, Report, 98(9, 10)
——. ——. Joint committee on the Penitentiary, Report, 91(20); 94(8)
——. ——. Joint committee on the Public library, Report, 94(7); 98(5)
——. ——. Joint committee to examine Register's office, Report, 99(15)
——. ——. House of delegates. Committee on finance, Report relative to the Penitentiary, 91(21)
——. ——. Senate. Committee on Confederate relations, Report on impressments, 98(8)
——. ——. ——. Committee on finance. Report on condition of the state, 99(11)
——. ——. ——. Committee on finance. Report on sale of State's investments in internal improvements, 98(4)
——. ——. ——. Committee on relief of soldiers' families, Report, 99(3)
——. Governor, Communication announcing secession of Mississippi, 91(9); enclosing credentials of Commissioners from Alabama, 91(8); 97(1); enclosing resolutions of Legislature of New York, 97(5); on pardons, reprieves, etc., 97(3); 99(13); relative to Ordnance department, 97(32); relative to payment of state interest, 91(12); transmitting joint resolution of Congress, 91(19); transmitting resolutions of Ohio Legislature, 97(9); transmitting resolutions of legislatures of Tennessee and Pennsylvania, 97(11); Letter on reconstruction of militia brigade, 97(4); Message, Jan. 7, 1861, 91(1); 96(1); 100; Dec. 2, 1861, 92(1); Dec. 7, 1863, 100*a*; Response to resolution of General assembly relative to exempting state officers, 99(7)
——. Lunatic asylum west of Allegheny Mountains, Report, 91(6)
——. Ordnance department, Communication of Governor on, 97(32)
——. Penitentiary, Report of the Board of directors, 91(18); Report of Superintendent, 91(22); 98(2); Report of Joint committee of General assembly, 91(20); 94(8); Report of Committee on finance of House of delegates, 91(21)
——. Penitentiary institution, Annual report of Board of directors, 91(3); 93(4)
——. Secretary, Communication on publication of the Code, 91(17)
——. State auditing board. Communication on claims audited, 99(2)
——. State library, Report of Joint committee of General assembly on, 94(7); 98(5)
——. Superintendent of the Armory, Communication, 97(23)

——. Supreme court of appeals, Petition to, 183
——. Weighmaster of live stock, Report, 93(5); 94(2)
——. Western lunatic asylum, Report, 91(7)

Virginia & North Carolina almanac, 226–232
Virginia banks, 91(15); 97(12); 386
Virginia canal company, 102
"Virginia cavalier," 322
Virginia, financial condition, 91(12); 92(2–4); 97(12)
Virginia fund for internal improvement, 92(4)
Virginia investments in internal improvements, 98(4)
Virginia literary fund, 92(4); 93(1)
Virginia military institute, Introductory lecture, 244; reports, 99(3); Semi-annual examination, 93(3)
Virginia militia brigade, 97(4)
Virginia railroad companies, Conference with, 50
Virginia school commissioners, Proceedings, 93(1)
Virginia, secession of, 240
Virginia sinking fund, 92(4)
Virginia. University, literary societies, 271, 272
Virginian Marseillaise, 371
"The Vivandiere," 348
The volunteer's hand book, 178–180

Wachusett, United States steam-sloop, 30
The way of peace, 310
The way of salvation made plain, 286
The way to heaven, 282
Webster, J. P., 383, 384
Weights, uniform system of, 97(15)
Wheeler, John H., 139
Wheeler, Joseph, 8, 9
When this cruel war is over, 375
Whitaker, Jared I., 74
A white Republican, 147
Why do you do it? 281
Why no one to love? 342
Wilkins, John, 292
Williams, J. E., 452
Winder, John, H., 70
Winslow, Warren, 82
Women, Southern, 174
A word of warning to an impenitent sinner, 305
Words of counsel to Confederate soldiers, 304
Wren, Ella, 323, 324
Wrighton, W. T., 329, 330
Wynne, Thomas H., 139

Yankee Doodle, Southern, 406
The young heroes of Shiloh, 309
A young lady of Virginia, 277

[PRINTED IN U·S·A·]

A SURVEY OF THE BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE · 1475-1640

·I·

THE value of any survey depends upon the amount of ground covered and the thoroughness with which the work is done. It is hoped that what follows will be found comprehensive and somewhat exhaustive.

There have been book-lovers, book-collectors, and bibliographers from very early times—before the discovery of printing even. English literature at an early day found among its lovers several who attempted to record its progress. Among the earliest of whom we have any record is Boston Buriensis, or John Boston of Bury, an Augustinian Monk of Bury St. Edmunds, who flourished in 1410. He wrote a Catalogus Scriptorum Ecclesiæ, a list with authors' names whose books were to be found in the libraries of the English monasteries and elsewhere. A contemporary of his, Alan of Lynn, a Carmelite Monk, flourished about 1424. Their manuscripts have been lost, but a portion of John Boston's catalogue was printed by David Wilkins (1685–1745) and incorporated by Bishop Thomas Tanner (1674–1735) in the Preface to his Bibliotheca Britannico-Hibernica (1748), a work embracing an account of all authors flourishing within the three kingdoms before the beginning of the seventeenth century. Boston and Alan naturally wrote only of books in manuscript, as printing had not then been invented. The occasion for mentioning them is that they were the forerunners of a long line of later writers who were to treat of printed books.

When the monasteries of England were suppressed in 1536 and 1539, there were two men who viewed with deep concern the wholesale destruction and dispersal of their libraries. They were John Leland, or Leyland (1506?–1552), and John Bale (1495–1563), Bishop of Ossory. Leyland was commissioned by Henry VIII to search the cathedrals, colleges, and religious houses of England for records, manuscripts, and relics of antiquity. Accordingly he spent three years traveling through England and Wales and making copious notes of whatever he saw and found. His commission gave him no authority to collect such material, but he went so far as to procure some rarities for the king's library.

After returning from his tour he settled down to systematize his notes and prepare them for publication, but he did not live long enough to complete the task.

Leyland's contemporary, Bishop Bale, also did what he could to preserve the works of English writers. He worked independently and also made a record of English writers. Combining his own researches with the notes of Leyland, to which he had access, he published his Illustrium Majoris Britanniæ Scriptorum Summariū in 1548, thereby laying the foundation of English bibliography and thus entitling himself to be named its Father. After him came a long line of writers, who, from various standpoints, endeavored to record the progress of English literature from about the close of the seventeenth century down to our own times. These records we will consider elsewhere.

Individual efforts in all branches of learning continued until 1660, when the Royal Society of London was founded. This was the first among English learned societies both in antiquity and dignity. From that time onward societies, fostering all kinds of special learning, sprang up, not only in England but on the Continent, until their numbers became legion. Still, bibliographers toiled on independently without thought of coordinating their efforts. In no field of research is there a greater need of co-operation than among bibliographers. Let us suppose several are interested in the same subject. If drawn together by a society, they would be helpful to one another, and more useful perhaps to literature in general, than if left to pursue their studies individually. Thus it happened that, while those engaged in other fields of research were combining into societies, bibliographers, engaged in the very field of endeavor which is most useful to all learning, and is the handmaid of all sciences, were left to their individual efforts.

The modern library movement, which began in England in 1849 and 1850, ultimately led to the formation of a bibliographical society. It may not be out of place just here briefly to trace the history of this movement. On June (17), 1847, Queen Victoria issued a commission, supplemented by another of later date, May (5), 1848, > for the purpose of inquiring into the Constitution and Government of the British Museum, the Administration of its Funds, and the Organization, Arrangements, and Present Condition of the several Departments of that Establishment, with the view of ascertaining in what manner that National Institution may be made most effective for the advancement of Literature, Science, and the Arts.

The report of that commission, relating largely to the library of the British Museum, was published in 1850 in a volume of over 1,000 pages.

On July (23), 1849, the House of Commons ordered a report of a Select Committee on Public Libraries to be printed. This report, including its Index, covers about 800 pages and contains the fullest and most accurate statistical details respecting public libraries which up to that time had appeared in print. It embraces the testimony and opinions (as did also the report on the British Museum) of some of the most eminent bibliographers in Europe upon many important points concerning the history and management of libraries. Among those called upon to express their opinions were Edward Edwards, formerly of the British Museum, Messieurs Guizot of France, Van de Weyer of Belgium, Libri of Italy, and many others. Edwards' works on libraries, his Memoirs of Libraries (1859), Free Town Libraries (1869), and Lives of the Founders of the British Museum (1870), though of later date, contain a mass of cognate material.

This agitation in England was not without its effect on our own country; for, three years later, on September 15, 1853, there was held in New York the first American conference of librarians. Fifty-three delegates were in attendance, all of them men. Not until the centennial year of our national independence, nearly a quarter of a century later, were the librarians again to awaken from their apathetic sleep. Then an alert, dynamic young man at Amherst College, Melvil Dewey, who had invented a decimal system of classifying books, bestirred himself and awakened among the librarians of the country a renewed and lively interest in libraries. Then, in the rooms of the Pennsylvania Historical Association, on October 4, 1876, at the call of Justin Winsor, William Frederick Poole, and Lloyd P. Smith, all eminent librarians, the American Library Association was organized. The total attendance was 103, of whom there were 11 ladies, who, taking their lives in their hands, ventured into this den of bibliothecal lions and—wonderful to relate—escaped in safety. An Englishman, James Yates, public librarian of Leeds, was also present.

The Library Journal, the first number of which is dated September 30, 1876, was adopted as the official organ of the Association. "The plan of the American Library Journal" (as it was then called) states in its columns that it "is intended to cover the entire field of library and bibliographical interests." The United States Bureau of Education issued a special report on Public Libraries in the United States, Their History, Condition and Management. This consisted of two parts: Part I being historical and statistical, and Part II containing Cutter's Rules for a Printed Dictionary Catalogue. Unfortunately, owing to a delay, this work was not issued until November—several months after the conference.

Mr. Edward B. Nicholson, at that time librarian of the London Institution and, later, Bodley's librarian, impressed with the success of the Philadelphia meeting, suggested the advisability of holding a similar meeting in London. Encouraged by his fellow-librarians, he invited the principal metropolitan librarians to meet at the London Library April 9, 1877. They did so and unanimously resolved that a conference should be held in the autumn. An Organizing Committee was chosen to do the preliminary work. Accordingly, the first conference of librarians in Europe was held in the lecture theater of the London Institution on October 2–5, 1877. Nearly all of the 216 registered members were present, as well as 16 visiting librarians from the United States. Among them were Charles Ammi Cutter, Melvil Dewey, Charles Evans, Samuel Swett Green, Reuben Aldridge Guild, William Frederick Poole, Lloyd Pearsall Smith, and Justin Winsor. Of these, two only, Melvil Dewey and Charles Evans—charter members of the American Library Association—are now living. At this meeting a resolution was passed recognizing the urgent necessity for a general catalogue of English literature, and a recommendation that the council of the Association forthwith take steps to prepare such a catalogue. Another resolution provided for the appointment of an English committee to co-operate in preparing a new edition of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature. The name "American" having been dropped from its title, the "Library Journal" was adopted as the official organ of both Associations.

From this it will be seen that the English society at once started out with a definite bibliographical object—a Catalogue of English Literature.

In 1880, John Young Walker MacAlister, later Sir John MacAlister, a name cherished by all English librarians and bibliographers, joined the Association and was present at the Edinburgh meeting. He was then librarian of the Public Library in Leeds. He had studied medicine for three years but was compelled by ill health to abandon his studies. After recovery he was appointed sub-librarian at Liverpool and within two years became librarian of the Leeds library. From 1887 to 1896 he held the office of Honorary Secretary of the Library Association of the United Kingdom, and during the latter year obtained for it a royal charter.

In 1889 he founded The Library, of which he was sole editor until 1903, and from then on, with the aid of Alfred William Pollard, until 1919. Mr. Pollard had joined the Library Association in 1897. MacAlister, as those who were present well remember, organized and successfully carried through the Second International Conference of Librarians, held in London, in 1897. Earlier, in 1887, he had been appointed resident librarian of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society. For this society he did wonders, and was knighted in 1920. In March of that year at a dinner held to commemorate the event, Sir William Osler said that though MacAlister's health had not permitted him to take up medicine as a profession he had done more for it than any member of it. In January, 1904, as already mentioned, Mr. Pollard became joint-editor with MacAlister, of The Library, then beginning the fifth volume of the Second Series.

About 1890 MacAlister became impressed with the idea that while bibliography was one of the professed objects of the Library Association it already had all the work it could well do for the cause of librarianship alone. He therefore thought that bibliography should have a society of its own. He found in Dr. Walter Arthur Copinger (1847–1901) an ardent supporter of his views. Dr. Copinger, at a session of the fourteenth annual meeting of the Library Association of the United Kingdom, held in Nottingham, September 16–18, 1891, read a paper on "The Necessity for a Bibliographical Society and Suggestions for Its Operations." Finding some 70 gentlemen who were willing to join and support such a society when formed, he issued a call for a preliminary meeting, which was held at the offices of the Library Association, at 20 Hanover Square, on Friday July 15, 1892. A provisional committee was chosen to draw up rules to be submitted at a general meeting of all those who had intimated a desire to join such a Society.

The first general meeting, so planned, was held on October 24 of that year. The report of the Provisional Committee was read and adopted. The list of members, printed in Volume 1 of its Transactions contained 187 names, including 10 Americans and 1 honorary member, M. Leopold Delisle, the librarian of the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris. This number shows that there was, among many men prominent in various fields of literature, an urgent demand for the formation of such a society.

Its objects, as stated in its Rules, are as follows:

a) The acquisition of information upon subjects connected with Bibliography.

b) The promotion and encouragement of Bibliographical studies and researches.

c) The printing and publishing of works connected with Bibliography.

d) The formation of a Bibliographical Library.

It was but natural that, soon after its formation, the Society should desire to define the term "bibliography," to consider the field toward which its efforts should be directed, and, that being done, to make a survey of the bibliographies of English literature already in existence. The very foundation of the Society showed that its members were of the opinion that the bibliography of English literature had not been fully covered and that much work still remained to be done.

President Copinger, in his inaugural address, delivered November 21, said:

Bibliography has been called the grammar of literary investigation. In its broader modern sense, ... Bibliography has two main branches, the first of which has reference to the contents of books, and may be termed Intellectual Bibliography; the second, to their external character, the history of particular copies, editions, &c., and may be termed Material Bibliography. The object of the first kind is to acquaint literary men with the most important books in every department of study, either by means of classified catalogues simply, or by similar or alphabetical catalogues, accompanied by critical remarks as to their authors, their characters and qualification. And this branch of Bibliography is better expressed by the word "Bibliology"; or, as the late Mr. Ernest Thomas put it, "Bibliography" may be defined to be the study of the bodies of books, and "Bibliology" as the study of their minds. The object of the second, which I term Material Bibliography, is the knowledge of books, of their different editions and degrees of rarity, their real or reputed value, and the ranks which they ought respectively to hold in a system of classification.

It will be seen that the first of these definitions which Copinger made, that termed "intellectual bibliography," is broad enough to include the biographies of literary men, histories of literature, and those critical works that attempt to evaluate literature. The term "bibliography," as usually understood, however, generally includes only what is above described as "material bibliography," without any attempt to determine the relative rank of books in the great hierarchy of learning.

It is evident that no one society can grapple with the whole field of knowledge as found embodied in the overwhelming output of the press, past and present, which has been estimated by Iwinski, after an elaborate statistical study of book production, to exceed 25,000,000 "different books." Every society, therefore, is compelled by necessity to limit the scope of its work strictly to that portion of it that urgently demands attention.

In view of this limitation, the Bibliographical Society considered the advisability of compiling a general catalogue of English literature. This subject had been carefully considered at the International Conference of Librarians held in London in October, 1877. In consequence, a committee which had been appointed on April 5, 1878, reported as follows:

1. That the (suggested) General Catalogue of English Literature should consist of an Alphabetical Catalogue under authors' names, to be followed by Class Bibliographies or Subject-Indexes.

2. That it should comprehend all books printed in English either in the United Kingdom or abroad, including Pamphlets, Broadsides, Newspapers, Periodicals, together with Translations of Foreign Works, but not editions in foreign languages even with brief English notes.

3. That it should be brought down to the latest possible date.

4. That titles should be abridged, but the abridgments should be indicated.

The needs of readers and scholars had thus been put on record fifteen years before the Bibliographical Society was formed.

Before entering upon the work of the Society, it was considered expedient to ascertain how extensively the field had already been covered. At the third meeting of the Society, December 19, 1892, Mr. Henry Benjamin Wheatley (1838–1917) read a paper on "The Present Condition of English Bibliography, and Suggestions for the Future." He called attention very briefly to some of its outstanding works.

The bibliographical material in existence at the time the Bibliographical Society was founded in 1892 was of varied character and importance.

Some forty years ago Frederick Locker-Lampson (1821–1895), a poet and noted collector of books of English literature printed between 1590 and 1610, issued a catalogue of his books. In its Preface he wisely said: "It is a good thing to read books, and need not be a bad thing to write them; but it is a pious thing to preserve those that have been sometime written." It is a great pity that this sentiment, so happily expressed, had not been rigorously followed by book-lovers and custodians of books from the earliest years of English literature down to the present day. Had this been the case, many a work, now irreparably lost, would have been preserved and the annals of our literature rendered more complete. The religious houses, before their dissolution, were great sinners in this respect. They had little of that pious care for the preservation of books which should have been their special consideration as well as duty. The destruction of books in past times has been enormous. Neglect, fire, war, fanaticism, and wanton waste have all played their respective parts in depriving the world of a vast deal of its intellectual heritage. This, as we have seen, was especially the case during the sixteenth century.

As we have seen, the Bibliographical Society of London was organized under most favorable circumstances, a considerable number of people having expressed a desire to become its charter members.

It was located where the original sources of information regarding English literature could most easily be found and consulted—namely, in the British Museum, the University Libraries, and the collections of private collectors, many of whom were themselves enrolled in its membership.

Its very surroundings were rich in historical and literary associations extending back to remote times.

The annual dues were placed at a figure which assured the Society sufficient funds with which to carry on its purpose as a publishing society.

At frequent intervals it held meetings in which papers were read and ample opportunity afforded for discussion. Its members were thus kept fully informed regarding matters of current activities and interest. Moreover, its meetings were held at the central point in the kingdom, easily within the reach of its members, who, no doubt, often planned their trips up to town so as to be present.

Its publications consist of transactions, a series of illustrated monographs, a series of small quarto monographs, and miscellaneous volumes—the whole covering a wide range of subjects, but in the main relating to English literature.

An index of the Society's publications shows that almost every phase of book production has been considered. The early English printers, binders, and stationers or booksellers, have received exhaustive treatment in a series of monographs covering the period from Caxton's time down to about 1700. Hardly a single feature, such as paper, types, printers' devices and booksellers' signs, etc., has failed to be carefully treated by writers who, having made a special study of their subjects, may be considered as authorities.

Monographs concerning certain classes of literature not previously covered by earlier bibliographers here find a place. Such, among others, are those on early tales and romances, translations into English from foreign languages, plays and masques, etc., etc. In short, there has been a wonderful display of "team work" among the Society's members—all tending toward an exhaustive bibliography of early English literature down to the year 1641.

These efforts have culminated in the Short-Title Catalogue published two years ago. This contains a list of all the works printed in England and in the English language, from 1475 to 1641, that can be traced. What, however, is of the greatest importance to the scholar is that copies of every work therein recorded have been located in some one of the 115 libraries (of which 15 are in this country) and their location given.

The activity of American book-collectors in acquiring the typographical monuments of the early English printing presses and the masterpieces of English Literature is here displayed to a remarkable degree. This is particularly true of the Huntington Library. In the short time the late Henry E. Huntington was collecting his library he acquired over 8,725 items, a trifle more than one-third of the total recorded in the Short-Title Catalogue; and, what is perhaps still more remarkable, 668 copies of these are to be found in no other library, and hence are presumably unique.

It is regrettable that more American libraries and book-collectors were not alive to the work being carried on by our sister-society, and did not co-operate with it. Had such been the case, an even better showing might have been made.

It is gratifying to learn that our own Society is taking on new life. Now that it has arrived at the second quarter of a century of its existence, may we not hope that during the next quarter of a century it will accomplish far more than in the days which are passed?

May 16, 1929

·II·

WHAT SHOULD BE FOUND IN BIBLIOGRAPHIES

THE information scholars, bibliographers, and book-collectors look for in bibliographies differs according to their needs. Some only wish to know what has been written on a particular subject; others wish the fullest possible information. As a general rule the older and rarer a book may be the more minutely it should be described. The following are some of the points about which information should be given.

1. The author's name.—Since a book cannot exist without someone to write it, the first thing to be looked for is the author's name. This should always be given when it is possible to ascertain it, not only for the purpose of identifying the author but to establish a caption or heading under which all his other literary productions should be grouped. The dates of his birth and death, or, if these are unknown, the date or dates when he flourished, should be given in order to indicate the period of his literary activity.

2. The title of the book.—When the author's name is unknown, the book should appear under the first word, not an article, of its title. If a title is such that it will be more readily remembered than the name of its author, a reference should be made from the title to the author's name if known. If a pseudonym or initials only are used, the work may be entered under either of these, with a reference from its title. References should be freely used. Too many can scarcely be employed, for one never knows under what particular heading an unsophisticated seeker after information may look for what he desires. The bibliographer and cataloguer should constantly try to put themselves in the place of such searchers and adapt rules, if need be, to aid them.

3. The size of the volume.—There is probably no point on which there is a greater diversity of practice among bibliographers and cataloguers than in assigning sizes to books. Before 1798 paper was made entirely by hand. Then a machine for making paper was invented by Louis Robert, a workman employed by the Didots in their mill at Essonne, not far from Paris. Machine-made paper was introduced into England in 1803. Previous to that date handmade paper alone was used in the manufacture of books. Sheets were made of different sizes, each usually distinguished by a watermark to be found near the middle of the right-hand end, when properly held upright. When such a sheet is folded, the watermark appears in different positions. If folded once (in folio or two leaves), it is seen in the center of one of the leaves; if twice (in quarto or four leaves), in the center of the back fold; if three times (in octavo or eight leaves), in the back fold at the top; and so on, changing with each new folding. The actual dimensions of a volume vary according to the size of the paper used. Copies of a book may alter in actual size, especially if they have been rebound, as the binder generally trims a volume down each time it passes through his hands. The location of the watermark, of course, remains unchanged and so determines the size of the volume, notwithstanding that its actual measurements may vary. If the rules formulated by the Bodleian Library for ascertaining sizes according to fold are followed, there is no reason why uniformly correct designations should not be given in every case.

The sizes of books printed on machine-made paper are arbitrary, and those so printed may be found in every conceivable shape and size. It is usual to assign to them the sizes they most resemble had they been printed in England on handmade paper; so they are called "crown octavo," "royal octavo," "imperial octavo," etc. To be perfectly consistent and to give definite information as to size, it would be better to give actual size by measurement of all books printed on machine-made paper; and, there could be no possible objection to appending the actual size to the usual designations for books printed on handmade paper.

4. Place of printing.—There is generally little difficulty in ascertaining the place where a book was printed, that information usually appearing in the book itself. If not found there, its general makeup in type, paper, binding, and other earmarks should assist in assigning it to its proper location.

5. Printer's name.—This or the publisher's name, sometimes both, is often found on the title-page or elsewhere in the book. The printers and publishers are only too willing to take advantage of the publicity it affords them to have their names (and places of business) so appear. When they fail in this, it can generally be ascertained by a comparison of other works emanating from the same press, especial attention being paid to type, ornaments, printer's devices, etc. "In English books printed before 1641," to which the Bibliographical Society has paid particular attention, it was early suggested (Transactions, 9:48) that in bibliographies or lists of books of that period "it is charitable and patriotic to give the names of printers as well as publishers, so as to help forward the history of English printing."

6. Date.—The date when a book was printed generally appears in its imprint. The fixing upon the exact or nearest possible date when an undated book was printed is one of the greatest tasks that confronts bibliographers, and no amount of labor employed in fixing the date of an undated book can be considered excessive. Nothing can be more important than to decide, with as great precision as possible, when, during the lifetime of its author, it was written, when printed, and its correct place in the annals of literature. Unfortunately, many early books were undated, and the conjectural dates given by bibliographers are often untrustworthy.

As an example, take John Polemon's All the Famous Battels that have bene fought in our age, etc., London, by Henry Bynneman and Francis Coldock, n. d.

Ames (p. 332), gives the date for this book as "1587." Herbert (2:922, 989), gives its date as "1586," a year earlier than Ames. Hazlitt in his Hand-book (p. 474) follows Herbert,

"[1586]." The British Museum's Catalogue of Books (1:114) printed to the year 1640, gives the date as "[1585?]," with a query. Thus we see that the tendency was to put the date a little earlier than that assigned by Ames. Sayle, in the first volume of his Early English Printed Books, went back and adopted Ames's date. So it happened that for more than a century and a half bibliographers practically copied one another, their dates varying by only two years (1585–1587). In the Index to Sayle's work, issued in 1907, he changes his previous date to "[1578?]" (with a query), and in a footnote says: "Correction. License 1577, July 1." Here he drops hypothetical dates and bases one on a contemporary record, i.e., the date when the book was licensed to be printed. It would appear but natural that it must have been published soon after it was licensed and not held in manuscript for eight years or a decade before being put in print. Hence we feel justified in following Sayle in assigning to this book the earlier date of [1578?]. If we turn now to the Bibliographical Society's Short-Title Catalogue (1926), published since the foregoing work was written, we find it gives the date "[1578]" to this work.

So much, then, for our problem from a bibliographical point of view. Let us now approach it from another standpoint. Much thought and study has been paid to the biography of printers in England. Ames arranged his material by printers instead of authors and gives the dates of Bynneman's activity as a printer from 1566 to 1583, the latter being the year of his death, as it is also given in the Dictionary of National Biography (3:574). Coldock was a bookseller, not a printer. It seems rather strange, does it not, that Ames should give a date to this book five years later than its printer's death? An explanation of his decision is probably to be found in the fact that The Second Part of the Booke of Battailes fought in our age (Short-Title Catalogue, No. 20090), a copy of which is in the British Museum, was printed by Gabrield Cawood, with the date 1587 on the title-page. Until further evidence is produced, it is safe to assume that Bynneman printed the first part during his lifetime (not afterward) and probably within a year or a year and a half after he produced his license.

7. Collation.—Books are composed of sheets of paper or other material, printed, folded, gathered, and bound in proper sequence. To find out whether a book is complete, it should be collated; that is, it should be critically examined sheet by sheet and leaf by leaf to see that none are missing or misplaced. A record of such an examination is called a "collation," and no complete bibliography of rare books is complete without such collations.

8. Provenance.—This French word, meaning source or origin, is rapidly becoming Anglicized. The fact that a book described has belonged to one or more famous collectors or has other association interests should be recorded. Many rare books have interesting pedigrees. Modern bibliography is more and more being based upon the description of actual copies. When such is the case, the location of other copies should be given. Nothing can take the place of seeing the book itself.

9. Prices.—Values of books based upon auction sales or booksellers' catalogues vary greatly and for different reasons. Rarity, condition as to size and binding, association interests, fashions in collection—these and various other incidental features all influence prices. Records of sales are therefore of value chiefly as indicia of popular esteem and as incidents in the history of book-selling and book-collecting.

10. Annotations.—Notes respecting the author and his career, his literary standing, the value or popularity of his works, and other pertinent subjects are all of interest and may well find a place in a "full-dress bibliography"; but, as we have seen, much of these data is what Copinger classes as "intellectual bibliography."

The foregoing are some of the features that the scholar and other seekers after knowledge have a right to expect to find set forth in bibliographies.

·III·

THE SURVEY

I

LELAND or LEYLAND, JOHN (1506?–1552)

John Leland was the earliest of modern English antiquaries. He was commissioned by Henry VIII to search for records, manuscripts, and relics of antiquity in all the cathedrals, colleges, and religious houses in England. His powers did not extend to the actual collection of manuscripts though he did procure some for the king's library, chiefly from the abbey of St. Augustine at Canterbury. From about 1534 to 1542 he made an antiquarian tour of England and Wales. On his return from his journeys he settled down to systematize his notes and prepare them for publication. The bulk of his work was in manuscript at the time of his death. The greater part, after passing through various hands, was deposited in the Bodleian Library by William Burton (1575–1645), the historian. Though Leland's work was freely used by other antiquaries, notably by John Bale, William Camden, and Sir William Dugdale, it remained in manuscript until early in the eighteenth century.

II

1. BALE, JOHN (1495–1563), Bishop of Ossory

Leland and Bale were both witnesses of the criminal neglect and reckless destruction of books that not only followed the dissolution of the monasteries but had been permitted to exist by the monks and friars previous to that event. Both were among the very foremost in their attempts to preserve the works of the English writers of their day as well as those of former times.

Bishop Bale's most important work, Illustrium Majoris Britanniæ Scriptorum Summariū (1548; second edition 1549), is a chronological catalogue of British authors and their works during fourteen centuries. This work may be considered as the foundation of English bibliography. It is one of the earliest books printed at Ipswich. The printing was apparently begun at Wesel by Theodoricus Plateanus and finished at Ipswich by John Overton. Though partly founded on the Collectanea and Commentarii of John Leland, it is largely based on Bale's own examination of many of the Augustinian and Carmelite houses before the dissolution. His work is invaluable, for, in spite of its inaccuracies, it contains much information that otherwise would have been hopelessly lost.

2. POOLE, Reginald Lane (1857–), and BATESON, Mary (1865–1906)

The work of Bale has been rendered more useful to the modern scholar by the work of the above editors, who brought out in 1902 John Bale's Index of British and Other Writers. This is from John Bale's autograph notebook preserved among Selden's manuscripts in the Bodleian Library.

> The design of the present edition [says the editor] has been to print the whole of Bale's alphabetical catalogue. It has seemed evidently desirable that this note-book, which bears no title (except the words De Scriptoribus Angliæ on the modern back of the binding) should be given a name to distinguish it from the two Catalogues which Bale himself printed; and I have adopted the title Index Britanniæ Scriptorum.
>
> At the end of the volume three lists are given; first, of the surnames of the writers included in the Index; second, of the titles of their works; and third, of the authorities Bale cites as the evidence for his statements.

This volume forms No. 9 of "Anecdota Oxoniensia, Mediæval and Modern Series." It is a carefully planned work, arranged alphabetically, and generally gives references. The material of the original work is given in chronological order.

III

WOOD, Anthony, or as he later called himself Anthony à Wood (1632–1695)

The Athenæ Oxonienses is the work by which this antiquary and historian is best known. It is lacking in literary style, but the enormous mass of information it contains displays the unremitting industry and ceaseless research of its author. Of an uncharitable disposition, and frequently warped by prejudice, his judgments regarding those who met with his disapproval raised a storm of protest when this work was first given to the world. His statements about Edward Hyde, first Earl of Clarendon, led to his being prosecuted for libel. On July 29, 1693, he was condemned in the vice-chancellor's court, fined, banished from the university until he recanted, and the offending pages publicly burned.

Bishop Tanner (1674–1735), one of the literary executors of Wood after the lapse of nearly half a century, was chosen to prepare a new edition of the Athenæ Oxonienses. His edition appeared in 1721. "It was well known [says Dibdin] that Wood had not only made large corrections to his own printed text, but had written nearly 500 new lives—his MS. of both being preserved in the Ashmolean Museum." Notwithstanding, when this edition "appeared, it was soon discovered to be a corrupt and garbled performance; and that the genuine text of Wood, as well in his correctness of the old, as in his compositions of the new lives, had been most capriciously copied."

Tanner also published in 1748 a Bibliotheca Britannico-Hibernica. It contains an account of all authors flourishing within the three kingdoms at the beginning of the seventeenth century. Written in Latin, it is a sealed book to the multitude; but this appears not to be its most serious objection, as it is imperfect and erroneous in many parts.

Dr. Philip Bliss (1787–1857), antiquary, deserves enduring honors for his invaluable edition of the Athenæ Oxonienses, which appeared in four volumes from 1813 to 1820. The Fasti are sometimes bound separately in a fifth volume. The volumes contain upward of 2,200 lives and are enriched with notes by numerous literati, and some new lives are added to each volume. It was Bliss's intention to issue supplementary volumes continuing the work to 1800, but this he never did. He left to the Bodleian Library his interleaved copy in which were many corrections and some additional matter. "We ought gratefully to acknowledge [says Nicholson] that he [Wood] has furnished us with a larger stock of useful material than perhaps any one man of his age has collected" (quoted by Allibone). "Without the ardour of this hermit of literature, where [says Isaac D'Israeli] would be our literary history?" (quoted by Allibone).

Despite these characteristics Wood's work is invaluable both for its biographical and bibliographical information. The merit of the work is much enhanced by the judicious corrections and additions made by Dr. Tanner in the second edition. The third edition, edited by Dr. Bliss, contains more than 2,200 lives, each being followed by a list of the author's works. These were enriched by the notes of many famous scholars. This edition has superseded both the former ones.

IV

1. AMES, Joseph (1689–1759), bibliographer and antiquary

Joseph Ames published his Typographical Antiquities, a historical account of printing in England from 1474 to 1600, in 1749, four years before the incorporation of the British Museum. In it he sought to give complete lists of the publications of each of England's early printers.

With a true bibliographical instinct he disregarded printed lists and based his work upon the title-pages of the works themselves. In furtherance of his work Ames had brought together a large collection of title-pages. A part of this collection, consisting of some 10,438 fragments, is now in the British Museum. Of these about 7,500 were printed in England, Scotland, and Ireland from Caxton down to 1748. The rest were produced in foreign cities. Ames's work was originally begun at the suggestion of the Rev. John Lewis (1675–1747), who had begun gathering materials for a history of printing in England and who gave him most valuable aid in his undertaking. Access to the libraries of Sir Hans Sloane (1660–1753), Edward Harley (1689–1741), second Earl of Oxford, owner of the Harleian Collection, the most celebrated library in England at that time, and other collections, greatly assisted Ames in his labors. In the Preface, he says:

> Gentlemen may be assisted to complete [the bibliographical description of] their ancient books, which often are imperfect at the beginning, or end, by copying from this; for I did not chuse to copy into my book from catalogues, but from the books themselves, and have added a very copious Index of persons names who are mentioned, by which any thing in the book may be found.

A considerable number of the books described were in his own library. These he distinguished by an asterisk. For its day it was a good piece of work and told pretty much all that was then known on the subject.

2. HERBERT, William (1718–1795), bibliographer

William Herbert brought out the second and augmented edition of Ames's Typographical Antiquities in three volumes. These appeared in 1785, 1786, and 1790, respectively.

He was so fortunate as to secure, from Sir Peter Thompson, Ames's interleaved copy of his own work, containing a great number of additions and manuscript notes. In a letter written in 1790 to his old friend Mr. White, of Crickhowell, he says:

> I have been twenty-four years collecting materials. . . . . I purpose to continue . . . . in order to bring out a fourth volume. . . . . If it shall please God to take me to himself, Isaac [probably his son] will in due time set it forth. However I shall keep an interleaved copy for the purpose.

The fourth volume never appeared.

Herbert's work was a considerable advance on Ames's. Allibone says:

> The great objections to Herbert's volumes are their dry technicality and catalogue stiffness. Dibdin speaks of his work as follows: "Do not despise his toil because it is not sprinkled with gay conceits, or learned digressions: he wrote to be useful, not to be entertaining; and so far as he went, his work was such an improvement upon his predecessor's plan as to place it quite at the head of National Typography." His accuracy and laborious perseverance cannot be too much commended; but we want more in a book than precision and faithfulness. We want a volume which can be read—not merely consulted.

Such a work in which these objections disappeared was to appear, as we shall see, in the next edition.

3. DIBDIN, Thomas Frognall (1776–1847), bibliographer

Dibdin, of all men, had the happy faculty of making "a dry study attractive and a learned subject plain." The perusal of his works was, as Isaac D'Israeli, himself a charming writer, so happily puts it: capable of throwing their readers into a delightful delirium.

The interleaved copy to which Herbert referred in the letter just mentioned, in six volumes quarto, bound in Russia leather, for which Mr. Gough had given Herbert's widow £52 10*s*., was acquired by Dibdin, together with the yet more valuable acquisition of some numerous MS addenda to his "History of Printing"—both of these he purchased at the sale of Gough's MSS and printed books in 1810. Dibdin must have parted with it after having brought out the fourth volume of his edition, as it turned up again in 1836, in the Heber sale (Vol. 8, No. 147). The first volume of Dibdin's edition of Ames was a great success, but the failure of the fourth brought his work upon it to an end and it was never completed.

V

1. BAKER, David Erskine (1730–1767), writer on the drama

David Erskine Baker, a grandson of Daniel Defoe, next claims our attention. He was educated to become a royal engineer but abandoned that profession and joined himself to several strolling bands of players. In 1764 he brought out his Companion to the Playhouse, a work based upon Gerard Langbaine the younger's (1656–1692) Account of the English Dramatick Poets (1691); Giles Jacob's (1686–1744) Poetical Register (1719–1720); Thomas Whincop's (d. 1730) "List of All the Dramatic Author's," printed with his tragedy of Scanderbeg (1747); and the MSS of Thomas Coxeter (1689–1747), an industrious antiquary who had collected much useful material. Nicoll gives the date of Baker's death as February 16, 1767.

He was the author of a small dramatic piece, The Muse of Ossian, "extracted from the several poems of Ossian, the son of Fingal" (3d ed., 3:62), based upon Macpherson's writings. This, it has been surmised, may have been the beginning of the movement that finally resulted in the writing of Byron's and Browning's dramas. Baker also translated from the Italian a comedy in two acts, The Maid the Mistress (La Serva Padrona), which was acted in Edinburgh in 1763. Both were printed in Edinburgh in 1763, the latter in Italian and English. Though copies are in the British Museum, they must be quite rare, as neither are to be found in the Kemble-Devonshire Collection.

2. REED, Isaac (1742–1807), Shakespearean editor, brought out as his first important work, a second edition of Baker's work, in 1782. He gave to this revision the title Biographia Dramatica, which better describes it than Baker's original title, as the work consists largely of the biographical sketches of dramatic writers followed by a descriptive dictionary of their plays. The work is in three volumes, usually bound in four, the first having two title-pages.

Vol. 1, Part I, Authors A–H
Vol. 1, Part II, Authors I–Y
Vol. 2, Plays A–L
Vol. 3, Plays M–Z

The last volume contains a list of Latin plays, pp. 434–41; and oratorios, pp. 442–48. "Although the editor is modest in his claims, his work is careful and valuable."

Reed's Notitia Dramatica (British Museum, Addit. MSS 25390–92), supplementary to the Biographia, has never been published. Reed prepared an edition of Shakespeare based on a copy of the 1793 edition of his friend George Steevens. This was enriched with numerous manuscript additions, and it embodied the published notes and prefaces of preceding editors. It was published in twenty-one volumes in 1813. This edition is known among booksellers as the "First Variorum" edition of Shakespeare.

3. JONES, Stephen (1763–1827), the editor of the third edition, brought the work, with very considerable additions, down to the end of November, 1811. This edition represented the results of thirty years' acquaintance with the works of the early British dramatists, and owes no little of its value and completeness to the liberality of John Philip Kemble, the celebrated actor, who gave the editor access to his wonderful collection of English plays and every possible aid in carrying on his studies. Though his work was severely criticized in the Quarterly Review, and although neither of the previous editors appear to have executed theirs in a wholly satisfactory manner, this last edition, though in the main a reprint of Reed's, is still absolutely the best edition of a work which has by no means as yet been altogether superseded, and is of great value. The work is in three volumes, usually bound in four, the first having two title-pages.

Vol. 1, Part I, Authors A–H
Vol. 1, Part II, Authors I–Y
Vol. 2, Plays A–L
Vol. 3, Plays M–Z

The last volume contains a list of Latin plays, pp. 434–41; and oratorios, pp. 442–48.

VI

RITSON, Joseph (1752–1803), antiquary

Joseph Ritson, one of the earliest collectors of English verse, edited a long series of poetical works of antiquarian interest. But for his researches many of the obscure poets of whom he wrote would have passed into oblivion. He made his transcripts and notes with scrupulous fidelity, a trait that he carried to a far higher degree than is common among antiquarians. With his scholarship he combined much pedantry, as may be seen in the peculiar system of spelling he adopted. This he did of set purpose. Objecting to the suppression of e's, he wrote "romanceës," "translateëd," "writeër," etc.

His impatience of the shortcomings and mistakes he found in the works of other writers in the same field of research led him to give expression to bitter, even insulting comments regarding them and their works. In these he displayed an almost morbid bitterness. He can fairly be called a venomous critic, and the "Ritsonian" style has become proverbial. As an example, in the Preface to his The Quip Modest (1788), he "calls one of the editors (George Steevens) an infamous scoundrel, and predicts his coming to the gallows." This passage was afterward suppressed and a milder tone adopted, but still in Ritson's sarcastic style. His detection and exposure of the Ireland forgeries in 1795 proved the soundness of his critical powers. His Cursory Criticisms were not alone confined to Malone's edition of Shakespeare, but abound throughout his works. His censures, as in those regarding Warton's History of English Poetry, were often well deserved even if impertinent. Brydges in his Censura Literaria (1805 ed., 1:55) handles the work here noted with severity. Notwithstanding, lovers of English poetry owe perpetual obligation to Ritson for his researches, though his works are marred by his eccentricity and irritability which were mainly due to the mental malady of which he finally died.

VII

BRYDGES, Sir Samuel Egerton, Bart. (1762–1837), bibliographer and genealogist

Sir Egerton Brydges, "a name to all the book-tribe dear," was greatly interested in rare Elizabethan literature. Among his numerous publications are three that especially call for our notice: Censura Literaria, British Bibliographer, and Restituta. Their value consists largely in the abstracts and opinions they contain.

In the Introduction to Restituta he says:

> My principle aim shall be to revive those forgotten works which the most enlightened minds will admit to be among the due apparatus of a curious library; and I will endeavour to collect opinions on characters of those works from the best authorities.

The contents of this work are rendered fully accessible by a full alphabetical index. There is a classified index to the first edition of Censura Literaria, comprising nearly 800 titles besides numerous obituary notices. In 1813 Brydges began to supply rare Elizabethan texts to be reprinted by a private printing press located at Lee Priory, the residence of his eldest son, T. B. Brydges Barrett, at Ickham, near Canterbury. Lowndes gives a list of 110 titles there printed. This includes a number of Brydges' own works, as well as others which he either edited or to which he wrote introductory matter.

Brydges was possessed of a most unfortunate temperament which prevented his getting on well with others. He was morbidly sensitive, egotistic, and had an extraordinary thirst for literary fame. He was a most prolific author and is said to have written 2,000 sonnets in one year. William Morris, who exhibited a similar fecundity, could write 300 lines of verse of a morning before breakfast. Sir Egerton imagined himself to be a poet, but his poetry is of the most mediocre character; and his fame will rest on his works as a bibliographer (to which he attached little importance) rather than on his other works.

His life was embittered by his failure to make good his claim to the barony of Chandos. The House of Lords decided adversely against him, and later the Lancaster Herald, George Frederick Beltz (1777–1841), proved that his claim was totally unfounded. Brydges took no legal steps to establish his claim, but afterward styled himself "per legem terræ, Baron Chandos of Sudeley." The effects of his disappointment marred many of his pages of rare beauty and profound lore. "Like Lord Byron, whom in some respects he resembled, Sir Egerton is continually presenting his own woful visage in his gloomy galleries."

VIII

GRIFFITH, Acton Frederick, compiler of Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica; 1815

Thomas Hill (1760–1840), bibliophile and patron of the poets Robert Bloomfield (1766–1823) and Henry Kirke White (1785–1806), brought together a valuable collection of English poetry, which formed the basis of a historical catalogue. Hazlitt gives a very interesting account of how this collection came to pass from the hands of Hill to those of the publishers, Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, who issued the catalogue. The contents of the collection consisted entirely of English poetry; and, though small, numbering only 1,166 volumes, it contained many poetical treasures of great rarity. The interesting biographical, critical, and bibliographical material it contains adds much to its value.

Thomas Hill, familiarly known as "Tommy Hill," otherwise "Paul Pry," says Hazlitt, offered the collection > to Longmans on the plea of failing health, and for which the purchasers elected, looking prophetically at his moribund aspect, to grant him an annuity in preference to a round sum. Mr. Hill's apprehensions, however, were premature, as the transaction had the effect of restoring his spirits; and the booksellers scored rather indifferently. How pleased they must have been to see him coming for his pension year after year!

Corser, who included this work in his Collectanea Anglo-Poetica, says that not long after the foregoing catalogue was issued "the entire collection was soon afterwards dispersed, and became scattered abroad and absorbed in the libraries of Heber, Freeling, Midgley, Broadley, Perry, and other eminent collectors of that period (a very large portion of it being now in the collection now described.)" Corser redescribed such volumes as fell into his hands, at greater length and with finer literary intelligence, in his extensive Collectanea Anglo-Poetica.

The estimated value of the collection at the time the catalogue was made was considered to amount to £7,559 15*s*., averaging nearly £6 10*s*. per volume. This was over a hundred years ago. What would not Dr. Rosenbach pay for this entire collection today rather than allow it to pass into the hands of a fellow-dealer!

This catalogue will ever retain its value as one of the earliest works of its kind, and no library of the poetical literature of England should be without it. Griffith, its compiler, then in the employ of Longmans, was cut off in early life; but his work, as here displayed, gave great promise for the future, and his death was a pronounced loss to English bibliography.

Corser's copy, one of fifty copies printed on large paper, was extra-illustrated by the insertion of over 450 portraits, extended to three volumes, and bound in dark-green morocco, by Bedford. We wonder on whose shelves it now rests.

IX

WATT, Robert (1774–1819), bibliographer

Robert Watt exemplifies to a disheartening degree the misfortunes that await the devotees of bibliography. Notwithstanding its great usefulness in unlocking the treasures to be found in print, no class of work appears to be less appreciated by the public at large. In 1795 Watt developed the idea of his Bibliotheca Britannica. Though a physician in active practice and a lecturer on medicine, he devoted his leisure to the preparation of medical papers, a Catalogue of Medical Books (1812), and his magnum opus the Bibliotheca Britannica. It is possible that Dr. James Douglas' (1675–1742) work Bibliographiæ Anatomicæ Specimen (1715; also 1755) may have suggested the earlier of these works.

Two years before his death the preparation of the work here described had progressed so far that he gave up his medical practice, moved to a small country house about two miles from Glasgow, employed several young men as assistants, and devoted himself entirely to its compilation. He died of too intense study at Glasgow, at the early age of forty-five. Ditchfield, probably through oversight, failed to include Watts' name among those enumerated in his Books Fatal to Their Authors.

Only a few sheets had been printed when Watt died. His sons then went on with the work, but misfortune seemed to follow it at every step. Of the two sons who aided in it, John, the elder, died in 1821 at the age of twenty. James, his brother, lived to see the work through the press but died five years later. The printing was delayed nearly a year by the destruction of a portion of the manuscript, robbers having thrown it into the fire to light the apartment.

In 1826, two years after the publication of the work, the Constables, Sir Walter Scott's publishers, failed before they had paid Mrs. Watt, as agreed, the sum of £2,000, so that the family failed to receive any benefit from the work upon which all their hopes depended. Even this was not the end, for, in 1864 Miss Watt, the only surviving member of the family, died in a workhouse in Glasgow.

The Bibliotheca Britannica is divided into two parts. Part I (Vols. 1 and 2) is devoted to authors and printers, arranged in alphabetical order. Though old, it is still an indispensable work of reference, as it contains multitudes of titles of English books and pamphlets not to be found elsewhere. Under each author (of which upward of 40,000 are included) is given a chronological list of his works, their various editions, sizes, and prices. Following the author's name, when possible, is a short biographical notice, which makes of the work a concise biographical dictionary and adds much to its value. In addition to the separate publications of authors Watt included articles in journals and transactions of societies. The names of all the printers noted by Ames, Herbert, and Dibdin have been inserted. Not only were English printers included but notable foreign ones.

Part II (Vols. 3 and 4) is a minute index of Part I, arranged alphabetically by subjects which are treated in chronological order, thus forming a sort of annual of what had been written on any subject from the earliest publication to the last.

> Watt stands alone among bibliographers, so far as I know [says Wheatley], as having produced a general subject index of universal literature on a large scale. It is really appalling to think of the enormous labour which he undertook. . . . . In spite of its many imperfections and the increase of modern requirements, the book is still one of the handiest tools of the librarian and bibliographer.

After the death of Watt's last surviving daughter, in 1864, the original manuscript was discovered, consisting of two large sacks full of slips. It is now preserved in the free library at Paisley, arranged in sixty-nine volumes.

X

1. LOWNDES, William Thomas (1798?–1843), bibliographer

William Thomas Lowndes is a name that will ever be held in honorable remembrance by all book-lovers. The son of a London bookseller, he inherited a love and taste for books and engaged in the same pursuit as his father. He was born about 1798 and died, July 31, 1843, as did Watt, at the early age of forty-five. In 1820 he began to accumulate material for his Bibliographer's Manual, a work with which his name will ever be associated. No one can read the Preface to the first edition without realizing what a comprehensive view of the subject he possessed. With indefatigable industry he labored for a period of fourteen years to accomplish his ideal. It is much to Lowndes's credit that, considering the comprehensiveness of the work, it contains fewer errors than might reasonably be expected. Notwithstanding its great merits, the work brought Lowndes neither fame nor recompense. He was reduced to poverty, and the last years of his life were spent as a cataloguer in the service of George Henry Bohn (1796–1884), the editor of the second edition, which did not appear until fourteen years after Lowndes's death.

Having brought out the Manual, Lowndes next began work on The British Librarian; or, Book-Collector's Guide to the Formation of a Library. Of this work, arranged in classes, with prices, critical notes, references, and an index of authors and subjects, only eleven parts appeared, in 1839. It was never completed, for, owing to pecuniary embarrassment, his mind gave way and he never recovered sufficiently to resume work. Unfortunately, while the 1,320 columns of which it is composed contains a most valuable collection of material, it is practically useless as it lacks the index planned by its author.

2. BOHN, Henry George (1796–1884), the enterprising London publisher, purchased the copyright of the Bibliographer's Manual and in 1857 began the task of re-editing it. The revised edition, of six volumes, appeared from 1857 to 1864, in eleven parts, each containing some preliminary notice by Bohn. The editor did not fail to make use of it to give publicity to his own publications. Power, in his Handy-Book about Books, says that it is > a good guide to Mr. Bohn's various reprints and "Libraries," and the appendix is a carefully-compiled list of the publications of the Book-printing Clubs, the private presses, such as Strawberry Hill, Lee Priory, &c., and the rare reprints of Collier, Halliwell, Maidment, Turnbull, and others. The Bibliographer's Manual is a work which, for want of a better, no English [or American] book-lover can do without. The first edition has the advantage of Mr. Bohn's, being printed in more legible type.

Later issues of the second edition bear the name of Bell & Daldy as publishers. In 1869, 250 copies were printed on large paper in six volumes, crown octavo. "The statement that one hundred copies were printed on large paper, which appears in that number of copies which were sent to America [says Sabin], is, to say the least, an abbreviation of the truth." Bohn's eleven prefatory notices found in the original parts are omitted in the large-paper copies.

The Manual records upward of 100,000 distinct books. It could have been greatly improved, but there is no substitute for it, as "it forms at once a key to the riches of English literature for the student, and a guide in the formation of a library for the collector." The work as a whole is more serviceable to the book-buyer than the literary man. Hazlitt used his copy as his memorandum book. The prices brought at auction sales are now only milestones in the history of book-collecting.

The pages devoted to Shakespeare (4:2252–2366) were separately printed in 1864 (some copies are dated 1863) under the title, Bibliographical Account of the Works of Shakespeare including Every Known Edition, Translation, and Commentary. The issue was restricted to 25 copies. Bohn also included these pages in his Biography and Bibliography of Shakespeare in ["Miscellanies of the Philobiblion Society"], with 10 engravings, in 1863, in an impression of 40 copies. The present writer owns the copy inscribed in Bohn's own handwriting as "the property of The Right Honorable The Countess of Waldegrave, presented by Henry G. Bohn, Member of the Philobiblion Society, Jany. 18th, 1865."

The late Ainsworth Rand Spofford (1825–1908), than whom no one was more conversant with books, calls the Manual "a most indispensable bibliography."

At a meeting of the Bibliographical Society, held December 18, 1893, Mr. J. H. Isaacs read a paper proposing a new edition, but no action had been taken on his proposal.

In 1921, Mr. Seymour de Ricci, the eminent bibliographer and a member of the Bibliographical Society of London, recognizing the "desperately antiquated" character of the information contained in The Bibliographer's Manual, brought out his Book Collector's Guide, A Practical Handbook of British and American Bibliography. In it are described, in the alphabetical order of the authors, the two or three thousand books which fashion has decided are the most desirable for the up-to-date collector. The work is copiously annotated, and gives the location of rare copies and the prices at which many of the books included were sold in numerous sales.

XI

COLLIER, John Payne (1789–1883)

John Payne Collier, an accomplished Shakespearean critic, was the son of John Dyer Collier (1762–1825), a successful journalist, through whose influence he obtained a position as dramatic critic and reporter on the Morning Chronicle, which he held until 1847. In 1819 he was summoned before the House of Commons for giving an incorrect report of a speech by Joseph Hume. This incident is quite significant when taken in connection with his subsequent career. Collier employed his leisure in the study of Shakespeare and the early English drama. In 1825 he brought out a new edition of Dodsley's Old Plays. This was followed by other works on the English drama. The success of these resulted in his being appointed librarian to the Duke of Devonshire. By means of this position he gained access to the most famous private collections in England, especially to the library of the Earl of Ellesmere, at Bridgewater House. The opportunities thus afforded led to a series of literary fabrications, which for a time completely misled fellow-workers in the same fields.

In the spring of 1852 Collier bought of Rodd, the bookseller, a copy of the Second Folio (1632) of Shakespeare, without title-page, but labeled on the binding "Tho Perkins his Booke." In this volume are manuscript marginal notes said by Collier to be by a former owner in the middle of the seventeenth century. These "essential" manuscript readings he incorporated in his Notes and Emendations to the Text of Shakespeare (1852). The publication of this work created a stormy controversy. In 1859 the Duke of Devonshire, to whom Collier had presented the folio, submitted it to experts at the British Museum, who, after numerous critical tests pronounced the manuscript notes to be recent fabrications in a simulated seventeenth-century hand. This controversy gave rise to a considerable number of publications, the most important of which are given in Sir Sidney Lee's Life of William Shakespeare (1916), pp. 647–50.

An even stronger case was made against Collier in the falsifications made by him among the manuscripts in Dulwich College. Among others he made spurious entries in the Alleyn Diary. This was conclusively shown by a comparison of the original manuscript of Collier's transcript, which was sold with his library in 1884, the interlineations of which correspond with the Dulwich forgeries.

In 1837 he prepared A Catalogue, Bibliographical and Critical, of Early English Literature; forming a Portion of the Library at Bridgewater House. Of this but 50 copies were privately printed by Francis Egerton, first Earl of Ellesmere. This valuable work, a labor of love, perhaps discloses Collier at his best. "Not a few of the volumes, there is every reason [he says] to believe, are unique." The books described are certainly of the greatest rarity. The whole impression of the Cata- logue was distributed as gifts. A reprint was contemplated but never executed.

A second edition, including books which had come under Collier's observation "during the last fifty years," was published by Joseph Lilly, in two volumes in 1865, as A Bibliographical and Critical Account of the Rarest Books in the English Language.

In the Preface he says:

> I have reprinted the whole of the "Bridgewater Catalogue." I refused to mutilate it by the omission of any article, however comparatively insignificant; but I have, at the same time, carefully inserted whatever information I subsequently procured, and the consequence is that there is no one piece of criticism, derived from the "Bridgewater Catalogue," that has not received improvements more or less important . . . . There is no one book, the merits or peculiarities of which are discussed in these volumes, that has not passed through my own hands and been carefully read with my own eyes. There is no extract, no line, that has not been copied by my own pen. . . . . I have purposely avoided old English drama and plays, because they form so distinct a subject that they ought to be separately treated.

He disclaims obligation, without due acknowledgment, to such works as the Censura Literaria, The British Bibliographer, Restituta, and smaller works of a similar character. His opinion of Brydges, Park, and Haslewood is expressed as follows:

> To the taste and learning of the first I bear willing testimony. The second possessed knowledge, but without much discrimination; and the third was a man remarkable for diligence, but remarkable also for the narrowness of his views, for his total want of judgment, and for the paucity of his information.

Collier began his tortuous career while still a journalist. As such (and as a littérateur even) he was a rank sensationalist without due regard for veracity. He hesitated at nothing to produce an impression. One success only increased his desire for others and led him on, step by step, to falsifications of even greater audacity. We can but call to mind the old legal maxim, Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus. This so far applies to his work that the discoveries of his forgeries have cast doubts upon all his work to such an extent that no statement made by him can be accepted without verification and no manuscript that he handled accepted without critical examination. Better had it been, had much of his work remained undone and fallen into the hands of competent, honest, and accurate scholars (like Corser and Hazlitt, for example), whose work and critical judgment can be thoroughly relied upon. Poor man: He never learned that honesty is the only policy.

Perhaps, after all, Collier's blighted reputation has had a salutary effect upon later scholars, as it has served as a fruitful warning to them of the futility of attempting by audacious deception to impose upon others.

XI*a*

PAYNE, John Thomas, and FOSS, Henry, Bibliotheca Grenvilliana

Thomas Grenville (1755–1846) belonged to a family which had given almost half a score of Ministers to England, and himself possessed great diplomatic ability. Notwithstanding, during a life protracted to more than ninety years, his public career as an active diplomatist lasted less than a year, and he was a Minister of State less than half a year. He entered Parliament soon after reaching his majority. The only conspicuous office which he ever held in England (he had been for short periods British Minister at Paris and at Berlin) was that of First Lord of the Admiralty, in 1806 and 1807, and this office was filled for too brief a term to afford fair evidence of his latent powers.

The sinecure office which enabled him to collect his library was that of Chief Justice in Eyre, South of Trent, an important position in past times but which, when he held it, had become a nominal function disposed of as a reward of political partisanship. It was conferred upon Grenville in 1800, and he was its last incumbent. Established by William the Conqueror, it was finally abolished by Queen Victoria.

Of refined tastes, and a highly cultivated student, he spent his forty years of retirement from public life by devoting himself to book-buying and book-reading. In 1845 he wrote, "A great part of my Library has been purchased by the profits of a sinecure office given me by the Public." And in the same document he said, "I feel it to be a debt and a duty that I should acknowledge this obligation by giving the Library so acquired to the British Museum for the use of the Public."

He died on December 17, 1846; and on a dreary snowy day toward the close of February his books were received at the Museum Library. They numbered 20,240 volumes, comprising about 16,000 distinct works and cost the generous collector upward of £54,000. This was the most valuable collection that had ever been presented to the Museum, with the exception of the royal library of George III, presented in 1823.

For uniform beauty of condition and beauty of binding, it is probably, considering its size, without a rival. Grenville desired that every book in his collection should be in the finest possible condition. This wish he carried too far, for if any binding was in any way ragged or worn he proceeded to have it sumptuously bound with splendid covers and doubleurs by Charles Lewis, Hering, or other leading binders of the day. As a result he sacrificed many specimens of old work and evidences of former ownership.

XII

1. ALLIBONE, Samuel Austin (1816–1889)

Samuel Austin Allibone, as a young man, engaged in mercantile pursuits; but, his extreme conscientiousness seems to have stood in the way of his becoming prominent in the commercial world. At a comparatively early age he saw that the existing bibliographies of English literature failed to guide their readers to the best works. They recorded vast numbers of authors and their works but gave no indications as to which were the best.

In the Preface of his Critical Dictionary he says,

> Reading is that art by which I am enabled to avail myself of the recorded wisdom of mankind. But here a practical difficulty suggests itself. The multiplicity of books, even in my own language, renders a careful selection absolutely indispensable. It has been computed that of the 650,000(?) volumes in the English language, about 50,000 would repay a perusal! Suppose a person to read 100 pages a day, or 100 volumes a year, it would require 500 years to exhaust such a library! How important is it, then, to know what to read! And how shall this knowledge be obtained?

He made up his mind that the answer to this question was only to be found in the opinions of "a carefully prepared record of the opinions of great men upon great men" and that such opinions were the only safe guides for the uninstructed searcher after knowledge. It then became his ambition to furnish such a guide: a compilation containing a succinct biography of every author of note, a short account of what he wrote, and the views in brief of other men upon his writings.

He saw that literary reviews, bibliographies, biographical dictionaries, cyclopedias of English literature, and a host of other works of a similar character could furnish an answer to the questions he had propounded. He therefore made up his mind to devote his life to their examination and to embody the results of his researches in a Critical Dictionary of English Literature.

In giving a list of the works which he kept at his side while pursuing this tremendous task, he names Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica, which we have already considered. Of it he says:

> To this excellent work we are largely indebted, having drawn freely from its pages for particulars of editions, &c. Some late writers have affected to depreciate the value of this work, because inaccuracies have not escaped the eye of the critic. Having examined every article pertaining to British authors (about 25,000) in the work, we consider ourselves qualified to give an opinion [and who better?]. Errors there are, and some glaring ones, which can readily be excused in a work of such vast compass, yet the Bibliotheca of Dr. Watt will always deserve to be valued as one of the most stupendous literary monuments ever reared by the industry of man. As stated elsewhere, we have included in our work every British author noticed by Dr. Watt: yet his work can by no means be dispensed with by the bibliographer.

Such is the opinion of Watt's work given by one who without doubt gave it the most critical examination it ever received.

Allibone spent many years in accumulating his material, and nothing could exceed his thoroughness. His method was to include every author of repute, and many a writer of whom the world at large knows little or nothing. He gives correct biographical details. Where Watt in many cases gave only a line, Allibone gives a column. A character sketch is followed by a list of the author's works, with various editions of each book. A group of criticisms follows every important production, and a less number for works not so well known. Where conflicting opinions are found, he makes it a point to give more than one on each side. His exhaustive treatment is shown in his consideration of the great masters of our literature. To Shakespeare he gives 48 pages; Milton, 28; Scott, 7; Swift, 7; Spenser, 6; Wordsworth, 6; Byron, 5½; Bacon, 5; Hume and Gibbon, 4 each; Shelley, 3; Sidney, 2½; Chaucer, 2; Burns, 1½; and other authors in proportionate measure. American authors were also liberally treated. In all, the number of authors noticed is about 30,000—a far greater number of English writers than is included in any previous work. Some idea of the tremendous amount of information given may be realized when we consider that the work is printed in double columns of fine type and that a single volume contains more matter than 30 ordinary duodecimo volumes of 350 pages each.

In his Preface Allibone laid special stress upon "a copious index of subjects" which was to follow the general alphabet of authors. By the aid of this the inquirer would be enabled to turn to any author and find what he had written upon the subject he desired. Allibone thus promised to present the public with "a Comprehensive Manual of English Literature—authors and subjects—a Manual which is to the literature of the language what an ordinary dictionary is to the words of the language."

The expectations raised by this statement were shattered, when, on the completion of the Critical Dictionary, there were found to be 1,240 pages of names, names merely, divided under 40 separate subject headings. A list of some 280 subdivisions is given referring to the 40 general headings. For example, under "Rhymes" the searcher is referred to the index number 34, "Poetry." Turning to number 34 he is confronted with an alphabetical list of about 5,200 names—names remember, merely names without any information as to the period when the poet wrote or the school of poetry to which he belonged.

Allibone failed to make good the promise set out in his Preface, and the 1,240 pages of indexes which he predicted would "be to the literature of the language what an ordinary dictionary is to the words of the language" not only fell flat but raised a storm of ridicule which has not ceased to echo from the day it appeared in 1871 until the present time.

The anticlimax which followed a work that must ever be ranked as the product of a master mind has done rank injustice to Allibone, for his profound knowledge of English literature, due to his extensive reading and research as displayed in the Critical Dictionary, is encyclopedic. James Lenox, the founder of one of the best known of American libraries, recognized the profundity of his knowledge and put him, at the mature age of sixty-three, in charge of his library.

2. KIRK, John Foster (1824–1904), author, editor

The Critical Dictionary included works of English literature from its earliest dawn down to the latter half of the nineteenth century, and contained the names of over 46,000 authors. With the ever increasing rate of literary production, a supplement bringing the work down to a later date was considered necessary; consequently, John Foster Kirk, a well-known historian, took up the work where Allibone left it (A–O to 1850–58; P–Z to 1869) and brought out two supplementary volumes, bringing the subject down twenty years later, to 1891. The supplement contains more than half as many pages, though more condensed in form. It contains notices of 37,183 authors, or more than four-fifths as many as in Allibone's work. Kirk's work (though it contains nearly 7,500 critical extracts) lacks the thoroughness Allibone gave to this feature. Kirk's extracts are taken mainly from articles in leading weekly journals, and no quotations are made where references to articles are to be found in Poole's Index.

As nearly forty years have elapsed since Kirk published his work, it is extremely doubtful whether another supplement will ever be issued. The publication of the current issues of the press is now amply cared for by such works as Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, The H. W. Wilson firm's publications, The Publishers' Weekly, Trade List Annual, the numerous Who's Whos, and similar publications which keep book-lovers apprised of the current activities. Allibone's and Kirk's critical scheme has been carried out separately in Charles Wells Moulton's Library of Literary Criticism of English and American Authors, arranged chronologically, in eight volumes. An index volume, the ninth, contains an alphabetical list of authors followed by a similar list of the critics quoted and the works they criticized.

But the Critical Dictionary of Allibone and Kirk, notwithstanding advanced methods in bibliography, will ever be a standard work of reference that the scholar cannot dispense with. The work, however, is more literary than bibliographical.

XIII

CORSER, Thomas (1793–1876)

The Rev. Thomas Corser's name has already been mentioned in connection with the Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica (1815). During his collegiate days at Baliol College, Oxford, he came in contact with Henry Cotton (1789–1879) and Richard Heber (1773–1833); the latter, the famous book-collector, was a distant relative of his. From his intimacy with them sprang that love of English poetry and Elizabethan literature which was to become the distinguishing feature of his life. Ordained in 1817, after holding the curacy of Prestwich, he became incumbent of All Saints' Church, Stand, near Manchester, in 1826, and remained there for fifty years.

Though of limited resources he succeeded, according to Hazlitt, who was an excellent judge, in forming one of the richest collections of early English poetry ever formed by anyone. Such was its rarity that it contained many works not to be found even in the Heber Collection. He was enabled to effect this by purchases at several notable sales, such as those of Heber, Freeling, Chalmers, Bright, and others. He also benefited much through intelligent London dealers, especially Thomas Rodd, from whom he procured many of his rarities.

Corser was one of the founders of the Chetham Society and edited a few of its earliest publications. Between 1810 and 1870 there were several collectors who made their influence felt and by their competition sensibly raised the standard of prices for many classes of old English books; among these were Heber, Corser, Daniel, and Bright. This was particularly the case at the sale of the latter's library in 1844 and 1845, when Corser entered the lists against the British Museum. Then, as now, it was predicted that the formation of such libraries as Corser's, Daniel's, or Bright's would be a sheer impossibility from the absence of means to acquire so large a proportion of the rarer desiderata. But such predictions were not well founded. Then literary rarities were simply transferred from the possession of one private collector to that of another. The later bibliophiles who were intent upon forming collections for the purpose of founding public libraries had not then entered the field. The latter class of collectors, with unlimited means, entered the contest and succeeded in gaining possession of the very rarest books and locking them up beyond the possibility of future competition. Such collectors in this country were: John Carter Brown, James Lenox, J. Pierpont Morgan, Henry E. Huntington, H. C. Folger, and William L. Clements.

But to revert to Corser and his library and what he did to render it forever notable. About 1860 he submitted to the Chetham Society enough copy to form two parts of its publications. His object was, as he states it in the Introduction to the first part, > to collect together the scattered notices from various sources bearing upon the particular subject or Author; to correct in some instances the errors and mistakes made by former writers; to select the Volumes of less frequent occurrence; and to accompany the notices of them with Bibliographical and Biographical Illustrations, and with such extracts as, while they afford a fair specimen of each Author, may also possess interest either from their poetical excellence, from their reference to the writer's contemporaries and the manners of his time, or as shewing the progress of the language and the different schools of poetry which appeared in this country in the sixteenth and seventeenth Centuries.

Its plan was to be, with a few rare exceptions, like that of Collier's catalogue of a portion of the Bridgewater Library.

The Collectanea met with the approval of the Society, and Corser proceeded with the work until bodily infirmities put a stop to his labors. Alexander Balloch Grosart (1827–1899), a very competent critic, pronounced this work to be a model for works of their kind in which the utile and dulce are happily combined in an eminent degree. It is regrettable that Corser did not live to complete the work on the scale on which it was begun. Of the eleven parts, he only lived to see 50 pages of the fifth part (or third volume) printed. Fortunately he left sufficient material to carry on the series of authors and works included in his plan to the end of the alphabet, and to afford, beyond the completion of the third volume, three or four parts more, which would bring the work to its regular close. James Crossley (1800–1883), president of the Chetham Society at Corser's request shortly before his death, edited the remaining parts.

The work as published consists of eleven parts, paged and indexed to be bound in five volumes. They are however, usually found in parts as issued. Part 11 contains a General Table of Contents giving the prices realized for each volume noticed in the work at the sales of Corser's Library, which took place from July 28, 1868, to June 28, 1873. This affords a ready means of ascertaining whether any particular work is included in the Collectanea. At the end is a General Index of the entire five volumes. In Volume 3 the articles appear exactly as Corser left them except for an occasional correction of a name or date, or immaterial alteration of a phrase or word. Volumes 1–4 (Parts 1–8) take up the first letters of the alphabet (A—Myrroure for Magistrates), all after that being confined to the fifth and last volume. The work on a whole is more literary than bibliographical and contains copious extracts from the books noticed. Corser says that though the extracts in some cases appear longer than necessary it should be borne in mind that many of them are taken from books of great rarity and value and that the length of the quotations seemed to him essential to afford an accurate judgment of the style and characteristics of the author. At the end of each entry is given the location of other copies, references to sales in which the work has appeared, and a short collation.

XIV

1. BLADES, William (1824–1890), printer and bibliographer

William Blades, the son of a London printer, succeeded his father in his business. As a student of early printing he spent his leisure hours in the study of the productions of William Caxton, England's first printer, and to them devoted his most serious attention. In 1858 he first made known, in the Preface to his reprint of Caxton's Gouernayle of Helthe, his intention of publishing a history of Caxton and his works, as follows:

> From the commencement of the present century the typographical works of William Caxton have excited a steadily increasing interest, yet have they never been accurately and systematically described. To remedy in some degree this deficiency in our bibliography has been for a considerable period my ambition.

Three years later he brought out the first volume of his monumental work, The Life and Typography of William Caxton, England's First Printer, a more important work of its kind than any that had previously appeared in England. The second, and concluding, volume appeared in 1863. Its excellence was due, in no small measure, to his practical knowledge of the art of printing in all its minute details, a fact which enabled him to go to the very bottom of the subject. His work was illustrated with many facsimiles.

In working up this subject, he examined all the copies of Caxton's work to which he could gain access (and all owners were only too ready to give him assistance)—some 456 in number. These he collated, described, and arranged in chronological order.

In 1877 a condensed edition of the quarto work was issued in one volume. In this some alterations and additions rendered necessary by subsequent discoveries were incorporated. The date and sequence of many books were revised so that, upon the whole, this later volume was rather a new work than a new edition. A second edition of this was published in 1882 containing all the matter and all the plates of the previous octavo issue, with the addition of remarks upon the meaning and origin of Caxton's device, and upon his system of punctuation. This met with a wholly unexpected popularity. Blades also published other works; one Numismata Typographica (1883) is a work throwing an important side-light on many printers and printing offices in whose honor medals had been struck. His most popular book was The Enemies of Books (1880). Of this a second edition appeared the same year and a third in 1881. It has also been translated into French.

Blades's work as a whole is marked with accuracy and freedom from controversy. He was extremely liberal in his views and was as much interested and pleased in the discoveries and success of others as though they had been his own.

He was a great friend of Henry Bradshaw (1831–1886), the university librarian at Cambridge, who, like himself, was much interested in Caxton and printing in the Low Countries. Blades was always ready to acknowledge his obligation to Bradshaw. When the first two sheets of his Caxton were in type (in September 1860), he took them and the rest of his manuscript to Cambridge; and after dinner, over a bottle of wine in the college garden, he read to Bradshaw the whole of the historical portion of his book. The latter offered criticisms and suggestions, some of which are found in the second volume.

Bradshaw had an almost uncanny flair for locating out-of-the-way and hidden information, and it is to be regretted that Blades did not make use of all instead of a portion of the remarkable results of his friend's patient and accurate investigations. Later writers (De Ricci and Gordon-Duff), as we shall see later, have corrected his inaccuracies.

Blades performed a remarkable and lasting service to bibliography and helped immensely in making of it an exact science. His liberal use of facsimiles undoubtedly tended to make their use in bibliographical work more common. Thoroughness to an uncommon degree was the leading feature of his work. He was widely versed in the knowledge of other early printers, and it is most unfortunate that he did not give to the world the benefit of that knowledge.

His collection of works on printing (probably the finest of its kind formed by any one man) soon after his death formed the nucleus of the typographical library of St. Bride Foundation Institute, Fleet Street, London, where it has been available to the public ever since. In honor to his memory and on the centenary of his birth an exhibition of the personal copies of his writings was held from the fifth to the eleventh of December, 1894. At the same time a catalogue, produced by his sons and presented to the governors of St. Bride, was issued. Among the treasures in the collection is Blades's own copy of his great book, interleaved throughout and copiously annotated.

2. DE RICCI, Seymour

The work of Blades has been supplemented by the excellent Census of Caxtons, of Mr. de Ricci, which is one of the Illustrated Monographs (No. 15) of the Bibliographical Society. This work is based upon a personal examination of over 350 Caxtons in various parts of England and the Continent, as well as an exhaustive study of the works of previous bibliographers, including "above all, Blades's own copy of his great book interleaved throughout, copiously annotated, and now preserved at Saint Bride Foundation Institute in Fleet Street."

The hundred known works from Caxton's press are classified in the same order as in Mr. Gordon Duff's excellent book on Caxton, published by the Caxton Club at Chicago. First the Bruges books, then those from the Westminster press, each series being in alphabetical order.

Though De Ricci gives sales as a means of tracing the history of the copies he locates, he omits prices with the pertinent comment that "old prices are mere curiosities," as in the changing market they have little significance. De Ricci has gone so thoroughly into the various phases of his subject that there is hardly a question that can arise regarding a Caxton but can be answered somewhere in his pages.

3. DUFF, Edward Gordon (1863–1924)

Fifteenth Century English Books, Illustrated Monograph, No. 18, of the Bibliographical Society, should not be overlooked by the scholar seeking information regarding books printed by Caxton, as occasional copies are described in it not mentioned by De Ricci. Duff gives detailed collations, line-for-line transcripts of titles, and numerous facsimiles.

Within the scope of his work, Duff has probably left little for his successors to do. His knowledge of his period was complete, it had the authority of documents wherever possible, and it was freely offered to others. His accuracy, neatness in note-taking, and beautiful writing were the envy of his fellow-workers. Duff dedicated his Early Printed Books to the memory of Henry Bradshaw. It is sufficient to say that the disciple was worthy of his master.—Obituary Notice by Strickland Gibson.

XV

HAZLITT, William Carew (1834–1913), bibliographer and man of letters

William Carew Hazlitt was descended from a family of writers, as he has recorded in his Four Generations of a Literary Family. His grandfather was the celebrated essayist, critic, and sketcher of literary portraits. His father is best known as the editor of his father's works and from his numerous translations, most of which were published in the "Bohn Libraries." His great-grandfather published sermons and Unitarian tracts. It is not surprising that Carew Hazlitt, brought up in a literary atmosphere and with family traditions, early turned his attention to writing. His earliest work, in 1852 and 1853, was in co-operation with his father in the translations of Huc's Travels in Tartary and of the works of Napoleon III. Thereafter for a little over sixty years his pen was seldom if ever idle.

Soon after reading Smedley's Sketches from Venetian History, he became interested in its historical antiquities and in 1860 brought out his first work, A History of the Venetian Republic, in four volumes, octavo. This was unfavorably criticized in the Saturday Review (12:

149), but this did not dampen the spirits of the ambitious youth. His interest, however, turned toward things nearer home; and he produced and published several works on early English literature, especially of poetry, drama, and folk lore.

But it is his work as a bibliographer by which he will in all probability be best and longest known, a pursuit which threw him in contact with the most eminent book-collectors and dealers of his day. Fortunately we are able to follow his career better than that of most others in the autobiographical reminiscences he has left behind him in his Four Generations, above referred to, and in his interesting Confessions of a Collector (1897).

Hazlitt's family and those connected with it were book-lovers and surrounded themselves not only with their own writings but with such other books as they were able to purchase. "Books [he says], as they were my father's only, and my uncle's [Mr. Reynell's] chief, paramours, were my first love."

As a lover of early English literature, he soon discovered that the guides to it were not all that could be desired. On the one hand were Dibdin, Brydges, Park, Beloe, Hartshorne, and Lowndes, the Herber auction catalogues, and others. On the other hand Herbert's Ames, Ritson's Bibliographica Poetica, and Collier's Bibliographical Catalogue, soon to be followed by Corser's Collectanea Anglo-Poetica—two sets of sources of information but both not fully satisfactory. The shortcomings of these led him to consider the "practicability of improving our bibliographical system, and placing it on a broader and sounder basis." Accordingly, about 1858 he began to gather material with this purpose in view. During the nine years following he amassed material enough to go to press and brought out his Hand-Book to the Popular, Poetical, and Dramatic Literature of Great Britain, From the Invention of Printing to the Restoration. This work of 701 pages contains records of some 9,000 books. Of these some 5,000 "unique or nearly unique volumes are set down from the examination of the originals by myself." The remainder, consisting of a large number of early English books of the first rarity, were furnished him by "Oxford and Cambridge gentlemen whose precision [he says] I have no ground to doubt." This faith in the accuracy of the transcriptions and descriptions, so received, as we shall see afterward, caused him no small amount of extra labor.

Another interval of nine years passed during which Hazlitt continued to collect material, and in 1876 he brought out a second volume: Collections and Notes; 1867–1876. This is a volume of 498 pages and contains about 6,500 items. The unreliability of the descriptions furnished him by others caused him to rely more fully upon his own investigations and to re-write, with the book in hand, such faulty ones as he had discovered. These he incorporated in this and succeeding volumes as they came to his attention. In no case did he repeat from the Hand-Book unless in way of correction. "Not a single line of the Hand-Book [says he] has been reprinted totidem verbis, as such a proceeding would have been an unwarranted encroachment on the rights of the proprietor of that work." He had come to question "secondary authorities, all more or less treacherous—(1) transcribers, (2) earlier bibliographical publications, (3) catalogues." The adoption of titles and collation already done proved to be "no economy of labour in the long run, as the whole ground has had to be traversed again, and the articles to be re-written with the volumes themselves before me."

An interval of six years next followed during which Hazlitt continued his incessant researches. In 1882 appeared the Second Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes on Early English Literature; 1474–1700, a volume of 717 pages and containing descriptions of about 9,500 volumes. In the Preface he refers to the Hand-Book. After fifteen years "I must say [he says] that I continue to regard [it] without shame and without regret"; notwithstanding its shortcomings a very marked proportion consisted of titles and collations drawn from the fountain-head, and after all deductions the residuum of sound matter was creditably large. These he places at 5,000 items.

> Perceiving that the policy by which I had adopted information from other works was false, and that progress made in that way was worse than specious, I resolved thenceforward to construct my bibliographical edifice on the only sure and enduring foundation—to catalogue each book with the book under my eyes.

This was the new doctrine and experiment which was followed in the production of the previous volume (1876) and of the Second Series.

The Hand-Book professed to confine itself to certain sections of early English literature. As his work progressed, Hazlitt saw the advisability of including in it the whole field excepting > mere sermons and the technicalities of controversial theology. . . . . From aspiring at first to gather into my hands an account of such works only as belonged to Early English poetry and folklore, I became by degrees the possessor of an imposing and proud assemblage of Descriptive Notes, comprising (so far as our own literature goes) every branch of human learning, and all the shades and forms which speculation and thought have taken through ages. . . . . My design, in fact, in its more catholic aspect, as it presents itself in the Bibliographical Collections and Notes, 1876, exhausts nearly the entire domain of literature and science.

Such was the broadened view which Hazlitt had attained by that date and which marks his later and continuous efforts.

In summing up what he had accomplished by 1882, without considering the Hand-Book, he says:

The two books [Collections and Notes (1876) and Second Series (1882)] comprehend about 16,000 separate entries, gathered together at intervals from a great variety of sources, and often under difficult circumstances, but, I hope, in all cases with fidelity and success; and if we add 5,000 for the portion of the Handbook of 1867, catalogued on the same plan, and therefore presumably of permanent worth, we arrive at a total of 21,000 orthodox titles. These will strike any person of experience as rather big figures. No volumes, indeed, in our own language, or probably in any other, afford an equal body of information on what in any country should be considered a subject of national dignity and concernment.

In 1887, after another interval of five years he brought out the Third and Final Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes. This volume contained 315 pages and records some 4,000 books. As Hazlitt progressed with his work, the new material he found to add to his series naturally grew less and more difficult to find. The later volumes, too, appeared at more frequent intervals, and so the volumes became thinner and thinner. But his enthusiasm and pertinacity continued; and though the title of this volume called it the "Final Series," three more volumes were to appear before the work had been so far completed that he was ready to lay down his pen and give up the chase.

The multiplication of alphabets had by this time become such an objection to the consulter, and the value of the work had met with such recognition, that Hazlitt was able to announce that the preparation of a general index had been undertaken by Mr. Gray of Cambridge. In his Preface he briefly stated the sources which had been made use of in compiling this great work. They consisted of bibliographical works already in print. He had incorporated (1), generally with additions and corrections, nearly the whole of the Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica; Corser's Collectanea; and the British Museum Catalogue of Books Printed to 1640; the Typographical Antiquities of Ames, Herbert, and Dibdin; the Chatsworth, Huth, and Ashburnham collections; and the various publications of Haslewood, Park, Utterson, and Collier. (2) He had, since 1882, gone through the books of several celebrated collections before they had been dispersed under the hammer, and in addition had inserted items previously overlooked. In reviewing the material he had recorded, he called attention to its great importance. The Collections possess interest for English speakers throughout the world. He says:

> For they are rich in historical, political, social, and literary illustrations of every kind. They are monumental records of the life of the past. They are the legacies of thousands of intelligent human beings, who were to their century what we try to be to ours—contributing factors to its improvement, instruction, and pleasure.

He goes on to say:

> The strength of this and the three companion volumes lies, however, after all, not in the registration of first-rate works and standard authors of the past, but in the classified assortment of about five and twenty thousand articles belonging to all branches of literature, science, and art, under the names of writers, or, where they are anonymous, under the subject or the locality with which they happen in each case to be connected.

His aim was > to furnish the reader or consulter with something more than the bare title of a book in all instances where I perceived the matter of special interest in the preface or the dedications, or the body of the volume; and even if the circumstances did not necessitate such a course, I have laid before the public the full particulars from the work itself, and not, as is generally done, an abbreviated text of it. The cogency of resorting to originals in all instances has grown upon me more and more; and the difference between a bibliographical account of any given production with that production lying before you, and an account borrowed, and perhaps spoiled in the loan, is wider than the difference between the Portland Vase and the cheapest replica of it, since in the former case the original lines, the ipsissima verba, are lost.

The Third and Final Series, fortunately for students of early English literature, was not the last but was succeeded by the results of still further researches. Had Hazlitt stopped here, we should be the poorer by about 10,000 titles. From long years of research and experience he was unable to discontinue the habit of recording any new trouvaille. In 1889, two years later, he put forth Supplements to the Third and Final Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes: 1474–1700. He gives as a reason for adding this to his series the generous offer of Mr. J. G. Gray, of Cambridge, to prepare a general index to his bibliographical works. This volume of 181 pages, describing approximately 2,400 new titles, was the result of stray relics cropping out, the going-over of previous publications, and including such as he had not already added.

Three years later, in 1892, owing to the unexpected delay of Mr. Gray in completing the index, Hazlitt brought out Bibliographical Collections and Notes (1474–1700) Third and Final Series. Second Supplement. In this we have 106 pages, adding to previous records some 1,300 new items. These additions were due to his examination of several large and important libraries not previously available, and the usual examination and habitual recording of the constant stream of books which from season to season passed through the London book-auction rooms, especially those of Sotheby, Wilkinson, and Hodge. Hazlitt takes occasion in his Preface here, as in former ones, to animadvert upon the narrowness and lack of public spirit which kept the owners of private collections, and of public libraries even, from permitting him to examine and record certain rare books which he knew were in their possession.

The following year, 1893, appeared A General Index to Hazlitt's Handbook and His Bibliographical Collections (1867–1889) By G. J. Gray; Edited by W. Carew Hazlitt. Of this bulky volume, 841 pages, printed in double columns, comprise the Index; and the following pages (843–866) contain some 300 new titles, unfortunately, not included in the Index.

This work contains, in a single alphabet, references not only to the Hand-book and Collections and Notes 1876, 1882, and 1887, Supplements to the Third Series; but, also to Volume 20 (1889) of The Antiquary, to which Hazlitt contributed some titles, apparently with the idea that he was not going to continue further his series of Collections and Notes. But the habits of a lifetime are not so easily dropped.

In 1903 he published Bibliographical Collections and Notes of Early English Literature Made during the Years 1893–1903. This is a volume of 446 pages, containing about 5,800 new titles and, as usual, in two alphabets—the main one followed by an addenda (pp. 422–446).

This was Hazlitt's last contribution to the bibliography of early English literature. For forty-five years he had persistently and unweariedly sought for and recorded every volume that fell within the scope of his great plan to make a "New Bibliography of Early English Literature." He carried this through single-handed and at his own expense. At last the time had arrived when he was obliged to confess:

"I cannot afford to spend any more money in printing my labours, and as I live in England, and not in Germany or Russia, it is useless to expect help from the Government even for a purpose of so national a character and compass." This was not the first time he had bewailed the lack of support from this quarter. For, in his Four Generations of a Literary Family (2:77), he says:

> This is the only civilized country in the world in which an undertaking of national magnitude would have been permitted to devolve on an individual of slender means, and where he would have found himself reduced to the necessity of printing his Collections at a pecuniary sacrifice. I have at last [1897] six volumes in type, and I add to my manuscript accumulations day by day; it is my ambition to consolidate the whole in one alphabet, and to enable Great Britain to point to such a work of reference and authority as no other European literature can boast of possessing. This is a part of my habitual employment, yet only a part—a small one.

On his death it was found that when the reversion of his estate fell to the trustees of the British Museum it was to be employed to produce the consolidated edition he had in mind. But, owing to the outbreak of the World War, the trustees have been unable to carry out his wishes in the matter.

We must here leave further consideration of the matter. In giving an account of Hazlitt and his stupendous task, we have, wherever possible, permitted him to tell it in his own language. It will be seen that he has left an imperishable monument to his memory that can only win the admiration of everyone who realizes his high ambition and unwearied efforts. But for his various prefaces, his Confessions of a Collector, and his Four Generations of a Literary Family, which abound in autobiographical matter and to which we refer all who desire to learn more of his extensive association with book-collectors, literary men, and libraries, we should be unable to appreciate the self-sacrificing and patriotic character of William Carew Hazlitt.

XVI

DYCE, Alexander (1798–1869)

The Rev. Alexander Dyce, an English dramatic editor and literary historian, was born in Edinburgh, educated there and at Exeter College, Oxford, and at the insistence of his father took holy orders, served two curacies, and in 1827 settled in London. He was a bachelor and lived at Gray's Inn. In 1840, associated with Halliwell-Phillips, John Payne Collier, and Thomas Wright, he was one of the founders of the Percy Society, for publishing old English poetry. In 1843 he edited a couple of its publications. The long friendship between him and Collier came to an end when in 1859 he issued his Strictures on Mr. Collier's New Edition of Shakespeare. Among the works of the early English drama he edited were those of Marlowe, Greene, and Peele, the three great dramatists who as much excelled their immediate predecessors as they were themselves surpassed by Shakespeare. The extensive reading, untiring industry, and familiarity of Dyce with the works of that period, together with his knowledge of the language and customs of Shakespeare's day, was perhaps greater than that of any contemporary critic. His aim was to restore the original language of these authors rather than of amending them, as was too often the practice of other scholars.

He brought out his first edition of Shakespeare in 1857, followed by a second in 1866–1867. As Shakespearean commentator he has been excelled by none. "Very few have equalled him, in the felicitous application, from a remarkably wide range of reading, of identical or analogous phrases and words to the settlement of lines in dispute."

Dyce had a warm friend in Heber, the celebrated book-collector who greatly aided him by freely placing at his disposal the means of completing his texts of the early dramatists and poets, original copies of whose works are often nowhere else to be found. Thomas Rodd, one of the best-informed dealers in old books, rendered invaluable service to Dyce in aiding him to build up a library, rich in rare and early editions of the Elizabethan dramatists. For Dyce, as every other literary worker, found it important to be the possessor of the volumes he needed to use in his critical studies. As a consequence he ended by forming a very valuable library. This had assumed such proportions that when he left Gray's Inn Square (No. 9) in 1859 > the books that lined every wall had overflowed into all the nooks and crannies in the passages; where, within deal chests and drawers of a marvellous ungainliness, were concealed drawings and engravings of supreme beauty by the earliest and rarest masters; and where treasures of editions that would have deprived a bibliomaniac of his last remaining vestige of reason, were hidden away from all eyes including his own. He often went to the British Museum to consult a rare book, which it would have taken him too much time to dig out of his own recesses. After quitting Gray's Inn he lived until his death in 33 Oxford Terrace.

>
> The groups of books most prominent, in more than one literature, are the dramatic; and the range of English production in this field is extraordinarily wide, taking in every variety of stage-play as well as of the higher drama, down to the opening of the present [the nineteenth] century.

His library, which he had intended to bequeath to the Bodleian, at the suggestion of his friends, he left to the South Kensington Museum by his will executed only two months before his death, May 15, 1869. In it he provided that it was to be a library for reference and instruction and that no books were to be lent or removed.

As we have already seen, the bibliographer of the present day more and more bases his work upon the books themselves. Hazlitt searched for his material in public libraries, private collections, and delved among the books in auction rooms. In 1875 the South Kensington Museum issued a Catalogue of the Printed Books and Manuscripts Bequeathed by the Reverend Alexander Dyce, in two volumes, containing nearly 10,000 titles and considerably more volumes. This is prefaced by an appreciative biographical sketch by his friend and contemporary John Forster, who also left his valuable library to the South Kensington Museum.

XVII

HUTH, HENRY (1815–1878), merchant-banker and bibliophile

Henry Huth, one of the most successful book-collectors of the latter part of the nineteenth century, is best known through the writings of William Carew Hazlitt. He began while a schoolboy to spend his spare pocket-money for books. Later, during the sixteen years when business engagements took him to Germany, New York, Mexico, South America, and again to Germany, he only bought irregularly. It was only when he rejoined his father's firm in 1849 that he began to buy methodically. He was a modest and most unassuming man—cultured and a master of several languages. Tracing his descent through German and Spanish lines (his mother was a native of Spain), he was naturally interested in the literatures of their countries, especially of Spanish romances. Being a very rich man and of catholic tastes, he confined his collecting to no particular class of books but insisted that each purchase should be perfect and in good condition, qualities which he determined for himself, as no book was permitted to become a part of his collection until he had collated it and found that it fully answered his conditions. His success in this field, as in business, he once explained by saying: "We do not profess to be cleverer than other folks; but we get up earlier in the morning."

He did not begin buying on an extensive scale until between 1854 and 1870. His purchases were selected rather on account of condition and interest than with a view of completeness. His library, varied as it was in character, was especially rich in voyages, Shakespeareana, and early English literature, and in early Spanish and German works. Of Bibles he had every edition prized by collectors, and his manuscripts and prints were among the most beautiful of their kind. He had his strong preferences; anything by Wither or Quarles he was sure to buy. Many of his rarities came from the most important auction sales of his day, such as the Utterson, Hawtrey, Gardner, Smith, Slade, Perkins, and Tite; and he bought largely at the Daniel and Corser sales.

While Hazlitt was collecting material for his Hand-Book in 1866, he wrote to Huth asking for the title and collation of a unique book in his hands. In reply Huth gave him the desired information and told him that when in town he was always at home on Sunday afternoons. It was his custom to set aside that time for the visits of such bibliographical friends as wished to see his books. From this incident arose an intimacy which lasted for ten years and was to their mutual advantage. It was instrumental on Hazlitt's part in aiding him to inaugurate his new bibliographical system, and on that of Mr. Huth in taking advantage of Hazlitt's close touch with the auction rooms and private dealers and the value of books as they came into the market. As a result Hazlitt was the means of Huth's adding largely to his collection. But for Hazlitt the Huth collection would have missed many undeniably desirable and almost unique items. In this respect Huth was especially blessed.

Toward the end of his life Huth engaged Hazlitt and F. S. Ellis, the bookseller, to prepare a catalogue of his library. An unfortunate misunderstanding regarding the mode in which Huth conducted the editorship of the catalogue caused a coolness to spring up between them, and the catalogue was later carried on by Ellis with the aid of Mr. Huth's son, Alfred Henry Huth (1850–1910). This catalogue, completed in 1880, set a new standard in catalogues of private collections. It is a permanent record of the Huth library as its founder left it.

On the death of Mr. Huth the library passed into the hands of his son, who was most liberal in permitting its volumes to be used by students. On his death in 1910 it was found that he had, by his will, directed that the trustees of the British Museum, before any sale of the library should take place, should be permitted to select any 50 volumes of which duplicates were not already in the Museum's library. Such a choice was made, and its importance may be realized when its principal librarian reported that this accession to the Library was "beyond doubt the most important gift that has been made to the library . . . . since the bequest of the Grenville Library in 1846." (Thomas Grenville [1755–1846], the donor, had left to it some 20,000 volumes, the result of nearly fifty years of collecting. His library was the most valuable collection which up to that time had ever been donated to the British Museum.)

The Huth library, after the son's bequest had been taken from it, was sold in nine sales from 1911 to 1920, and realized, before the days of frenzied prices which have prevailed since then, £278,498 and 6 pence (about $1,392,490), as compared with $1,932,056.60 brought at the Hoe sales, 1911–1912, in which the competition of Mr. Huntington carried many items to the record prices of that day.

XVIII

BRITISH MUSEUM

In 1884 the trustees of the British Museum published a catalogue of books printed in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and of books in the English language printed abroad to the year 1640. This work was an important departure and a great step forward in the bibliography of English literature—important, because for the first time it attempted to restrict the subject within workable limits. Previously, as we have seen, bibliographers had chosen subjects without much consideration of time limits and bibliographical method. Leland and Bale's work was largely a mere enumeration of writers and was compiled before the grant of the charter to the Stationer's Company in July, 1557.

Anthony Wood's catalogue was restricted to writers who had been educated at Oxford. Ames, Herbert, and Dibdin only included works printed to 1600; Baker, Reed, and Jones dealt only with plays. Ritson confined himself to the works of the English poets. Brydges, more catholic in his tastes, dealt with the titles, abstracts, and opinions of old English books generally.

The Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica, or catalogue of Thomas Hill's collection, as its title indicated, like Ritson's included only poetical works. Watt, more general than any of his predecessors, embraced the whole scope and period of our literature, including works printed on the Continent, and formed a basis upon which Allibone grounded his later work. Lowndes and Bohn's edition, like Watt's, dealt primarily with the rare, curious, and useful books relating to Great Britain and Ireland. Allibone followed somewhat the line laid out by Brydges, in paying great attention to literary criticism and to the evaluation of the books he enumerates. Corser confined himself to English poetry, and his descriptions are largely accompanied with extracts and criticisms, he himself being no mean critic. Blades, himself a master-printer, studied the works of Caxton from a typographical standpoint. The Dyce Collection, like the Huth, is valuable to the bibliographer of English literature for the many early English books it contains.

The British Museum's Catalogue of Books Printed down to and including 1640 took up the subject from a new standpoint, and by restricting itself within a particular period made it possible to treat it exhaustively. Its example was followed by later works, as we shall see, and has finally culminated in the Short-Title Catalogue of the Bibliographical Society.

It is arranged in a single alphabet by authors, with numerous references, especially from the initials under which works were published to the names of authors when known. A second alphabet of works of music, comprising only 10 pages, is quite liable to be overlooked. It would have been better if its items had been included in the general alphabetical arrangement and the subject set out in the Index.

Search for material included is very much aided by the two indexes. The first of these is a list of titles, each being followed by its date and the name or initials under which the full description may be found. Interspersed through this are a number of subject headings as "Ballads," "Bible," "Dictionaries," "England," "Liturgies," "Plague," "Plays," "Poems," "Voyages and Travels," "Witches and Witchcraft," etc. As the titles included under these headings do not always appear in the main alphabet, they are liable to be overlooked, especially as no notice of their existence is anywhere indicated.

The second, an Index of Printers, indicates booksellers and stationers. It gives their names, the inclusive dates during which they were in business, after which appear the names (only) of the headings under which appear the works with which they had to do.

This catalogue was an important work for its day and is not yet entirely superseded by the Short-Title Catalogue of the Bibliographical Society, nor will it be until the second part has appeared.

XIX

STEPHEN, Sir Leslie (1832–1904), and LEE, Sir Sydney (1859–1926)

Anyone who has had occasion to consult the Dictionary of National Biography (26 vols.; 1908–1912), edited by Leslie Stephen and Sidney Lee, cannot fail to have been struck with the stupendous amount of research required to collect the material it contains and its exhaustive character. It surpasses all other encyclopedias of national biography, not only in the number and importance of the names recorded but in the fulness and accuracy of its literary criticism and bibliographical details. Its excellence in these respects was largely due to the fact that the resources of the largest national library in the world, the university libraries of Oxford and Cambridge, and other large libraries of Great Britain were within easy reach of its contributors and that they made full use of their great opportunity.

This work was originally issued in 63 volumes. The first volume appeared January 1, 1885, and a volume appeared on each successive quarter-day for fifteen years until the completion of the work in midsummer, 1900. The last volume was soon followed by the first supplement in 3 volumes, containing 1,000 articles of which more than 200 represented accidental omissions in the previously issued volumes.

This was followed in 1903 by an Index and Epitome of the Dictionary and First Supplement in a single volume of 1,464 pages on thin paper.

A second supplement, containing 1,660 names, appeared in 1912. This was followed the next year by an Index and Epitome.

In 1908–1909 the original work (63 volumes) was reissued on thin paper in 21 volumes, or three volumes in one.

As at present issued, the entire work comprises four alphabetical series:

1. The D. N. B. original issue, containing obituaries from the earliest times to the dates of publication (1885–1900).
2. Supplement containing additional obituaries, mostly 1885–1900.
3. The Twentieth Century D. N. B. Obituaries 1901–1911.
4. The Twentieth Century D. N. B. Obituaries 1912–1921.

The year of death is therefore the necessary clue to the whereabouts of a memoir in the Dictionary.

The Index and Epitome has been reissued and brought down to 1921 as The Concise Dictionary From the Beginnings to 1921. This is an Epitome of the Main Work and its Supplement, to which is added an Epitome of the Twentieth Century volumes covering 1901–1921. "Generally speaking, each entry in the Index and Epitome consists of one-fourteenth of the number of words that appear in the text of the original memoir."

For comprehensiveness of its biographical details, soundness of literary criticism, and the amount of bibliographical information this work contains, no other single work is for a moment to be compared with it.

The accuracy of the bibliographical information it contains is vouched for by the fact that, as we are told, the "Officials of the British Museum, of the Bodleian and Cambridge University Libraries, and of the Inns of Court, as well as the librarians in all parts of the United Kingdom" have aided in this work.

It is obvious that, with the exhaustive research made to gather the information contained in this work, many obscure sources were consulted, and the results so obtained can only be found here without an unnecessary duplication of effort. Fortunately a list of the sources consulted follows each life and affords a means of verification.

XX

SINKER, Robert (1838–)

In 1876 Robert Sinker, then librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge, published a Catalogue of Fifteenth Century Books in that library. In 1885 he issued a catalogue of the English Books Printed before 1601 in the same library. Coming so soon after that of the British Museum, the year before, and covering a portion of the same ground, we are naturally curious to learn what, if any, connection there may have been between these two catalogues. The idea of a catalogue of all the English books in the British Museum printed before 1640 is believed to have originated in a proposal to the trustees made by Mr. George Bullen (1816–1894), keeper of the printed books, in 1878. The subject had been one of general discussion for a considerable time, and Sinker was no doubt influenced by it to undertake his catalogue. He refers to the British Museum catalogue in his Preface and says that it "unfortunately, did not appear till the greater part of [his own work] had been printed."

The two works are entirely different in plan, scope, and arrangement. Books are grouped by Sinker under towns and printers in chronological order, instead of alphabetically by authors, etc. The time covered stops short at 1601 instead of 1640. The term "English books" is given a wider meaning than in the British Museum catalogue. Sinker includes "(1) all books, in whatsoever language, printed in England (or Scotland); (2) books in the English language printed abroad; and (3) books printed abroad, which, though not in the English language, have a distinct connection with the English Church, history, or literature."

Sinker, like Hazlitt realized the importance of giving a full collation by signature marks, the words "folio", "quarto," "octavo," etc., being used for form rather than size, as a means of identifying a book. References are made to Herbert's edition of Ames, Dibdin, the Grenville catalogue, Huth, and the British Museum catalogue. Many of the entries are followed by original notes, many of them of great interest. There are indexes of (1) towns, (2) printers, etc., and (3) of books; the last necessitated by the arrangement of the books by towns and printers. The final index of donors is purely of local interest. Each entry is preceded by the shelf-number of the book described.

This catalogue as a whole deserves the highest praise for its minute accuracy and scholarly thoroughness.

XX*a*

EDMOND, John Philip (1850–1906)

John Philip Edmond, the author of several important bibliographies and catalogues, was held in high esteem for the thoroughness and accuracy of his work. Only a few weeks before his death he was elected president of the Edinburgh Bibliographical Society.

Born in Aberdeen, on leaving school he entered his father's publishing and bookbinding establishment and remained there for several years. He thus acquired a knowledge of books from a typographical standpoint which was to prove of great value to him, when, later in life he became a librarian and bibliographer.

In 1889, at the age of thirty-nine, he went to London, having been appointed assistant librarian of Sion College. While occupying this position, which he held for two years, he rearranged the library of nearly 100,000 volumes according to a scheme of classification devised by the Rev. W. H. Milman.

In 1891 he was chosen by the Earl of Crawford to take charge of his library at Haigh Hall, Wigan, a position he held until 1901. During his incumbency he did much by his judicious purchases to build up the already famous "Bibliotheca Lindesiana." Previous to taking charge of the library at Haigh Hall he had edited and seen through the press, for Lord Crawford, the Catalogue of English Ballads of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries in his library.

During the thirteen years of his librarianship, he reclassified the library according to Dewey's decimal classification and began work upon a general catalogue of its printed books and broadsides, which was nearly ready for publication at the time of his death. He issued several catalogues of its special collections: Chinese Books and Manuscripts (1895), English Broadsides, 1505–1897 (1898), English Newspapers, 1641–1666 (1901), etc.

In 1904 he was appointed librarian to the Society of Writers to his Majesty's Signet, Edinburgh, made vacant by the death of Dr. T. Graves Law.

Before he left Aberdeen, he had made a name for himself among bibliographers by his Aberdeen Printers (1886), which remains to this day a model of what a special bibliography should be. In 1884 he collaborated with Dr. Robert Dickson and produced The Annals of Scottish Printing, for the second part of which he was solely responsible as well as for the editorship of the entire work.

He contributed many review notices for catalogues and other works in the early volumes of The Library. It was at his suggestion that the Crawford collection of manuscripts was offered to Mrs. Rylands and purchased by her to enhance the fame of her already magnificent foundation in Manchester.

Edmond's Aberdeen Printers is divided into two parts. The first, divided into four chapters, is devoted to "Historical Notices" of (1) Edward Raban, (2) James Brown, (3) John Forbes and John Forbes, younger, and (4) James Nicol. These are followed by "Bibliographical Notices," to which are appended "Bibliographical Additions and Corrections." Considering that the work was published forty-three years ago, it was quite in advance of its time, and its descriptions may well serve as models for the bibliographer of the present day.

XXI

LOCKER-LAMPSON, Frederick (1821–1895)

Frederick Locker-Lampson, poet, philosopher, and man of the world, was an alert and enthusiastic collector of early English literature. Into his collection were drawn a number of the Shakespeare quartos. In 1886 he published a catalogue of his printed books, manuscripts, etc., which was embellished with a frontispiece by George Cruikshank and two poems by Andrew Lang. In 1900, after his death, his son, Godfrey Lampson Tennyson Locker-Lampson (1875–), issued an Appendix to the Catalogue of the Books, etc., collected since the printing of the first catalogue. This too contained a frontispiece, a view of Rowfant, and poems by Andrew Lang and others. These two volumes are entered here because they contain collations and notes concerning many rare little volumes of poetry and drama, published from about 1590 to 1610. "All the English books, plays, poems, from Shakespeare's time downwards, the bare names of which," says Augustine Birrell, his son-in-law, in his Character Sketch, "tug at the heart-strings, irradiate thought, and enliven fancy."

I am not aware that I am betraying any confidence in remarking that the catalogue of 1886 was an early, if not the first, work of one whose name now stands foremost among English bibliographers—Alfred William Pollard—who even then showed a remarkable familiarity with English bibliography.

XXI*a*

DICKSON, Robert (1828–), and EDMOND, John Philip (1850–1906)

Dr. Dickson, in 1876–1878, contributed a series of articles to the Printers Register under the title "Early Scottish Typography." These were brought to an abrupt end by failing health. They have been incorporated by Edmond in The Annals of Scottish Printing and extend from the commencement of the work to the end of the twentieth chapter. Extracts have also been made from Dr. Dickson's later works: Who Was Scotland's First Printer (1881) and Introduction of the Art of Printing into Scotland (1885).

The work of Edmond on the first twenty chapters (pp. 1–272) was therefore mainly editorial. For the remainder of the work (pp. 273–513) he acknowledges himself wholly responsible. Mr. Edmond, being for several years a practical printer, brought the experience thus acquired into full play in this work. The book opens with a short account of previous writers on the subject. None of these, not excepting Dr. David Laing, who was the best qualified to write on the subject, ever gave more than a fragmentary contribution to the subject. To Dr. Dickson and especially to Mr. Edmond is due the honor of being the first to give anything like a connected and accurate account of the progress of typography in their native country.

An instructive paper entitled "Notes on Early Printing in Scotland, 1507–1600," by J. T. Clark, keeper of the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh, was read at the Third Annual Meeting of the Library Association of the United Kingdom (Transactions, pp. 22–29). In closing, the writer says:

> There is one thing specially worthy of notice with regard to these products of the early Scottish press—that is, the entire disappearance of some and the almost entire disappearance of others, and that notwithstanding the largeness of the impression.

He then mentions (p. 28) the titles of several works printed in editions of from 300 to 1034 of which no copies have survived.

The absolute accuracy and wealth of detail given in this volume leaves nothing to be desired that can reasonably be asked of its compilers.

Edmond's thoroughness and accuracy did not permit him to leave the work as published. He gave additions and corrections in his Bibliographical Gleanings (1890–1893) and in the Papers of the Edinburgh Bibliographical Society (1890–1895, No. 17, p. 12, October, 1894). Aldis, in his Books Printed in Scotland before 1700, published in 1904, says: "It is a noteworthy tribute to this work [The Annals], that since its publication in 1890, only 30 additions have been made to the number of books recorded in it."

XXII

GROLIER CLUB (New York, founded 1884)

The Grolier Club was founded for the study and promotion of the arts pertaining to the production of books, including the occasional publication of books designed to illustrate, promote, and encourage those arts. Within the first decade of its existence it brought out the first distinctively bibliographical catalogue of English literature published in America. This volume, a catalogue of early and original editions of English writers from Langland to Wither, grew out of an exhibition held at the Club in the spring of 1893. Most of the books described in it were the property of its members. It excludes theological and dramatic works. The editions consisted of 403 copies.

This is the earliest catalogue issued in America that gives full collations and descriptions, with facsimiles of a number of the most valuable and scarcest works. It does not claim to be in any way exhaustive, though care was taken not to omit any author of note.

The collations, which form a distinctive feature of the work, were made by members of a committee of the Club from a personal examination of the copies described, and, whenever possible, were compared with two or more other copies. They were then compared with the collations of the same works by Collier, Corser, Hazlitt, Huth, and Locker-Lampson; and whenever differences were found, they were noted.

The result is that here we have a work of great merit, a pioneer in its field, and one of which American bibliographers may well feel proud. Unfortunately, only a limited number of works, 272, are described; but it sets up a standard of carefulness and accuracy well worthy of being followed.

XXIII

JOHN RYLANDS LIBRARY

The John Rylands Library was founded by the widow of John Rylands, a wealthy merchant and manufacturer of Manchester, England, who died in 1888. The following year Mrs. Rylands began collecting standard works in all branches of literature, and in 1890 she proceeded to erect the beautiful building which now contains the library. In 1892 she purchased the famous Althorp Library from Lord Spencer, which, although but a small part of the present library, is admittedly one of its most important parts. It contains upward of 3,000 volumes printed before the year 1501, illustrating, by the very rarest examples from numerous presses, the art of printing as it was developed throughout Europe.

But its collection of early English books in which we are more interested was no less important. Of its 60 genuine Caxtons, 36 are perfect, 4 being unique. Of the books from the presses of the later printers, Wynkyn de Worde, Lettou, Machlinia, Pynson, Julian Notary, and the Schoolmaster of St. Albans, there are many examples. Its collection of Bibles in English is extensive, beginning with two copies of Tyndale's revised New Testament printed at Antwerp in 1534, and the octavo edition of 1536, "yet once agayne corrected."

Its entire collection of books printed in English appears in the catalogue prepared by Edward Gordon Duff, its first librarian, and a most distinguished bibliographer. His studies were confined mainly to books in English from 1476 to 1557—from the first book printed in the English language down to the organization of the Stationers' Company.

We shall again encounter Duff when we come to consider the publications of the Bibliographical Society.

XXIV

MADAN, Falconer (1851–)

Falconer Madan, Bodley's librarian from 1912 until 1919, and fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford, has produced some of the most characteristic work in English bibliography. Previous to his appointment as librarian to succeed Edward William Byron Nicholson (1849–1912) he had served under his predecessor for thirty years. Nicholson, as a librarian, was noted for the particular attention he paid to details. This is illustrated to an amusing extent in his Staff Manual. He was a great librarian, for he revivified the Bodleian to very great extent. Madan, profiting by his training, when he became Nicholson's successor carried out the latter's methods no less efficiently but perhaps with more suavity.

Mr. Madan, in addition to his duties as Bodley's librarian, is noted for his careful work as a bibliographer. In 1889, three years before the organization of the Bibliographical Society, he began work on his Early Oxford Press; a Bibliography of Printing and Publishing at Oxford "1468"–1640. Progress on this had advanced so far that at the Society's meeting on January 16, 1893, he read a paper "On Method in Bibliography." He began his paper by saying:

> The object of Bibliography is to bring a book or set of books, in their absence, as much as possible before the student. A perfect bibliography would not only give a full and exact description of a book viewed as just a compound of paper and ink, (measurements, number of pages, etc.); but would also, as I hope we are agreed, set before the student so much of the life of a book as would give him, as far as the special object of the bibliography would allow, an idea of the correspondence of the title with the contents, of the plan and arrangement, of the circumstances of production—if they are noteworthy—and, roughly, of the place of the volume in the literature of its subject. This ideal, in which the author is recognized as having claims to our attention, as well as the printer, ought never to be lost sight of, and we should, if our scheme and powers allow us, never rest content with the technical description only.

He then went on to speak of the unnecessary difference of methods employed by bibliographers. He deplored the inaccuracy and scantiness of information too often found, as well as the opposite tendency to ultra-scientific accuracy and superfluity of information. He heartily discountenanced the tendency to invent systems of symbols of bibliographical terms and the use of abbreviations intelligible to the author of them but to no one else without considerable trouble. He advocated a sense of balance by which undue prominence should not be given to unimportant matters.

He then set out in outline a method of treating works of the press from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century. An Appendix contains several specimen examples of bibliographies exemplifying his method as actually employed in his work, which was shortly after issued.

This work, his Early Oxford Press "1468" to 1640, appeared in 1895 as Volume 29 of the Publications of the Oxford Historical Society. The works described are arranged in chronological order. If more than one appear under a given date (or author), they are arranged alphabetically. An exact transcript of the title-page (omitting the imprint) is given in distinctive type, each line being set out by perpendicular rules. Then in smaller type and in double columns follows: a reference by numbers to a series of imprints arranged chronologically and grouped in Appendix F; date; size; collations by pages numbered and unnumbered; the first few words of pages 11, 101, 501, 1001, or the first and last pages in such a series; and size of type in which the work is printed. Then follow the contents, in which the various parts are set out in detail. In conclusion pertinent notes regarding circumstances of production, references to other editions, notes from the preface or body of the work about the author, list of illustrations, peculiar errata, rarity, price, and the like, and notes of reviews or accounts of the book, etc., are given.

This exhaustive treatment would seem to include everything that could possibly be said on the subject. But Madan's training and eye for detail, under such a master as Nicholson, could not stop here. In addition to Appendix F, containing a chronological list of imprints (already noted), the volume contains notes on "Fictitious or Lost Oxford Books," "Additions and Corrections," "List of Undated Books," "Tables," "Type and Presswork," "Early Sixteenth Century Press," "Documents," etc., etc., in bewildering number and details.

The work was met with highly appreciative press notices. "No more scholarly bibliography has ever been published in England" said The Library. "His task is done for all time, and can never be superseded," remarked Bibliographica.

In 1912 Madan published Volume 2 of his Oxford Books. This supplements his previous work and carries his work down to 1650. It deals also with works relating to Oxford and its literature as well as its press, and includes no fewer than 886 Civil War tracts.

XXV

SAYLE, Charles Edward (1864–1924)

The University of Cambridge is indebted to the labors of that finished and accurate scholar, Charles Sayle, for the catalogue of Early English Printed Books in the University Library Cambridge (1475–1640). This extensive work, like Sinker's Catalogue of the English Books Printed before 1601 in Trinity College library, is arranged chronologically by printers and publishers. It contains references to anterior bibliographies. The items are numbered in consecutive order throughout the first three volumes. The fourth volume is devoted to a series of excellent indexes, arranged as follows: (1) books, (2) printers, stationers, etc., (3) engravers, painters, etc., (4) towns, (5) portraits,

(6) music, (7) bibliographica, and (8) books, a supplement to Index 1. Like all catalogues, some familiarity with its method is necessary in order to use it to the best advantage.

XXVI

HOE, ROBERT (1839–1909)

Robert Hoe, manufacturer of the Hoe printing-press, and a celebrated book-collector, began collecting books when quite young, without any definite plan. His library, therefore, was of a somewhat diversified and miscellaneous character, and represented his progressive literary and artistic tastes acquired during its formation, which occupied something over half a century. The subjects which appealed most strongly to his tastes were American history and literature, incunabula, armorial and association bindings, and the works of celebrated printers and binders. His practice was to buy only the finest examples procurable; and none otherwise found a place on his shelves, as he acquired only the best and was constantly discarding inferior copies. The result was the finest library, both as regards material and condition, this country has ever seen.

During one of his visits to Europe he visited one of its great libraries and was surprised at and disgusted with the utter lack of reverence and appreciation he found, as shown in the want of care given to the great monuments of printing. Volume after volume was brought to him covered with dust, with leaves stained and bindings broken and in every way proclaiming the effects of indifference and neglect. "This" he said, "confirms me in the conviction that those who love books should have them in custody and will take the best care of them." This conviction led him to provide in his will that his library should be sold and that his books should thus pass into the hands of those who would cherish them and in turn pass them on to other book-lovers.

Accordingly, from April, 1911, to November of the following year his library, consisting of 14,588 lots, was sold in four parts at the Anderson Galleries in New York. The reputation of the Hoe library was such that the sales were attended by representatives from all parts of the world. The prices realized surpassed the most sanguine expectation. The total received from the first three sales, $1,669,135.75, exceeded the combined amounts previously received at the Heber sale (1834–1837), $325,000.00; the Sunderland sale (1881–1883), $327,905.00; the Beckford sale (1882–1883), $367,755.00; and the Ashburnham sale, books and MSS (1891–1898), $479,645.00. The fourth Hoe sale brought the sum total of all the sales up to $1,932,-056.60, still the record price of any American book auction sale.

The subject of early English literature was Mr. Hoe's great specialty. From 1903 until the year of his death he engaged in bringing out a catalogue of his library. This consisted of 16 volumes. Of these, five were devoted to English authors who lived before 1700; three to works of the same character printed later than 1700. His extensive collection of works of foreign literature printed before 1600 is catalogued in 2 volumes; and those later than that, in 4 volumes. Another volume he devoted to his extensive collection of books on Emblems. The catalogue of his manuscripts, comprising over 250 beautiful specimens of illuminated "books of hours" (75 in number), missals, and other manuscript volumes, was not printed until after his death. The edition of each catalogue was limited to 100 copies.

These were prepared, under his direction, with the greatest care by James Osborne Wright and Miss Carolyn Shipman. They contain careful descriptions and collations of every volume and a number of facsimile title-pages. Many of the books described had already appeared in the Grolier Club's Catalogue; Langland to Wither, to which various members of the Grolier Club had contributed. Here will be found a number of books not found in the Grolier catalogues of 1893 and 1905. Mr. Hoe was especially interested in fine bindings and was largely responsible for the founding of the Club bindery, which turned out some of the finest bindings ever executed in this country. The Club bindery did not long survive the death of its founder. Very full descriptions are given to the bindings of all books described in Mr. Hoe's catalogues, given as he says "for the identification of the copies recorded."

XXVII

ALDIS, HARRY G.

The List of Books Printed in Scotland before 1700 is a preliminary check-list intended to promote inquiry and secure co-operation in the formation of a complete Scottish bibliography. In fact, this compilation was carried on concurrently with the preparation of such a bibliography in which full bibliographical descriptions of minute details have been recorded.

On November 12, 1896, a resolution was passed by the Edinburgh Bibliographical Society that a bibliographical catalogue and a handlist of books printed in Scotland before 1700 should be undertaken. Work on these was carried on concurrently until about 3,500 titles had been prepared. It was then felt necessary that the hand-list should be printed in order to facilitate further progress and co-operation, by showing what titles were still unrecorded or defective.

Specimen cards of the bibliographical catalogue are shown on pages xiv and xv of the List. These contain collations, full titles, test lines, descriptions of the copies catalogued, and the location of other copies.

Each entry in the List is restricted to a single line, as far as possible. It gives (1) a short title, (2) size, (3) occasional reference to authorities, (4) place, except in case of Edinburgh, which is omitted, (5) printer, or bookseller for whom the book was printed, (6) indication of a library in which a copy of the work may be found. The mark "—" prefixed to an entry signifies either that full particulars of the book have been entered on the Society's slips or that a copy is accessible in some public library. Of those not so marked, full particulars and record of a copy is desired. There are 3,919 titles recorded.

No list arranged chronologically is usable without several indexes. Accordingly, there have been given in addition to (1) the specimen collations and (2) explanations and abbreviations: lists of printers, booksellers, and stationers arranged (a) topographically and (b) alphabetically. The latter list contains very useful summaries of what is known of their careers. Finally comes an excellent list of authors.

XXVIII

GROLIER CLUB (New York, founded 1884)

As a continuation of its Catalogue of Original and Early Editions of English Writers from Langland to Wither, published in 1893 and described above, the Club brought out in 1905 its Catalogue of English Writers from Wither to Prior, which may be considered a continuation of the former work up to the early years of the eighteenth century. A large part of the work was done by Edward Hale Bierstadt shortly before his death. The work was carried to completion by another member of the committee. The books described, as in the former volume, except in a few cases, generally from the British Museum, were taken from the libraries of members of the Grolier Club.

Collations are given according to the plan pursued in the Langland to Wither volume. Facsimiles are given rather to picture the title-pages than to give their exact size. The works described are arranged in a single alphabet, the works of each author being given in chronological order. Collected editions follow earlier separate volumes. This is commendable as it shows the continuous bibliographical career of the author and what preceding works of his entered into the collected edition. Translations from other languages are entered under the name of the translator, with a reference to the original author. At the end of Volume 3 is an index of printers and booksellers and also another of engravers.

XXIX

CHURCH, Elihu Dwight (1836–1908)

Mr. Church was better known as a collector of Americana than of English literature. He collected books selected for their rarity rather than those necessary to form a well-rounded library. This was true of both the fields in which he collected.

In English literature his collecting was restricted to the works of the most famous authors. He had first-editions of Spenser and Milton. His collection of Bunyan, as well as of Butler's Hudibras, was notable. Of modern writers such as Lamb, Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, and Lever he had many "nuggets." As a whole, it may be said that his library contained those excessively rare items that other collectors much desired in order to round out or complete their collections.

But it was in the original editions of the Shakespeare folios, quartos, and supposititious works that his collection was pre-eminently strong. So strong that no other library in America could approach it and of which only four English libraries surpassed it. It contained, in all, 84 editions, of which 54 were printed before the first folio (1623). His collection of folios consisted of 11 copies, each differing from every other.

The catalogue of his English Literature and Miscellanea consisted of two volumes, imperial octavo, consisting of 1,154 pages. It minutely describes 748 items and is illustrated with 368 facsimiles of title-pages, colophons, etc., including 12 plates, three of which are printed on both sides. The edition was limited to "not more than One Hundred and Fifty Copies." In fact, only seventy-five copies were printed; and as the plates have been destroyed, the work has already become a rarity.

XXX

HUNTINGTON, Henry Edwards (1850–1927)

The name of Henry Edwards Huntington will pass down in history as that of the foremost book-collector of his time, if not of all ages. Blessed with the means to acquire whatever he desired and the taste of a bibliophile, he succeeded in the brief space of two decades in bringing together the most complete and valuable collection of early English literature ever possessed by any private individual. At no time in the history of bookselling were more ample opportunities offered a collector than during the time he was employed in acquiring the books now housed in the noble building which he erected for their reception on his princely estate in San Marino, California. Prior to his entering actively into collecting, the death of three of the most important collectors in England and America threw their libraries into the market. We refer to the deaths of Elihu Dwight Church (August 30, 1908), Robert Hoe (September 22, 1909), and Alfred Henry Huth (October 14, 1910). In 1911 Mr. Huntington purchased the Church library en bloc, and secured the lion's share of the Hoe collection at its sales from April 24 to November 22, 1912. From the Huth sales, November 15, 1911, to June 25, 1920, he enriched and rounded out his library by numerous important purchases. Later he secured many rarities from the sales of the Christie-Miller library (August 15, 1916, to April 8, 1927). The enhancement of prices during these sales—largely due, no doubt, to Mr. Huntington's activity as a purchaser—was the cause of many smaller collections containing important rarities being thrown into the market, either at auction or privately. Never before within an equal period of time had so many rare books appeared for sale. The result was that, by the purchase of numerous collections entire, by purchases at auctions, and books secured by private sales, Mr. Huntington at the time of his death had brought together a collection of Americana, English literature, and early printed books second to none in importance, rarity, and value ever possessed by any collector, ancient or modern. Of original editions of English literature prior to 1641 he had 8,726 titles and editions, or a little more than one-third of the 26,142 that the Bibliographical Society of London had located by scouring England, the Continent, and the United States. This remarkable showing in one field is only an index of equally surprising results in every field which Mr. Huntington entered as a collector.

XXXI

WHITE, William Augustus (1843–1927)

The modest and gentle scholar, William Augustus White, who died at a ripe old age, began collecting books soon after being graduated at Harvard. His collecting was largely confined to early English literature. He was a scholarly collector who not only studied and knew his books but was most helpful to those interested in them, and generously placed his treasures at the disposal of those desiring to make use of them.

In 1914 he issued a Hand-List of Early English Books Mostly of the Elizabethan Period. This constituted only a part of his library, for his scholarly interest caused him to collect works of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. He possessed an outstanding collection of the works of William Blake, poet and painter, that was widely known by all Blake collectors. When Geoffrey Keynes compiled his Bibliography of William Blake, Mr. White rendered him such assistance that he acknowledged his obligation to him in its Preface, as follows:

> To Mr. White himself I owe a debt of gratitude for the great kindness with which he has always met my requests for information and help. He has contributed in many ways to the making of this volume, which I am glad to think forms in some measure a record of his deep interest in the subject.

His collection of early English books embraced to a considerable extent the literature of Shakespeare's lifetime and of books referring to him, published during the seventeenth century. His library contained a considerable number of books not to be found in any other collection in this country. The Hand-List, as its name suggests, is of the briefest possible character. The Catalogue of Early English Books, which he printed privately in 1926, on the other hand, gives imprints and dates. More valuable, however, are the collations of each volume and its provenance, as well as the number of other copies known. The works of Ben Jonson, of which Mr. White had an exceptionally full set of first-editions, have been described with more detail than those of other authors. It is much to be regretted that Mr. White did not publish a detailed catalogue of his entire library as originally prepared by Miss Henrietta C. Bartlett, and thus erect a more valuable and lasting monument to his memory.

Our survey might have been extended by the inclusion of the names of other bibliographers and bibliophiles, but they would have added little to the purpose we have had in view, namely, to trace the growth of bibliographical method in our literature from a mere list of authors' names, as given by Bale, to the minutely systematic descriptions to be found in the works of such distinguished bibliographers as Gordon Duff and Falconer Madan.

Before proceeding to our list of bibliographical works in the next section, two other collections of "1640-books," so called, should be noticed: the Christie-Miller or Britwell Hall Library and that of John L. Clauson. The former, now dispersed under the auctioneer's hammer, was the most complete and important collection of the earliest copies of English literature that was ever brought together in one library; the latter was made up largely from the Henry E. Huntington duplicate sales and consisted of many choice literary "nuggets." The catalogues of these two libraries, especially those of the Britwell Library, should, by all means, be consulted by those desiring to cover the entire field of our earliest literature, as in them will be found recorded many items of which no other copies are known.

The works in the list which immediately follows have already been referred to in the preceding pages.

·IV·

APPENDIX

I

LELAND or Leyland, John (1506?–1552)

1. De Scriptoribus Britannicis Commentarii, ex Autographo editi per Antonium Hall. 2 vols., 8vo. Oxon., 1709.

Some copies were printed on large paper.

2. The Itinerary of John Leyland, the Antiquary. Published from the Original MS. in the Bodleian Library, by Thomas Hearne. 9 vols., 8vo. Oxford, 1710–1712.

108 copies printed on ordinary paper at 4*s*. and 5*s*. each volume; 12 copies on thick paper at 5*s*. and 6*s*. per volume.

——— Same. 2d ed. 9 vols., 8vo. Oxford, 1744–1745.

350 copies printed and 50 copies, roy. 8vo., on large paper.

——— Same. 3d ed. 9 vols., 8vo. Oxford, 1768–1770.

This edition also had a General Index.
The third edition also had large paper copies in royal octavo.

3. Johannis Lelandi Antiquarii de Rebus Britannicis Collectanea. Ex Autographis descripsit, ediditque Tho. Hearnius, qui & Appendicem subjecit, totumque Opus Notis et Indice adornavit. 6 vols., 8vo. Oxonii, 1715.

150 copies printed; also large paper copies in royal octavo.

——— Same. 2d ed. 6 vols., 8vo. London, 1770 vel 1774.

Also large paper copies.
References: Allibone, 1:813; Dibdin, Bibliomania (1876), 242; Lowndes, 2 (1869), 1022; 3 (1869), 1338; Northup, 132.3 Add.; D.N.B.; Cambridge History of English Literature, 3 (New York, 1911), 373.

II

BALE, John (1495–1563)

1. Illustrium majoris Britanniae Scriptorum summariu. [Wesel, D. van den Straten], Gippiswici [Ipswich], per J. Overton, 1548. 4to.

——— Same. (Another issue.) Wesaliæ, per T. Plateanum; Gippeswici per J. Overton, 1549 (1548). 4to.

2. ——— The Laboryouse Journey & serche of John Leylande, for Englandes Antiquitees, geuen of hym as a newe yeares gyfte to Kynge Henry the viii. in the .xxxvii. yeare of his Reygne, with declaracyons enlarged: by Johan Bale. ii. Macha. ii.

¶ He that begynneth to wryte a storye, for the fyrste, muste wyth his understandynge gather the matter togyther, set hys wordes in ordre, and dylygently seke out on euery parte.

¶ To be sold in fletestrete at the signe of the Croune next vnto the whyte Fryears gate.

Note.—Short-Title Catalogue, No. 15445. There is a copy of this ancient monument of antiquity, precious to every lover of our literary heritage, in the Huntington Library. Reprinted in the Lives of Leland, Hearne, and Wood, Vol. 1 (London, 1772).

3. ——— Scriptorum illustrium maioris Brytanniæ . . . . Catalogus . . . . ad annum hunc Dom. 1557. Basileæ, apud Joannem Oporinum, 1559. fol.

4. ——— Index Britanniae Scriptorum Quosex Varius Bibliothecis non Parvo Labore Collegit Johannes Baleus cum Aliis. [John Bale's Index of British and Other Writers.] Edited by Reginald Lane Poole. . . . . With the Help of Mary Bateson. Oxford, 1902. 4to.

This carefully planned modern edition has the advantages of being arranged alphabetically instead of chronologically as originally prepared by Bale. It generally gives references.

References: Bibliog. Soc., Short-Title Catalogue, Nos. 1295, 1296; Northup, Register of Bibliographies (1925), No. 12; Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit. (New York), 5:445; Bibliographica, 2:34; Sinker, Books in Trinity College Library, Cambridge, No. 897; Hazlitt, Bibliog. Coll., 2:28; Dibdin, Bibliomania (1876), 31 n., 247 (portrait); Bibliotheca Grenvilliana, 1:55; Huth, Catalogue, 1:82; Horne, Introd. to Bibliog., 2:419.

III

WOOD, Anthony, or, as he latterly called himself, Anthony à Wood (1632–1695)

1*a*. Athenæ Oxonienses: an Exact History of all the Writers . . . . who have had their Education in the . . . . University of Oxford; . . . . Added, The Fasti or Annals. 2 vols., fol. London, 1691–1692.

References: Northup, p. 446, No. 3839.1 Add.; Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit., 9:388, 391, etc.; Encyc. Brit., 14th ed., 23:713; Hazlitt, 3:271; Dibdin, Bibliomania (1876), 45, 312; Lowndes, 5:2982.

1*b*. ——— Athenæ Oxonienses. 2d ed. 2 vols., fol. London, for R. Knaplock, D. Midwinter, and J. Tonson, 1721.

References: Northup, p. 446, No. 3839.1 Add.; Allibone 3:2816; Lowndes, 5:2982; Horne, Introd., 2:431.

"Dr. [Thomas] TANNER, the author of the Notitia Monastica, supplied a great part of the additions [about 500 new lives] and corrections to this second edition."—Lowndes.

——— Athenæ Oxonienses. A New (3d) Edition; with Additions and a Continuation, by Philip BLISS. London: Rivington, 1813–1820. 4 vols., 4to.

References: Northup, p. 446, No. 3839.1 Add.; Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit., 9:592; Lowndes, 5:2981; Bibliog. Grenv., 2:811.

A "new edition was begun in 1848, Oxford, for the Eccles. Hist. Soc. [Only Vol. 1, containing Wood's Autobiography] 8vo., pp. (viii), 412, was published. A second volume beginning the text is in the Bodleian; it shows few variations from the earlier issue."—Northup. "Only twenty-five copies were printed on Large Paper,"—Bibliog. Grenv.

IV

AMES, Joseph (1689–1759)

Typographical Antiquities; Being an Historical Account of Printing in England. With some Memoirs of our Ancient Printers, and a Register of the Books printed by them, to the Year 1600; with an Appendix concerning Printing in Scotland and Ireland. 4to. London, by W. Faden, sold by J. Robinson, 1749.

References: Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit., 9:398,581. "The foundation-stone of the history of printing in England."

——— Typographical Antiquities; or, An Historical Account of the Origin and Progress of Printing in Great Britain and Ireland . . . . to the Year MDC. Begun by the late Joseph Ames. . . . . Considerably augmented, both in the Memoirs and Number of Books. By William HERBERT. 3 vols., 4to. London, for the editor, sold by Mr. J. Payne and Son (and others), 1785. Vol. 2, 1786; Vol. 3, 1790.

References: Dibdin, Bibliomania (1876), 66 n.

——— Typographical Antiquities; or, The History of Printing in England, Scotland and Ireland: Containing Memoirs of Our Ancient Printers, and a Register of the Books Printed by Them. Begun by the late Joseph Ames, ... Considerably augmented by William Herbert, ... and now greatly enlarged, by Thomas Frognall DIBDIN. 4 vols., 4to. London, for William Miller, by William Savage, 1810–1819.

"An invaluable work, which it is much to be regretted was not completed, for want of sufficient encouragement."—Lowndes, 1:37.

V

BAKER, David Erskine (1730–1767)

1. The Companion to the Play-House, or An Historical Account of all the Dramatic Writers (and Their Works). . . . . From the Commencement of Our Theatrical Exhibitions Down to the Present Year 1764. Composed in the Form of a Dictionary. 2 vols. London, 1764.

References: Northup, No. 1857.
Vol. 1, plays in alphabetical order; Vol. 2, alphabetical by authors.

2. ——— Biographia Dramatica, or, A Companion to the Playhouse; a New Edition Carefully Corrected; Greatly Enlarged; and Continued from 1764 to 1782. Edited by Isaac Reed. 2 vols., 8vo. London, 1782.

References: Northup, No. 1857.

3. ——— Biographia Dramatica; or, A Companion to the Playhouse: . . . . Brought down to the End of November 1811, with Very Considerable Additions and Improvements Throughout. Edited by Stephen Jones. 3 vols., usually bound in 4, 8vo. London, for Longman, and others, 1812.

References: Northup, No. 1857.

VI

RITSON, Joseph (1752–1803)

Bibliographia Poetica: a Catalogue of English Poets of the Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centurys, with a Short Account of their Works. London, by C. Roworth, for G. and W. Nicol, 1802.

References: McKerrow, Introd. to Bibliog., 250 n; Northup, No. 4203; Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit., 12:403; Allibone, 2:1812; Warton's Hist. Eng. Poetry (Hazlitt's ed.), 1:ix,84; Lowndes, 4:2099; Horne, Introd. to Bibliog., 2:430.

VII

BRYDGES, Sir Samuel Egerton (1762–1837)

1. Censura Literaria. Containing Titles, Abstracts, and Opinions of Old English Books, with Original Disquisitions, Articles of Biography, and other Literary Antiquities. 8vo., 40 nos. in 10 vols. London, by T. Bensley, for Longman (etc.), 1805–1809.

250 copies printed.

——— Same. 2d ed. 10 vols., 8vo. London: Longman (etc.), 1815.

250 copies printed.

2. British Bibliographer. By Sir Egerton Brydges, K[night of St.] J[oachim]. 15 nos. in 4 vols. London, for R. Triphook, by T. Bensley, 1810–1814.

With portraits.

3. Restituta; or, Titles, Extracts, and Characters of Old Books in English Literature Revived. 28 nos. in 4 vols. 8vo. London, by T. Bensley, for Longman (etc.), 1814.

References: Northup, Nos. 34–36; Allibone, 1:272; Huth, Cat., 1:233; D.N.B.; Lowndes, 1:296; Horne, 2,528.

VIII

[GRIFFITH, Acton Frederick], compiler

Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica; or, A Descriptive Catalogue of a Rare and Rich Collection of Early English Poetry. 8vo. London: Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, 1815.

References: Hazlitt, Book-Collector, 267; Lowndes, 1:200; Corser, Collectanea Anglo-Poetica, Pt. 2 (Vol. 1), 268.

IX

WATT, Robert (1774–1819)

Bibliotheca Britannica; or, A General Index to British and Foreign Literature. In Two Parts:—Authors and Subjects. 4 vols., 4to. Edinburgh, for Archibald Constable and Company, ... and Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, Brown & Green; and London: Hurst, Robinson & Co., 1824.

Vols. 1 and 2, authors; Vols. 3 and 4, subjects.

References: Murray, Bibliog.: Its Scope and Methods, 19, 31, 34, 97; Camb. Hist. Eng. Lit., 12:411; Spofford, Book for All Readers, 493; Allibone, 3:2611; Sabin, Bibliog. of Bibliog., cxlvi; Lowndes, 5:2858. "The most constantly consulted book in the reading-room of the British Museum."—Murray.

X

LOWNDES, William Thomas (1798–1843)

1. The Bibliographer's Manual of English Literature containing An Account of Rare, Curious, and Useful Books, Published in or Relating to Great Britain and Ireland. . . . . 4 vols., 8vo. London: William Pickering, 1834.

Some copies were printed on large paper.

2. ——— Same. New Edition Revised, Corrected, and Enlarged: with An Appendix relating to the Books of Literary and Scientific Societies. By Henry G. Bohn. 6 vols., 8vo. London: Bell & Daldy, 1869.

References: Northup, No. 141, 4783; Encyc. Brit., 14th ed., 14:445; Jaggard, Bibliog. of Shakespeare, 27; Bibliog. Soc., Transactions, 1:65, 68; 2:1; Allibone, 1:1139; Sabin, Bibliog. of Bibliog., xcvi; Power, Handy Book, 13.

XI

COLLIER, John Payne (1789–1883)

A Catalogue, Bibliographical and Critical of Early English Literature; Forming a Portion of the Library at Bridgewater House, the Property of the Rt. Hon. Lord Francis Egerton, M.P. 4to. London: Thomas Rodd, 1837.

Only 50 copies were printed. Known also as the "Ellesmere Catalogue."

——— A Bibliographical and Critical Account of the Rarest Books in the English Language, Alphabetically Arranged. 2 vols., 8vo. London: Joseph Lilly, 1865.

——— Same. 4 vols., 8vo. New York: David G. Francis, 1866.

75 copies of the New York edition were printed on large paper, and 5 copies on India paper.

References: Wise, Ashley Library Catalogue, 1:225; Lee, Life of William Shakespeare (1916), 568 n; Encyc. Brit., 14th ed., 6:18; Jaggard, Shakespeare Bibliography, 56; Allibone, 1:410.

XI*a*

PAYNE, John Thomas, and FOSS, Henry

Bibliotheca Grenvilliana; or Bibliographical Notices of Rare and Curious Books, Forming Part of the Library of the Right Hon. Thomas Grenville: By John Thomas Payne and Henry Foss. 4 vols., 8vo. London, printed by William Nicol, Shakspeare Press, Pall Mall, 1842–1872.

Volume 3, called "Part Second. Printed by Order of the Trustees," is dated 1848. Volume 4, "Part Third," "Printed by Order of the Trustees," 1872, Chiswick Press, contains a bust portrait of Grenville.

Some copies were printed on large paper, imperial octavo.

References: Edward Edwards, Lives of the Founders of the British Museum (1870), 670–85; Edward Edwards, Memoirs of Libraries, 1 (1859), 490–93; Report of the Commissioners to Inquire into the British Museum (1850), Index, 83.

Mr. Grenville printed the two volumes of the first part of his library which was considered to contain its finest books. The trustees of the British Museum ordered the second and third parts to be printed.

XII

ALLIBONE, Samuel Austin (1816–1889)

1. Critical Dictionary of English Literature and British and American Authors . . . . to the Latter Half of the Nineteenth Century. . . . . 3 vols., 8vo. Philadelphia: Childs & Peterson, 1854–1871.

KIRK, John Foster (1824–1904)

2. Supplement to Allibone's Critical Dictionary of English Literature. . . . . Containing over 37,000 Articles (Authors), and Enumerating over 93,000 Titles. 2 vols., 8vo. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co., 1891.

References: Northup, Register of Bibliographies, No. 3; Camb. Hist. Amer. Lit., 3:188; Encyc. Brit., 14th ed., 1:652; Bibliog. Soc., Trans., 12:29; The Library, 2d ser., 5 (No. 20, October, 1904), 419–30; Appleton's Cyclop. Amer. Biog., 1:57 (portrait); Sabin, Dict., Vol. 1, No. 1005.

XIII

CORSER, Thomas (1793–1876)

Collectanea Anglo-Poetica; or, A Bibliographical and Descriptive Catalogue . . . . of Early English Poetry, with Occasional Extracts and Remarks Biographical and Critical. 11 parts, 4to. Manchester, for the Chetham Society, 1860–1883.

Paged and indexed to be bound in 5 volumes, if desired, but usually found bound in the parts as issued.

References: Northup (1925), No. 4184; Hazlitt, Hist. of Book-Collecting (1904), 273; Hazlitt, Confessions of a Collector (1897), 64–67; Kirk, Supplement to Allibone, 1 (1891), 391; Corser, Collectanea Anglo-Poetica, Pt. 11 (1883), iii-x; D.N.B.

XIV

BLADES, William (1824–1890), printer and bibliographer

1. The Life and Typography of William Caxton, England's First Printer, with Evidence of His Typographical Connection with Colard Mansion. 2 vols., 4to. London: Joseph Lilly, 1861–1863.

References: Bookworm, 3:221; Lib. Assn. Record, N.S., 3 (1925), 41.

2. ——— The Biography and Typography of William Caxton, England's First Printer. 2d ed., 8vo. London: Trübner & Co., 1882.

References: Lib. Assn. Record, 2 (1924), 259; 3 (1925), 41; Allibone, Supp., 1:160; Bookworm, 3 (1890), 221–24, portrait; The Library, 2 (1890), 191, 205–9; Duff, 15th Cent. Books (1917); De Ricci, Census of Caxtons (1909).

XV

HAZLITT, William Carew (1834–1913)

1. Hand-Book to the Popular, Poetical, and Dramatic Literature of Great Britain, From the Invention of Printing to the Restoration. 8vo., xii+704 pages. London: John Russell Smith, 1867.

Some copies were printed on large paper.

2. ——— Collections and Notes; 1867–1876. 8vo., xi+498 pp. London: Reeves & Turner, 1876.

3. ——— Second Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes on Early English Literature; 1474–1700. 8vo., x+717 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1882.

525 copies printed, of which 25 were on large paper.

4. ——— Third and Final Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes on Early English Literature; 1474–1700. 8vo. xii+315 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1887.

270 copies printed, of which 20 were on large paper.

5. ——— Supplements to the Third and Final Series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes; 1474–1700. demi 8vo., viii+181 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1889.

Some copies were printed on large paper.

6. ——— Bibliographical Collections and Notes (1474–1700). Third and Final Series. Second Supplement. Medium 8vo., iv+106 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1892.

Some copies were printed on large paper.

7. ——— Bibliographical Collections and Notes on Early English Literature Made during the Years 1893–1903. 8vo., iv+446 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1903.

150 copies printed. This is the only one of the series of which no copies were printed on large paper.

8. Gray, G. J.

A General Index to Hazlitt's Handbook and His Bibliographical Collections (1867–1889). Edited by W. Carew Hazlitt. 8vo. iv+866 pp. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1893.

With Appendix (pp. 843–66) containing further collections and notes, not included in the Index.

250 copies printed on small paper, and 25 only on large paper.

XVI

DYCE, Alexander (1798–1869)

Dyce Collection. A Catalogue of the Printed Books and Manuscripts Bequeathed [to the South Kensington Museum]. 2 vols., 8vo. London: George E. Eyre and William Spottiswoode, 1875.

References: Hurlbut, No. 1901.

XVII

HUTH, Henry (1815–1878), book collector

The Huth Library. A Catalogue of the Printed Books, Manuscripts, Autographs, Letters, and Engravings, ... with Collations and Bibliographical Descriptions. 5 vols., imperial 8vo. London: Ellis and White, 1880.

References: Introd. of Cat., 1:v–vii.; Hazlitt, Four Generations of a Literary Family, 2:266–93; Hazlitt, Confessions of a Collector, 8 ff.; Hazlitt, Book-Collector, 6 ff.

HUTH, Alfred Henry (1850–1910)

Catalogue of the Fifty Manuscripts and Printed Books Bequeathed to the British Museum by Alfred H. Huth. Imperial quarto. London, for the trustees, 1912.

References: Huth Bequest (binders title of the foregoing), v–xvi.; Bookworm, 3 (1890), 225.

XVIII

BRITISH MUSEUM

Catalogue of Books in the Library of the British Museum Printed in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and Books in English Printed Abroad to the year 1640. 3 vols., 8vo. London, by order of the trustees. 1884.

References: The Library Chronicle, 2 (1885), 57–63.

Collier's work is of a more scientific nature, his descriptions being confined to books before 1700 that actually passed through his hands. Bibliographers of English literature are under very greatest obligation to him for the thoroughness and accuracy of his work.

XIX

DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY

1. Dictionary of National Biography; edited by Leslie Stephen and Sidney Lee. 22 vols., 8vo. London: Smith, Elder & Co., 1908–1909.

Volumes 1–9 were edited by Leslie Stephen and Sidney Lee; Volumes 10–22 by Sidney Lee. The first edition was in 66 volumes including 3 supplementary volumes; 1885–1901. The twenty-second and last volume of the reissue comprises the 3 volumes supplementary of the original edition first published in 1901; supplying, with a few accidental omissions, memoirs of persons who died while the original volumes were in course of quarterly publication.

This supplement brings the record of national biography down to the death of Queen Victoria. The errata have been corrected in the reissue of 21 volumes and Supplement in 1908–1909.

2. Index and Epitome to the Original Issue; edited by Sidney Lee. 2d ed. New York and London, 1906.

Reference: Northup, Register of Bibliographies, No. 214. For further and later details see Part III, herein.

XX

SINKER, Robert (1838–)

A Catalogue of the English Books Printed before MDCI. Now in the Library of Trinity College, Cambridge. 8vo. Cambridge: Deighton, Bell, and Co.; London: George Bell and Sons, 1885.

References: The Library Chronicle, 2 (1885), 79.

XX*a*

EDMOND, John Philip (1850–1906)

The Aberdeen Printers; Edward Raban to James Nicol; 1620–1736. Aberdeen: J. & J. P. Edmond & Spark, 1886.

250 copies printed on small paper, and 25 copies printed on large paper.
References: Lib. Assn. Rec., 8 (1906), 199–201.

XXI

LOCKER-LAMPSON, Frederick (1821–1895)

1. The Rowfant Library. A Catalogue of the Printed Books, Manuscripts, Autograph Letters, Drawings and Pictures, collected by Frederick Locker-Lampson. [Compiled by Alfred W. Pollard.] roy. 8vo. London: Bernard Quaritch, 1886.

150 copies were printed for sale. The etching by Cruikshank which forms the frontispiece to this volume is one of the first 250 impressions from the plate.

2. An Appendix to the Rowfant Library. A Catalogue of the Printed Books, Manuscripts, Autograph Letters, etc., Collected since the Printing of the First Catalogue in 1886 by the Late Frederick Locker-Lampson. roy. 8vo. London, printed by Charles Whittingham & Co. at the Chiswick Press, 1900.

350 copies were printed of this catalogue, of which 100 are in the possession of the Rowfant Club, Cleveland, Ohio.

References: Cole, Book-Collectors as Benefactors of Libraries (1915), 47–51; Augustine Birrell, Frederick Locker-Lampson. A Character Sketch (London. 1920), 10; Hazlitt, Four Generations of a Literary Family, 2 (1897), 293–300; The Library Chronicle, 3 (1886), 79.

XXI*a*

DICKSON, Robert (1828–), and EDMOND, John Philip (1850–1906)

Annals of Scottish Printing from the Introduction of the Art in 1507 to the Beginning of the Seventeenth Century. By Robert Dickson, L. R. C. S. E. and John Philip Edmond. 8vo. Cambridge: Macmillan & Bowes, 1890.

500 copies printed on small paper, and 100 copies printed on large paper.
References: Bibliog. Soc., Trans., 1 (1893), 174; Lib. Assn. Rec., 8 (1906), 199–201; The Library, 2 (1890), 157–58, 251–57; Northup, No. 4437.

XXII

GROLIER CLUB, New York (founded 1884)

Catalogue of Original and Early Editions of Some of the Poetical and Prose Works of English Writers from Langland to Wither. With Collations & Notes, & Eighty-seven Facsimiles of Title-pages and Frontispieces. Being a Contribution to the Bibliography of English Literature. Imprinted at New York for the Grolier Club, 29 East Thirty-second Street. Anno Dni. 1893.

References: Bibliog. Soc., Trans., 1 (1893), 206; Bibliographica, 2 (No. 7), 377–81; The Library, 5 (1893), 228.

XXIII

JOHN RYLANDS LIBRARY

Catalogue of Books in the John Rylands Library, Manchester, Printed in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and of Books in English Printed Abroad to the End of the Year 1640. 4to. Manchester, 1895.

This is a brief title-author catalogue, with an index of printers, under which is a chronological list of books printed by them.

References: Lib. Assn. Rec. (1899), 564–71; N.S. 2 (1924), 226; John Rylands Library, A Record of its History; 1899–1924 (1924), 49.

XXIV

MADAN, Falconer (1851–)

The Early Oxford Press; A Bibliography of Printing and Publishing at Oxford, '1486'–1640; with Notes, Appendixes and Illustrations. By Falconer Madan, M.A., Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford. Oxford, at the Clarendon Press, 1895. ("Oxford Historical Society Publication," Vol. 29.)

Oxford Books; A Bibliography of Printed Books Relating to the University and City of Oxford, or Printed or Published There, with Appendixes, Annals, and Illustrations. Vol. 2: Oxford Literature: 1450–1640, and 1641–1650. 8vo. Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1912.

References: Lib. Assn. Rec., 16 (1914), 289; Bibliog. Soc., Trans., 1 (1893), 91–106; The Library, 7 (1895), 91–93; Bibliographica, 2, pt. 5, 127, 128. The Library, 3d ser., 3 (1912), 237–39; Northup, Register of Bibliographies (1925), Nos. 2114, 4383.

XXV

SAYLE, Charles Edward (1864–1924)

Early English Printed Books in the University Library Cambridge (1475 to 1640). 4 vols., 8vo. Cambridge, at the University Press, 1900–1907.

Vol. 1, 1900; Vol. 2, 1902; Vol. 3, 1903; Vol. 4, 1907.

References: Lib. Assn. Rec., 2 (September, 1924), 194; Bibliog. Soc., Trans., 9 (1908), 49; The Library, 5 (December, 1924), 267–73 (with portrait).

XXVI

HOE, Robert (1839–1909)

Catalogue of Books by English Authors who Lived before the Year 1700. Forming a Part of the Library of Robert Hoe. 5 vols., 8vo. Printed in New York January, 1903—(February), 1905.

References: O. A. Bierstadt, The Library of Robert Hoe; a Contribution to the History of Bibliophilism in America. (New York: Duprat & Co., Publishers, 1895. Edition limited to 350 numbered copies. English books, pp. 153–202).

XXVII

ALDIS, Harry G.

A List of Books Printed in Scotland before 1700, including Those Printed Furth of the Realm for Scottish Booksellers. With Brief Notes on the Printers and Stationers. By Harry G. Aldis. 4to. Printed by the Edinburgh Bibliographical Society, 1904.

References: The Library; 2d ser., 6 (No. 22, April, 1905), 223.

XXVIII

GROLIER CLUB, New York (founded 1884)

Catalogue of Original and Early Editions of Some of the Poetical and Prose Works of English Writers from Wither to Prior. With Collations, Notes, and More than Two Hundred Facsimiles of Title-pages and Frontispieces. 3 vols., 8vo. Imprinted at New York for the Grolier Club, 29 East Thirty-second Street. Anno Dni. 1905.

Edition 400 copies on Holland handmade paper and 3 copies on vellum; completed, March, August, and November, 1905, respectively.

XXIX

CHURCH, Elihu Dwight (1836–1908)

A Catalogue of Books consisting of English Literature and Miscellanea. Including many Original Editions of Shakespeare; Forming a Part of the Library of E. D. Church; Compiled and Annotated by George Watson Cole. 2 vols., imperial 8vo. New York: Dodd, Mead and Company, 1909.

References: Bibliog. Soc. Amer., Proceedings and Papers, 7 (1912–1913), 41–50.

XXX

HUNTINGTON, Henry Edwards (1850–1927)

1. Check-List or Brief Catalogue of the Library of Henry E. Huntington (English Literature to 1640). Compiled under the Direction of George Watson Cole. New York, privately printed, 1919.

2. Check-List or Brief Catalogue of the English Books, 1475–1640 in the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery. Additions and Corrections, July, 1919—June, 1920. Compiled under the Direction of George Watson Cole. New York, privately printed, 1920.

The two volumes are paged continuously; 1–455, (457)–570.

XXXI

WHITE, William Augustus (1843–1927)

1. Hand-List of Early English Books Mostly of the Elizabethan Period Collected by W. A. White, Brooklyn, N.Y. Digested from (the) Card Catalogue made by Miss Henrietta C. Bartlett. 8vo. (Brooklyn, New York, privately printed, 1914.)

2. Catalogue of Early English Books, Chiefly of the Elizabethan Period. Collected by William Augustus White and catalogued by Henrietta C. Bartlett. 8vo. New York, privately printed for Mr. W. A. White, by the Pynson Printers, Inc., 1926.

·V·

SAMPLE ENTRIES

THE examples which follow are necessarily chosen because of their brevity. Notwithstanding, they illustrate the style of description and comment used by each writer and show the gradual tendency, as time progressed, toward a fuller and more scientific form of description, embodying, as Madan puts it, the "ideal, in which the author is recognized as having claims on our attention, as well as the printer, [a feature which] ought never to be lost sight of."

IV, 2

Herbert, William. Typographical Antiquities. Vol. 2:1786

a

Under Henry Bynneman: 2:983

"The Pleasant Historie of the Conquest of the VVeast India now called new Spayne, Atchieued by the vvorthy Prince Hernando Cortes Marques of the valley of Huaxacae, most delectable to Reade: Translated out of the Spanishe tongue, by T. N. Anno 1578." The Crazen serpent. "Imprinted at London by Hen. Bynneman." Dedicated "To—Sir Francis Walsingham.—Tho. Nicholas.—To the Reader.—Stephan Goson in prayse of the Translator:" in 6 six-lined stanzas.—"In Thomæ Nicholai occidentalem Indiam St. Gosson:" in six distichs. Contains besides, 405 pages and a table. Licensed. W. H. Quarto. (1578)

Note.—The initials "W. H." indicate that Herbert himself owned a copy.

b

Under John Wolfe: 2:1175

"An Apologie, or Defence of our dayes, against the vaine murmurings & complaints of manie: Wherein is plainly proued, that our dayes are more happie & blessed than the dayes of our forefathers." Dedicated by Fr. Trigge "To—Sir Anth. Thorrold Knight, and the vertuous Ladie Anne Thorrold his wife.—Welborne 15 Nouember, 1589." Pages 42. W. H. Quarto. 1589

VIII

Griffith, Acton Frederick. Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica. 1815

a

197. Donne (John).—Poems by J. D. (John Donne) with Elegies on the Authors Death.—extra.—London, printed by M. F. for John Marriot, 1633. Quarto, pp. 416. . . . . £1. 15*s.*

This is the first edition of Dr. Donne's poems: a fine portrait of the author, by Lombart, has been prefixed.

Note.—As this was primarily intended as a sale catalogue, prices are given with each item; "extra" refers to the binding.

b

378. Herbert (George).—The Temple. Sacred Poems, and Private Ejaculations. By Mr. George Herbert, late Oratour of the Universitie of Cambridge. Together with his Life. The twelfth edition corrected, with the addition of an alphabetical table.—morocco.—London, printed by J. Barker, 1703. Duodecimo, pp. 368. . . . . £1. 1*s.*

A second portion of this edition has distinct pages, signatures, and a title, viz. "The Synagogue: or, the Shadow of the Temple. Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations. In imitation of Mr. George Herbert. The eighth edition, corrected and enlarged. London printed by J. Barber," 1703.—The "Synagogue" has been erroneously attributed to Crashaw, but it is very inferior to his style. Herbert's Life was written by Isaac Walton. There are in this copy prints of the Church Porch, the Church, and a portrait of Herbert by Sturt.

IX

Watt, Robert. Bibliotheca Britannica. 1824.

a

As to an Author

DWIGHT, Timothy, D. D. of Greenfield in Connecticut.—The Conquest of Canaan; a Poem. Hartford, America, 1785. Lond. 1786.—The Triumph of Infidelity; a Poem. 1791, 8vo.—Greenfield Hill; a Poem. N. York, 1794. 8vo. Lond. 1797.—The Nature and Danger of Infidel Philosophy; in two Discourses. 1800, 8vo. 1*s.* 6*d.*

b

As to a Printer

Lettou, John, an early English Printer, flourished towards the end of the 15th century, supposed, from his name, to have been a foreigner, but of what country is now uncertain. He printed the following Works, —Quæstiones Antonii Andreæ Ord. Minor, super xii. libros Metaphysicæ: Emendatæ per Ven. Fratrem Magistrum Thomam Penketh, Ord. Fr. Augustin, Lond. 1480. fol.—Expositiones super Psalterium. Lond. 1481, fol.—The following Works were published by the above, in conjunction with William Machlinia,—Tenores. Nouvelli, without date, fol. This is the first edition of the Tenures of the celebrated Judge Littleton,—Vieux abridgement des Statutes. Without place or date. fol.

Note.—See Gordon Duff. Fifteenth Century English Books, nos. 26, 396, 273.

c

As to Subject

EARTHEN-WARE.—1742. A Method of making a Gold-Coloured Glazing for E.-W. 481 f.—1779. On the Roman E. W. fished up within the Mouth of the River Thames. 773 t.—1782. Observations on the Roman E.-W. taken from the Pan-Pudding Rock. 540 i.—1782. On the Roman E.-W. found in the Sea, on the Kentish Coast, between Whistable and Reculver, on the Borders of the Isle of Thanet. 563 a.—1782. On the Roman E.-W. 773 u.—1806. Observations on the Danger of using E.-W. or Pottery of a bad Quality. 765 x.

Note.—Watt, instead of numbering the pages of his first two volumes (devoted to authors and subjects), numbered long sections of the columns. These he subdivided into smaller divisions of ten lines each, to which he prefixed lower-case letters in italics. The numbers above, "48 f; 773 t," etc., therefore refer to the columns and sections, so numbered in the author and subject volumes of the work, instead of to pages.

XI

Collier, John Payne. Catalogue of Early English Literature. 1837.

a

More, Sir Thomas.—A fruteful and pleasaunt worke of the beste state of a publyque weale, and of the newe yle called Utopia: written in Latine by Syr Thomas More Knyght, and translated into the Englyshe by Raphe Robynson—Citizein and Goldsmythe of London, at the procurement, and earnest request of George Tadlowe Citezein & Haberdassher of the same Citie. Imprinted at London by Abraham Vele, dwelling in Paul's churchyarde at the sygne of the Lambe. Anno. 1551. B.L. 8vo. 144 leaves.

This is the earliest edition of Sir Thomas More's Utopia in English. The dedication is by Raphe Robynson, to "maister William Cecylle esquiere, one of the twoo principal secretaries to the kyng," and it is remarkable as the first work that was inscribed to that celebrated statesman. Hence it appears that he and Robynson had been to school together. To this dedication succeeds Sir Thomas More's Epistle to Peter Giles, wanting in later impressions of the Utopia. The body of the work commences on Sign. B.1. and concludes on Sign. S.4:—"Thus endeth the afternones talke of Raphaell Hythlodaye concerning the lawes and institutions of the Iland of Utopia. Imprinted at London by Abraham Vele," &c.

b

RALEIGH, SIR WALTER.—Newes of S^r^ Walter Rauleigh. With the true Description of Guiana: As also a Relation of the excellent Government, and much hope of the prosperity of the Voyage &c. From the River Caliana, on the Coast of Guiana, Novemb. 17, 1617. London Printed by H. G. &c. 1618 4to. 24 leaves.

The initials of the writer of this tract, R. M., are placed at the end of it. It seems a very catch-penny publication, relating much more to the discoveries of previous navigators than to the last voyage of Sir Walter Raleigh, an account of which occupies only the three last pages. It probably answered the bookseller's purpose, as two editions of the tract were printed in the same year. On the title-page is a rude wood-cut, meant for Sir Walter Raleigh.

NOTE.—Short-Title Cat., No. 17148. The Christie Miller copy is in the Huntington Library.

XI*a*

Payne, John Thomas, and Foss, Henry. Bibliotheca Grenvilliana. 1842

a

BIBLE, THE HOLY. The Pentateuch, translated by W. Tindale. Emprented at Malborow in the lande of Hesse by me Hans Luft, the yere of oure Lorde 1530, the XVII dayes of Januarii. Wood cuts. 12mo G.M.

"First Edition. This is the First Edition of any portion of the Old Testament in English, and Dr. Geddes says, "Few first Translations will be found equal to it." Dr. Cotton enumerates only Four Copies, and those all Imperfect, some to a very great extent. The Copy in the Baptist's Library, Bristol, wants the whole of Genesis; that in Sion College, the whole of Deuteronomy, and also all the Marginal Notes cut off as directed by an Act of Parliament in 1542. The copy in the B. Museum wants four leaves, including the first and last, and that of Mr. Tutet's supposed to be the late Mr. Heber's; see his Cat. Part II., No. 545, wants thirteen leaves, including the beginning and end." Note by Mr. Evans.

This is, therefore, the only perfect copy known, and is in the most extraordinary beauty and preservation. It was purchased at Mr. Wilkinson's sale.

b

DANIEL, SAMUEL. The first fowre Bookes of the ciuile wars between the two houses of Lancaster and Yorke. London, by P. Short, for Simon Waterson, 1595. To which is added the fifth Booke. 4to. R.

The first four books are by no means of common occurrence, and the fifth, which was subsequently and separately printed, is extremely rare. After this Daniel recommenced the whole work, and published it in 1609, with so many changes and additions that scarcely any ten lines remain the same. The 8, 9, 10, 15, and 49th stanzas of this rare 5th Book were not reprinted.

XII

Allibone, Samuel Austin. Critical Dictionary of English Literature. 1854–71

a

Power, Miss Marguerite A., niece of the Countess of Blessington, has written a memoir of her aunt; for two years edited The Keepsake; and has given to the world three novels, viz.: 1. Evelyn Forrester: a Woman's Story. Lon., 1856, 12mo.

"Unquestionably altogether superior to any work of fiction that proceeded from Lady Blessington's pen."—Jeaffreson's Novels and Novelists, 1858. ii. 386. [Titles of other works follow.]

b

O'Callaghan, E. B., LL.D., has for more than thirty years past contributed to the valuable collections of the New York Historical Society. 1. History of New Netherlands; or, New York under the Dutch N. York, 1846. 8vo; 2d ed., 1848. 2 vols. 8vo; again, 1856. 2 vols. 8vo.

"The author is one of our most thorough historians; and his book is deserving of a place in the library of every lover of sterling historical literature."—Historical Mag., (Boston,) vol. i.192. [Titles of other works follow.]

XVI

Dyce, Alexander. Catalogue of [his] Printed Books [etc.]. 1875

a

BROOKE (FULKE GREVILLE, Lord).

Certaine Learned and Elegant Workes of . . . . Fvlke Lord B.,

written in his youth, and familiar exercise with Sir Philip Sidney. Folio. 1633. (Text, pp. 23–82; then pp. 1–298.) 1432.

"It is supposed that the absent pages, 1 to 22, consisted of a 'Treatise on Religion,' cancelled by order of Apb. Laud."—Lowndes's Bibl. Man. (Bohn's edition), p. 282.

NOTE.—See The Library, 7 (1926–1927): 217–219.

b

DRAYTON (MICHAEL).

*Poems. Collected into one Volume. With sondry peeces inserted neuer before imprinted. (Engraved title-page and portrait.) Sm. folio. Lond., John Smethwick. n.d. 3195.

The pagination throughout the vol. is continuous, but there are several separate titles, all dated 1619.

"I have seen several copies of this Book, in which the [printed] title-page had no portrait on the reverse, and in which the engraved title-page and the two leaves which follow it were not inserted."—MS. note by Mr. Dyce.

XVII

Huth, Henry. The Huth Library Catalogue. 1880

a

SHAKESPEARE, WILLIAM. The Tragicall Historie of Hamlet, Prince of Denmarke. By William Shakespeare. Newly imprinted and enlarged to almost as much againe as it was, according to the true and perfect Coppie. At London by I.[ames] R.[oberts] for N.[icholas] L.[ing] and are to be sold at his shoppe vnder Saint Dunstons Church in Fleet-street. 1604. 4to. R. M.

B-O2 in fours, and the title-page.

In a red morocco binding of the last century, the book itself being in the finest possible condition. This copy has never passed through public auction, but was purchased privately through Messrs. Hatchard, of Piccadilly, who had received it from Scotland. In the cover is the book-plate of Plummer, of Middlestead. Only two other copies are known. This is the first complete edition, that of 1603 being little more than a sketch of the play.

NOTE.—Copies in Folger, Huntington, and at Yale (Elizabethan Club). Short-title Cat., No. 22276. Only three copies of the first title of the first edition of the revised text of Hamlet are known. They are all in America. The unused sheets of this edition were issued in 1605 with no changes except the date on the bottom of the title-page. Two copies of this second title survive, both in England. 1, British Museum; 2, Trinity College, Cambridge.—Henrietta C. Bartlett, Mr. William Shakespeare (1922), No. 80.

b

MILTON, John. Justa Edovardo King naufrago, ab Amicis mœrentibus, amoris & μνείας χάριν.

Si rectè calculum ponas, ubique naufragium est.

Pet. Arb.

Cantabrigiæ: Apud Thomam Buck, & Rogerum Daniel, celeberrimæ Academiæ typographos. 1638. 4to.

A-I2 in fours, but E has 6 leaves.

The first edition of Milton's "Lycidas" is contained in this volume. Prefixed is an account of King in Latin, printed in capitals, and supposed by Warton to have been written either by Milton or Henry More, the Platonist. The volume is divided into two portions, the first containing the Latin and Greek tributes, the second those in English, with a separate title: "Obsequies to the memorie of Mr. Edward King, Anno Dom. 1638." Among the writers of the English elegies are Henry King, John Cleveland, and J.[ohn] H.[all, of Cambridge?]. Milton's "Lycidas" appropriately crowns the collection, coming last in order. It bears only his initials.

XX

Sinker, Robert. Early English Books in Trinity College. 1885

a

(474) Capell Q. II (iii).—Will Shakespeare, A Midsommer nights dreame. As it hath beene sundry times publikely acted, by the Right Honourable, the Lord Chamberlaine his seruants. Written by William Shakespeare. London, Iames Roberts, 1600: ff. 32, char. rom. c. sig. (A-H^4), quarto.

Below the title is the device of the half-eagle and Key used by Rowland Hall. . . . .

This edition is apparently subsequent to that printed by Thomas Fisher in the same year. See Mr. Ebsworth's Introduction to Grigg's Photolithographic fac-simile of this edition of the play (1880).

b

(598) Capell s. 19.—Edm. Spenser. The Faerie Qveene. Disposed into twelue books, Fashioning xii, Morall vertues. London, (John Wolfe) for William Ponsonbie, 1590: ff. 308, char. rom., c. sig. (A-Pp^8 Qq^4) et pp. n., quarto.

The pagination only extends to the end of sig. Pp. on the last page of which are the "Faults escaped in the Print." In sig. Qq are contained 15 sonnets to Sir Chris. Hatton, Lord Burleigh, etc. On p. 332, two blank spaces are left for the Welsh words.

The name of the actual printer of the present work is not given, but it was doubtless John Wolfe, whose device, the fleur-de-lys seeding, is on the title-page.

The above is the first edition of the first three books.

Herbert 1273, Grenville 680, Huth, 1386.

XX*a*

Edmond, John Philip. The Aberdeen Printers. 1886

a

WEDDERBURNE, David. A Short Introduction/To Grammar,/ Compyled for the Instruction/of Youth,/By Publique Authoritie./ [Arms of the City of Aberdeen.]

Aberdene,/Printed by Edward Raban,/Cum Privilegio. 1637./

8°. A-F in eights. Anonymous: by David Wedderburn. $A1^1$ Title, $A1^2$ "Lectori," A2-F8, pp. 4-[96] (p. 4 on $A2^2$), "An Introduction to Grammar." Page 60 is marked 90, and 62–63 are numbered 61–62, the last three pages are not numbered. The running title is in some sheets "An Introduction To Grammar," and in others "An Instruction to Grammar." University Library, Aberdeen.

b

BRIEFE Chronicle. A Briefe Chronicle,/Of all the Kinges of/ Scotland:/Declaring in what yeare of the Worlde, and/of Christ, they began to reigne,/how long they reigned, of what qua-/lities they were, and how/they died./

Aberdene,/Printed By Edward Raban,/For David Melvill, 1623./

8°. A-C in eights. A1 has woodcut devices on both sides. $A2^1$ Title, $A2^2$ Scottish Arms within borders, A3-$C7^1$ Briefe Chronicle. Colophon at foot of $C7^1$—"From Aberdene, 1623. Jan. 30." [Old Style] $C7^2$-$C8^2$ Woodcut Devices only. British Museum.

XXI

Locker-Lampson, Frederick. Catalogue. 1886

a

FLETCHER, John. Cvpids Revenge. () As it hath beene diuers times Acted by the Children of her Majesties Reuels. ¶By John Fletcher. London Printed by Thomas Creede for Iosias Harison, and are to bee solde at the Golden Anker in Pater-Noster-Row. 1615. 4to. [1st Edition].

Two leaves: B-L3, in fours. Title and "The Printer to the Reader," 2 leaves.

This tragedy was performed on "The Sunday ffollowing [after' Neweres night,' 1611–12] by the Children of Whitefriars." It is based upon Sir Phillip Sidney's Arcadia. Fletcher was helped in its production by Beaumont, and the edition of 1630 appeared under their joint names.

Mr. Huth does not possess this edition, but it is noted in his catalogue as of extreme rarity.

Half Calf.

b

LYDGATE, JOHN. [Begins fol. aa.ii] Here begynneth a lytell treatyse of the horse | the shepe | and the goos. [William Caxton: Westminster, 1480?] 4to. B.L.

aa, bb, in sixes, bb iii misprinted aaii. 12 leaves.

Without a Titlepage. On both sides of fol. aai are full page woodcuts representing a Lion ruling the animal world.

Printed by William Caxton, and with his sign in the colophon.

Several editions of this book seem to have been issued.

Brown Mor., by Bedford, tooled back, panelled sides, g.e.

XXI*a*

Dickson, Robert, and Edmond, John Philip. Annals of Scottish Printing. 1890

a

1580 The Kingis Maie-/steis Proclamatioun togidder with/148 certane Actis of Parliament maid anent the/aduersaris of Christis Euangell./

Quarto, printed in black-letter, without paging, but with signatures A^4B^4 The first leaf is blank, except the signature Aj. Aij-iij, pp. [4], the Proclamation; Aiiij-B_3, pp. [8], "Anent the Messe abolischit." Colophon on $B_3{}^b$—"¶ Imprentit at Edin-/burgh be Iohne Ros./ Anno Do. 1580./Cum Priuilegio Regali./" B4 is wanting, but was probably a blank leaf.

There are copies in the libraries of Trinity College, Cambridge, and Lambeth Palace.

b

1581 The Forme and Maner of examination before the 154. admission to y^e^ tabill of y^e^ Lord, vsit be y^e^ Ministerie of Edinburgh. And geuin to y^e^ Maisteris of euerie familie: yat be ye oft reading yairof, yai may be ye better instructit in ye groundis & principall yeidis of Religion.

Imprentit at Edinburgh. By Henrie Charteris. Anno, M.D. LXXXI. Cum Priuilegio Regali.

Octavo. Black-letter. A-C in eights.

A copy of this work was in Dr. David Laing's Library, No. 1205 of Part I. of the sale catalogue. The above description is from W. C. Hazlitt's "Collections," 2nd Series, p. 138.

XXII

Grolier Club. Catalogue; Langland to Wither. 1893

a

77 DRAYTON, MICHAEL.

Ideas|Mirrovr.|Amovrs|In Qvatorzains.|Che serue é tace assai domanda.|At London,|Printed by Iames Roberts, for Nicholas|Linge. Anno. 1594.

Quarto.

COLLATION: A, two leaves; B-G, in fours; H, two leaves. Title as above, with printer's device preceding the imprint, A 1; on the verso, a list of errata. Dedication, "To the deere Chyld of the Muses, and his ever kind Mecænas, Ma. Anthony Cooke, Esquire," A2; on the verso, a poem of eighteen lines signed "Gorbo il fidele." The sonnets, B1-H2 (verso blank).

One of the earliest and rarest of Drayton's productions. Of the fifty-one sonnets which it contains, twenty-two were never republished. Fleay, in his "Biographical Chronicle of the English Drama" (vol. 1, p. 146), identifies the subject of the sonnets with Anne Goodere, whom the poet celebrates under the name of "Idea."

b

201 ROWLANDS, SAMUEL.

Diogenes|Lanthorne|In Athens I seeke for honest men,|But I shall find them God knows when.|Ile search the City, where if I can see|One honest man, he shall go with mee.|London|¶ Printed by I. H. for Robert Bird, at the signe|of the Bible in Cheape-side, 1628.

Quarto. Black letter.

COLLATION: A-F 1, in fours.

Title as above, with large woodcut of Diogenes standing, lantern in hand, in front of his tub, A 1; on verso, "¶ Prologue," in verse, signed Samuel Rowlands. The work, under the title "Diogenes in his Lanthorne Humour," A2—F1.

The first edition was issued in 1607; and numerous editions followed.

XXIV

Madan, Falconer. Oxford Press. 1895

a

1613

11. Gamage, William. LINSI-WOOLSIE. | OR | TWO CENTVRIES OF | EPIGRAMMES. | Written by WILLIAM GAMAGE Batche- | lour in the Artes. | [motto: then device.]

Impr. 29: 1613: (eights) 12°: pp. [80], signn. A-E^{8}: sign. B1^{r} beg. Which vpward's: Pica Roman. Contents:—sign. A1^{r}, title: A2^{r}–A2^{v}, dedication to Katherine lady Mansell, daughter of lord Lisle: A3^{r}-A5^{r}, complimentary verses to the author: A5^{v}, "The Author to the Praisers of his booke," a short poem: A6^{r}-E8^{v}, the 200 epigrams.

Very rare: see Wood's Ath. Oxon., ii.350. This author escaped Wood's notice altogether, and his claim to be an Oxford man eluded even dr. Bliss when he edited Wood in 1815: but he subsequently writes in a MS. note, "I have now no doubt but that the author Linsi-Woolsie was of Jesus, matriculated May 18, 1604, a native of Glamorgan, pleb. fil., æt. 20: B.A. Dec. 17, 1607." The verses are extremely poor. The only copy at present known is that in the British Museum, which was the Heber copy (Heber sale, 1834, pt. 1, p. 141, no. 2734.)

NOTE.—"Impr. 29," above, refers to p. 296, where the imprint is given in full as "At Oxford, printed by Joseph Barnes, and are to be sold by John Barnes, dwelling near Holborn Conduit [London]. 1612–13 (also fictitious)." A second copy is now in the Huntington Library (Bibliog. Soc., Short-Title Cat., No. 11544).

b

20. Oxford, University. [woodcut] | EPITHALAMIA. | SIVE | LVSVS PALA- | tini in nvptias celissi- | mi principis domini fride- | rici comitis palatini ad | RHENVM, &C. ET SERENISSI- | MÆ ELISABETHÆ IACOBI | POTENTISSIMI BRIT- | TANNIÆ REGIS | FILIÆ PRIMO- | GENITÆ | [device.]

Imp. 31: 1613: sm 4°: pp. [128], signn. ( )^{2} A-P^{4} Q^{2}: sign. B1^{r} beg. Cur^{c} Atalanta, M1^{r} Impar nulla: English Roman. Contents:—sign. ( )1^{r} title: ( )2^{r} "Oxonia Heydelbergæ", a short poem: A1^{r}-Q2^{v}, the verses.

Poems by Oxford men on the marriage of Frederick v. elector Palatine, with the princess Elizabeth of England on 14 Feb. 161$\frac{2}{3}$. All are Latin except five Greek, two Italian and one Hebrew (unpointed, Pica and Brevier).

NOTE.—"Impr. 31," above, refers to p. 297, where the imprint is given in full, as follows: "31. Oxoniæ, excudebat Josephus Barnesius, & Londini væneunt apud Johannem Barnesium propè aqueductum Holborniensem. 1613." A copy of this work is also in the Huntington Library.

XXV

Sayle, Charles Edward. Early English Printed Books in the University Library Cambridge. 1900–1907

a

5313. Oxford University. Epithalamia. sive Lvsvs Palatini in nvptias . . . Friderici comitis Palatini . . . et . . . Elisabethæ . . . Oxoniæ, Excudebat Josephus Barnesius, & Londini væneunt apud Johannem Barnesium . . . 1613. 4° Dd*. 3. 42[6] (E).
Device 3.

——— Another copy. R. 10. 33[6] (sel).
BM 12. Haz. 1. 172. Madan 92.

b

5323. Day (John). Day's Festivals or, twelve of his sermons . . . Printed at Oxford by Ioseph Barnes. 1615. 4° Syn. 7.61.99.
With Day's device.
BM.457. Madan 120

XXVII

Aldis, Harry G. A List of Books Printed in Scotland Before 1700. 1904

a

1568

—68 Actis of parliament of . . . Iames the sext . . . (15 Dec. 1567). F°. (DE. 63) Lekpreuik. B.
69 Fall of the Romane kirk. (DE. 122) [1568?] Bassandyne.
—70 Lindsay (Sir D.) The warkis . . . 4°. (De. 30) (expensis of H. Charteris) J. Scot.
—71 Proclamation, by the Regent. Declaring the purpose of thame quho assistit with our Souerane Lordis Mother, &c. s.sh. (DE.66) Lekpreuik. B.
—72———7 May, by the Regent. Anent the tressonable conspiratouris . . . s.sh. (DE. 65) Lekpreuik. B.
73 Skene (Gilbert) Ane breve descriptiovn of the pest . . . 8° (DE. 64). Lekpreuik.

NOTE.— "—" before the number, indicates that a full collation has been obtained; "(DE. 63)," a reference to Dickson and Edmond; "B," that a copy is in the British Museum; and "s.sh." that it is a single sheet unfolded.

Number	Publication Dates	Author	Biographical Notice	Bibliographical Titles	Examples	Remarks
I.....	1709–70	Leland	17	69
II.....	1548–49	Bale	17	69
II, 2....	1902	Poole and Bateson	18	70
III.....	1691–92	Wood	18	70
III, 2...	1721	Tanner	18	70
III, 3...	1813–20	Bliss	19	71
IV.....	1749	Ames	19	71
IV, 2....	1785–90	Herbert	20	71	82
IV, 3....	1810–19	Dibdin	21	71
V.....	1764	Baker	21	72
V, 2.....	1782	Reed	22	72
V, 3.....	1812	Jones	22	72
VI.....	1802	Ritson	23	72
VII.....	1805–15	Brydges	24	72
VIII....	1815	Griffith	25	73	83	Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica
IX.....	1824	Watt	26	73	83
X.....	1834	Lowndes	27	73
X, 2....	1869	Bohn	28	73
XI.....	1837–65	Collier	29	74	84
XI*a*.....	1842–72	Payne and Foss	32	74	85	Bibliotheca Grenvilliana
XII.....	1854–71	Allibone	33	74	86
XII, 2...	1891	Kirk	35	75
XIII....	1860–83	Corser	36	75		Collectanea Anglo-Poetica
XIV....	1861–82	Blades	38	75
XIV, 2..	1909	De Ricci	40
XIV, 3..	1917	Duff	41
XV.....	1867–1903	Hazlitt	41	75
XVI....	1875	Dyce	47	76	86
XVII...	1880–1912	Huth	49	77	87
XVIII..	1884	British Museum	51	77		Books Printed down to 1640
XIX....	1885–1930	Stephen and Lee	52	77		Dictionary of National Biography
XX.....	1885	Sinker	54	78	88
XX*a*....	1886	Edmond	55	78	89
XXI....	1886–1900	Locker-Lampson	56	78	89
XXI*a*...	1890	Dickson and Edmond	57	78	90
XXII...	1893	Grolier Club	58	79	91	Langland to Wither
XXIII..	1895	John Rylands Library	59	79		Early English Books
XXIV ..	1895–1912	Madan	59	79	92
XXV...	1900–1907	Sayle	61	79	93
XXVI ..	1905	Hoe	62	80
XXVII .	1904	Aldis	63	80	83
XXVIII.	1905	Grolier Club	64	80		Wither to Prior
XXIX ..	1909	Church	65	80
XXX...	1919–20	Huntington	65	80
XXXI ..	1914–26	White	66	81

Part I. Introduction 1
Part II. What Should Be Found in Bibliographies 12
Parts III, IV, and V. See Synoptical Index (above)